Noguchi, Brave Fighter.
Buy It, Keep It, Get Rich.
John D.'s Apt Question.
Midnight Candidates.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1928.

THE death of Dr. Noguchi, a courageous Japanese scientist, is a great loss to the world.

Backed by the Rockefeller Institute, Noguchi was a leader in the war against disease, and poverty and misery born of disease.

Yellow fever killed him at last, as he sought for more knowledge in the African yellow fever regions.

Some bronze bandit on horseback should give his high place to Noguchi, whose memory really deserves honor.

WHEN the steamer Columbus landed at Bremerhafen on Monday, eight passengers got into a flying machine and landed in Berlin seven hours ahead of the fast train. And all those passengers in a hurry were American business men. Americans will fly if you give them the opportunity.

BUY the right thing in America, keep it and you grow rich.

For instance, $6,000 invested in National City Bank stock 20 years ago is worth $27,000 now. And that is a comparatively small increase.

FIFTY dollars invested in General Motors during the war, when Otto H. Kahn advised friends to buy it, is worth $5,000 now.

All depends on management, that is to say, on MEN. Investment in a good man and a good organization is the safest.

INCREASING prosperity increases the number of American investors. In 15 years they have grown more than 3,000 per cent. Fifteen million Americans bought securities in 1927. Fifteen years ago only 500,000 Americans bought securities.

ARE you investing money in "investment trusts?" If so, do you know the people that invest your money?

John D. Rockefeller, long ago, was advised to buy stock in a certain company because "the So and So railroad is going to guarantee dividends for 99 years."

"Did he happen to tell you," asked Mr. Rockefeller, "who was going to guarantee that railroad?"

MR. WICKERSHAM warns the Republican politicians against nominating a "midnight candidate," saying "the country is not in any mood to accept another Harding."

Among Republican managers that have "midnight" ideas, even the tamest that ever ate from a Wall Street hand, there is vague perception of the fact that a real candidate will be needed with Al Smith running.

WALL STREET, unhappy yesterday, decides that the four-hour day, ending at 2 p. m., is a mistake.

That "2 p. m." in New York is 11 a. m. on the Pacific Coast, too early for business to get well started.

DR. MAX MASON, leaving the Chicago University presidency to join the Rockefeller Foundation, foresees in years to come "a world free of hunger, poverty and illness, peopled by men understanding the workings of their own minds." Dr. Mason says: "We may even colonize other planets some day."

These planets are "colonized" now, undoubtedly many of them, let us hope, looking in pity upon this poor, sick planet with its plagues, wars and cheating.

$600,000,000 in the Rockefeller Foundation will help Dr. Mason to answer the questions:

"What makes men unhappy? Why should men go hungry, etc?"

An answer that doesn't cost anything is this:

Men are unhappy and hungry because they are ignorant, and because powerful men use their brains to collect wealth that they don't need instead of helping those that need help.

TWO hundred more may die in Hamburg, killed by deadly phosgene war gas accidentally released.

Americans should realize that a country not protected against airplanes that would drop such gas on cities is a foolish country.

It is particularly foolish when, as in our case, it is the richest nation in the world, doubly and trebly foolish when it buys useless battleships, spending on one battleship enough money to build a complete air fleet.

BUSINESS men in Europe are outraged by high interest rates paid on American loans and the big "rake-off" of American financiers handling the loans.

The worst is that, when the time comes to repudiate some of those foreign bonds, they will be in the hands of little American investors far from the vaults of the "rake-off" gentlemen.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who was flying over the North Atlantic only a year and a few days ago in quest of fame and fortune, today started earning his second million.

The Association of Ex-Marathon Dancers was gaining a fair share of recruits in Homestead today. At 2 o'clock, with the shuffle in Stahl Gardens 62 hours old, the field had been reduced to 67 couples from the field of 185 pairs that waltzed off Sunday midnight.

Eighteen couples fell out of the contest between midnight and 2 o'clock and indications were that the day would see the surrender of several more couples. Many plainly showed the effects of the grind in Stahl's Gardens.

Fred Bonenberger, 30, oldest contestant, and his sister, Beatrice, of 112 Highland avenue, were still going strong with the field being narrowed.

Those who quit since midnight and their elapsed time follow:

Cecelia Vann and Andrew Vann, 48 hours 30 minutes.

Minnie Angle and Arthur Ferrara, 40 hours 10 minutes.

Robert Shifflett and Eva Ehmare, 50 hours 25 minutes.

Dewey Leopold and Lela Parker, 50 hours 30 minutes.

Jean Gross and James Rickert, 51 hours 25 minutes.

Anne White and John Sheg, 51 hours 25 minutes.

Clara DeSimone and Joseph Hines, 51 hours 45 minutes.

Caroline Colbert and John Flickner, 52 hours 5 minutes.

Mary Virkavic and Joseph Dabenjoy, 52 hours 15 minutes.

Mary Clark and James Mann, 52 hours 30 minutes.

Adelaide Healy and Fred Bensock, 52 hours 45 minutes.

Edith Bushman and Salvatore Fischetti, 53 hours.

Peter Shafer and Anna Gerrigan, 54 hours.

Harry Rettzel and Anne Banko, 54 hours.

Violet Schwab and Joseph Regson, 56 hours 30 minutes.

Joseph Margula and Celia Hoburich, 57 hours 15 minutes.

Sophie Edainsly and John Senick, 58 hours, 20 minutes.

Frances Benedict and Patsy Ceratto, 61 hours 25 minutes.

BUSH ORDERS PIRATES TO BED EARLY

CINCINNATI, May 23.—Mailed fist, iron heel and such other equipment as irate managers are accustomed to use in massaging the countenances of slumping athletes were brought into play by Pilot Donie Bush last night when he ordered each and every member of the Pirate squad to forego any activity that smacked of entertainment.

Thoroughly disgusted, somewhat angered and a little dismayed by the Bucs' feat of dropping three of their last four games to the Reds, Manager Bush ordered that no player leave the hotel in the evening, and that all retire at an early hour. Even such mild entertainment as "movie" shows came under the universal ban, and those not spending their idle hours in a discussion of baseball are expected to indulge in contemplation of the diamond sport.

Although not confident that the new ruling will help the Bucs to shake their slump, Donie is certain that it can do no harm, and he expects to keep the amendment to the Corsair constitution in effect indefinitely.

222 DEAD IN 3 MINE BLASTS

Associated Press.

Indications were today that 222 workers had lost their lives in three coal mine explosions in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky since Saturday, as follows:

MATHER, Pa.—164 known dead, 33 missing.

YUKON, W. Va.—Known dead, 13; missing, 4.

HARLAN, Ky. — Known dead, 7; missing, 1.

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

PIT MOUTH, MATHER, Pa., May 23—Bodies of the 197 victims of Mather's first disaster which began pouring out of the shaft yesterday noon continued their gruesome procession throughout the night under the escort of tireless rescuers who have not let up for a moment since Saturday evening.

A steady stream of rescue teams passed back and forth in an endless line between the main shaft and the machine shop in which emergency undertaking rooms have been set up. More than 150 bodies have been recovered it is said. The bodies are prepared for burial here and removed to the temporary morgue in the public square.

One hundred and sixty-four bodies have been brought to the surface.

It was said that state inspectors would enter the blast-swept tunnels just as soon as the mine was ven-

Poll Tells Why of Votes

Early returns from The Sun-Telegraph's presidential poll show intense interest throughout Western Pennsylvania in the outlook for Hoover and Smith. The citizens are eager to know how the region stands in reference to the two candidates that at this time seem most likely to receive the nominations of the major parties, and are helping to satisfy the universal curiosity by indicating their own choice on ballots provided by this newspaper.

In a number of cases the voters, not content with merely voting, have expressed their views in spicy comment. Some defend their votes with calm logic; others air their feelings in passionate words. Here are some piquant examples of the contributions:

A citizen who voted for Davis four years ago says he will vote for Hoover, but adds, "If Coolidge doesn't run."

TURNS AGAINST G. O. P.

On the other hand, a voter whose ballot went to Coolidge at the last election announces his intention to vote for Smith. "I have been a life-long Republican," he says, "but will vote for any candidate the Democrats nominate. If the present party keeps in power four years longer, the millionaires will have all the money, and there will be nothing for the middle class."

A former partisan of Robert M. LaFollette is for Smith, because, he says, "the public wants a more liberal interpretation of the eighteenth amendment."

A number of others say they are

COOLIDGE VETOES FARM RELIEF SECOND TIME

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP.)—PPresident Coolidge today vetoed the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill.

Thus for the second time in as many years that Mr. Coolidge has disapproved a farm plan embodying the equalization fee machinery for surplus crop control.

Whether there will be any farm relief enacted this season now is up to Congress.

How Strong Is Al Smith In Western Pennsylvania?

TO answer this question, that is heard everywhere in Pittsburgh today, the Sun-Telegraph prints a ballot below.

These ballots will not appear every day, but occasionally, and on those days no extra papers will be delivered to any agent nor will papers be sold in bulk to any individual or organzation. Ballots received in bulk will not be counted. No more than three in one envelop. Thus a fairly accurate estimate of the relative strength of Hoover and Smith may be secured.

Watch the Sun-Telegraph for an early announcement of the results.

For President of the United States, I expect to vote for—

HOOVER ☐ SMITH ☐

(Mark X after your choice)

Four years ago I voted for—

COOLIDGE ☐ DAVIS ☐

Lieut. C. E. Bauch of the dirigible Los Angeles was placed in command of the teams, and Lieut. F. W. Reichelderfer of the Bureau of Aeronautics was named as the aerological officer.

Both balloons are from the Naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J. The crew of No. 1 is composed of Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, of Washington, pilot, and chief boatswain's mate, G. W. Steelman, of Knoxville, Tenn., aide.

Lieut. J. H. Stevens, of Vandalia, Mich., is pilot and Lieut. George F. Watson, of Shellman, Ga., is aide of balloon No. 2.

The winner of the race will represent the United States in the international balloon race for the Gordon Bennett trophy at Detroit, June 30. In the event an American entry wins the race this year, America will become the permanent holder of the cup, having won the race for the last two years.

PAY DAY ADVANCED

The Pickands-Mather Company, owners of the mine, advanced the regular pay day a week and paid off today. Many of the pay envelopes went to widows whose husbands lost their lives in the explosion. It was announced that the company holding group insurance on the workers, would pay all claims without the usual formalities.

Members of a Vesta mine rescue crew disclosed today that a cave-in had prevented them from saving 11 entombed men. They dug through the fall last night and reached the bodies in butt No. 7 on the left. Indications were, they said, that the men had been dead only a few hours.

WELCH, W. Va., May 23.—(AP.)—With 13 badly mangled bodies recovered, trained rescue men pushed their way forward through the battered workings of the No. 1 mine of the Yukon-Pocahontas Coal Company at Yukon today seeking four other victims of an explosion last night. Hope was abandoned that any would be found alive. Forty men were in the mine at the time of the blast, but 23 of them escaped safely through the main entry.

SEVEN DEAD; ONE MISSING

HARLAN, Ky., May 23.—(AP.)—The explosion in the Black Mountain Coal mine near here yesterday took at least seven lives and possibly eight. Seven bodies had been recovered today, and one man named Romano was known to be missing.

Seven rescue workers were overcome by gas last night and were brought out unconscious by a crew equipped with gas masks. They were expected to recover.

DRAINING LAKES FOR GIRL

Booze Witness Asks Immunity

DRY LAKES IN GIRL HUNT

By T. H. B. PATTERSON,
Staff Correspondent.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 23.—Glacier Lake and Lake Cohasset in Mill Creek Park will be drained today in the search for Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10, who disappeared 10 days ago and who, by some investigators, is believed to have been slain. High school boys dived into the lakes yesterday for hours in search for the child's body while city firemen and policemen spent the day dragging the waters.

Plans are also being made for the draining of the hidden chasms and crevices of "bottomless pool" in the park. This is believed to be an almost impossible task. South Side park lake was drained yesterday after fruitless hours spent in the search.

This is the tenth day of the child's disappearance and those conducting the search believe that if she had been thrown into the lake her body would have risen by today.

A string of beads, thought to have belonged to the child, were found in Mill Creek park and other articles belonging to a child were found near the "bottomless pool."

Cisterns were searched yesterday after Mrs. W. H. Martin of 464 Evergreen avenue told police she dreamed she saw the missing child at a cistern pump and talking with her.

Police also will investigate the story that three men had been seen burying something at the end of East Earl avenue early last Thursday.

2 MORE VOTE BOARDS PLEAD NO DEFENSE

Members of two more election boards pleaded no defense today to negligence at the September primaries, before Judges H. H. Rowand and J. Frank Graff, in the vote fraud prosecutions.

"Stupid erasures" was the principal offense charged by Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, who said no evidence of deliberate cheating had been disclosed. One defendant blamed defective marking of ballots on "poor lights." Boards entering pleas were:

Twenty-fourth District, Nineteenth Ward—James F. Bingham, James Howard, James H. Abbott, Joseph Howard, James F. Finn.

Tenth District, Twentieth Ward—Michael R. Carlin, John Walters, Thomas J. Byrnes, Jerry Rubin, F. W. Reed.

Ballots of the former board showed more than 100 erasures, the court was told, but all candidates apparently profited by the board's mistakes.

TOLD U. S. JURY OF SALES

An immunity bath is sought by Joseph Markiewicz, saloonkeeper, of South Eleventh and Sarah streets, as a result of his testimony before the federal grand jury conducting the booze probe.

Today, through his attorney, Warren H. VanKirk, Markiewicz filed a "plea in bar" in the Federal court in which he cites that in obedience to a subpena, he testified before the grand jury to matters pertaining to an investigation, which involved the sale and possession of intoxicating liquors, and he is therefore entitled to immunity on the present information.

An information charging sale of liquor on April 5, and possession of liquor on April 13, had been made against Markiewicz.

Others who have testified, it is believed, will seek to gain immunity as a result of their testimony.

This is the eleventh day of the probe and more than 600 witnesses are yet to be heard.

Air-Rail Co. Gets Lindy

ducted between New York and Los Angeles by the recently formed Trans-continental Air Transport, Inc.

Airplane stocks in Wall Street soared this morning on the news that Lindbergh had entered the business field. Curtiss Aero jumped 10 points in early trading on the exchange to 130 and Wright Aero also made a 10-point advance to 178.

Lindbergh's acceptance of the position with the Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc., definitely disposed of rumors to the effect that he was making arrangements for a trip in June by air to Europe with intermediate stops in Labrador, Greenland and Iceland.

MILLION ALREADY

It is estimated that Lindy already has earned a million dollars from various enterprises, including newspaper articles and the book "We." What his salary in his new job will be was not revealed by C. M. Keys, president, of the Transcontinental, but it is believed that he received a large share of the $5,000,000 capital stock at which the air rail company was organized.

Lindbergh, in seclusion this morning, was eagerly sought for details of his new work. As chairman of the concern's technical committee, he will play an important part in the development of the most ambitious commercial air enterprise yet undertaken in America.

The technical committee which Col. Lindbergh will head will be composed of practical aviation men. The complete personnel has not been announced, but it is understood the committee will include five members.

"All matters concerning choice of equipment, fields, general service, flying routes, safety appliances and the like will come under the authority of this committee," Keys said.

Col. Lindbergh, however, will not be a flying member of the organization.

The Transcontinental Air Transport Company recently announced it would inaugurate a coast-to-coast service, part train and part plane, in conjunction with the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads, carrying passengers in Pullmans by nights and in planes by day. The schedule calls for a coast-to-coast journey in 48 hours at a cost "reasonably higher than the present train fare."

Passengers would go from New York to Columbus, O., by train, taking a plane there and reaching a point in the Middle West, possibly Wichita, before nightfall. From Wichita they would travel on the Santa Fe to some point in New Mexico or Arizona, and again change to planes to complete the trip to the coast. One figure estimated the fare would be in the neighborhood of $400 as compared with the $235 train fare.

ENGINEERS ESTIMATING DAMAGES

City engineers are studying a proposal to widen Dithridge street between Fifth avenue and Bayard street. The Better Traffic Committee has recommended changing the thoroughfare, a 30-foot roadway at present, to a 54-foot street from curb to curb. Engineers are making surveys with a view of estimating damages which would result from the improvement.

Aluminum Labor Shortage Big Factor in Cost, Says Official

ALUMINUM LABORERS SCARCE

Labor difficulties which curtail the production of aluminum would be at least partially eliminated if the Aluminum Company of America had competition, Richard P. Whiteley, attorney for the Federal Trade Commission, suggested today in the course of the commission's investigation of the company. But I. W. Wilson, general superintendent of smelting plants, who was on the witness stand at the time, and whose testimony brought the subject up, would not admit it.

TRAINING HELP EXPENSIVE

Testifying concerning factors which had affected production, Wilson mentioned that every man who entered the company's employ was "a green hand" and had to be trained. Whiteley maintained that this was because the Aluminum Company had a monopoly. If there were competing companies, he contended, there would be available a large floating supply of trained labor.

Wilson said that to maintain a payroll of 2,400 men at its Messina, N. Y., plant, the company during a five-month period in 1920 had to pay railroad fares of 7,400 men.

SHIPPING COSTS HIGH

Transportation difficulties also curtailed production, he said, because for every pound of aluminum produced it was necessary to ship two pounds of alumina to the reduction plants from the company's East St. Louis works. Alumina is the intermediate material between bauxite, the ore, and the finished metal.

Wilson freely discussed the production at the company's various plants and the factors which increased or decreased it up to the year 1925, but when he was questioned concerning the present production declined to answer on advice of counsel.

BALL STARS TO DIRECT TRAFFIC

Base-stealing tactics are not advised for pedestrians in their haste to cross automobile infested streets, according to the mandate of the Better Traffic Committee in its safety campaign. To show the pedestrian that the chances for running into a double play threaten him in his stealing across the highways in heavy traffic, a group of baseball stars will assist the cornerman downtown tomorrow in guarding the crossings. Paul and Lloyd Waner, Sparky Adams and Ralston Hemsley, of the Pirates, and Charlie Grimm, Kiki Cuyler, Hack Wilson and other Chicago Cubs will perform as traffic directors during the noon hour.

Pedestrian Week is beginning to yield results, so traffic officers say, and there is less crowding off the sidewalks at dangerous corners and fewer persons risk their lives by crossing busy streets between intersections. Talk on pedestrian safety will be given from the four local radio stations tomorrow and speakers will appear before the various luncheon clubs.

UP AND DOWN

Hundreds joined the crowd that filled Market street between Sun-Tele Want Ad corner and Liberty avenue to hear its daily lesson, during Pedestrian Week, on safety. Here Hoseman George Jackson, company No. 3, climbed a ladder rung by rung for each accident death reported.

PROSECUTOR BOMBED; DEFIES GANGSTERS

International News Service.

KENOSHA, Wis., May 23.—The home of Lewis W. Powell, district attorney of Kenosha county, was in partial ruins today following the explosion of a powerful bomb which endangeerd the lives of the prosecutor and his family.

The blast occurred last night shortly after Attorney Powell and his four children had retired. They were hurled from their beds, but escaped serious injury. Mrs. Powell was attending a lodge meeting at the time.

Powell's recent drive against bootleggers and liquor-dispensing roadhouses throughout the county explains, in his opinion, the attack on his life and property. Following the explosion, Powell admitted he had received threats.

"My term does not expire until January 1," said the District Attorney, "but if this is an attempt to intimidate me from running again, I may as well announce my candidacy for re-election now."

Will Discovers Humor in Story On Gambling

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 23.—Big headline in the paper says "Three newspapermen arrested in connection with horse race betting." In the adjoining column, "Wall Street stock market reaches another four million. Call money is the highest in its history."

Will Rogers.

You don't have to look much further in the paper for humor than that. And we call Latin-American governments primitive for allowing lotteries. We only have one rule, if you can build a business up big enough it's respectable. Just a sore head because I didn't have any General Motors.

Yours,
WILL.

P. S. Did you know those footracers run 76 miles Monday, that's three full length marathons in one day. Try to ride a horse 76 miles in one day and you'll truck him back home.

Pittsburgh AS OTHERS SEE US

"Pittsburgh is the Rodin of American cities."
ISAAC F. MARCOSSON.

ISAAC F. MARCOSSON, editor, born in Louisville, Ky., September 13, 1877. Joined the staff of the Louisville Times in 1894, and was associate editor of the World's Work, 1903-7. Is well known as a writer on financial topics and for his contributions to the Saturday Evening Post. Resides in New York City.

ISAAC F. MARCOSSON

Pittsburgh is the Rodin of American cities. I say this because Rodin was the sculptor of vast as well as symbolic things, combining almost primitive strength with virile beauty. So with Pittsburgh. She has created a vital cross-section of American life and achievement as distinct and characteristic in its relation to the larger national development as is the oil industry to the drama of American industrial effort. Both are highly individualistic. Therefore they stand out vividly in the mosaic which is the United States.

BLIMP ON POLE DASH

(Copyright by the Associated Press, 1928)

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 23.—(AP.)—The dirigible Italia started northward at 4:40 a. m. today across the polar ice cap with the North Pole, some 750 miles away, as its objective.

Gen. Umebrto Nobile, commander of the expedition, hoped to land at the pole itself to make explorations and to plant a cross given him by Pope Pius.

This cross was blessed and kissed by Father Safranohci, the priest of the expedition, just before the start. The crew of the Italia witnessed the ceremony.

20 BURIALS SET FOR TODAY

MATHER, Pa., May 23.—Abandoning hope of finding more living in the Marther mine, rescue forces have turned their attention to getting out the bodies of the dead, which were prepared for burial and then taken to the temporary morgue in the Public Square for identification.

As relatives of victims claimed them and completed funeral arrangements, the bodies were removed. Some were shipped to other places for burial, but many were being laid to rest at Jefferson and at Waynesburg. A score or more funerals are planned for today.

'MESSENGER TO OFFICIAL'—or—25 Years in One Bank

A COMMUNITY'S CONGRATULATIONS

Twenty-five years ago, Henry Henning organized the St. Clair Savings and Trust Company and was elected president. His son, Frank Henning, was employed as messenger. For a quarter century they have worked side by side. The father is still president but the son is secretary and treasurer as the bank celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary.

FATHER AND SON

"Now we'll go another 25 years," the father, 81, said. A reception was tendered officials of the bank and Mr. Henning and his son were honored guests. Bankers, residents of Knoxville and businessmen attended.

Outdoor Mass -:- AS HAMLET MOURNS ITS DEAD -:- Rescuers Continue

MASS

Mather, mining hamlet visited by one of the country's greatest tragedies, unites to mourn its dead, carried from the pits of the colliery by worn-out rescuers groping since Saturday in their probe into the gas-filled workings. Here, inhabitants of the village kneel in prayer.

SERVICES

Roman Catholics held mass in the little public square, out-of-doors, and shortly afterwards Protestant denominations held services at the same shrine. Here, Father C. F. Gwyer, Waynesburg; Father J. Majka, and Father J. E. Martin, Nemacolin; and Father George Martin, Washington, lead Catholic mourning.

ONE 'BITE' - THEN BACK!

UNENDING

While a hamlet sorrows in its common grief, rescue teams shamble in and out of the mine, sleeping a little and working long, stopping only for short minutes to swallow hastily-prepared food. Here is a canteen set up near the shaft-mouth to feed rescue teams and miners seeking the hidden dead.

FIRE ENDANGERS OIL WORKS

Firemen early today were called to the Standard Oil Works plant at Fifty-first and Butler streets when a fire was discovered in the yard of the plant. Flames shot high into the air from burning oil in a sewer, but firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze without damage. The cause of the fire is not known.

Attorney, Typist, Share Fortune, Jury Affirms

Attorney Lawrence B. Cook and his stenographer, Miss Ellen E. Haley, won the right to a $150,000 estate when a jury yesterday upheld the will of Robert J. Potter.

Potter, who resided at 81 Arlington avenue, bequeathed $7,500 to Miss Haley and virtually all of the remainder to Cook, his counsel for many years. Testimony revealed that Cook had befriended Potter. Relatives had sought to break the will on the ground that undue influence had been exercised by Cook.

CONFIDENCE In McCann's

A RECENT post card questionnaire to 5000 of our customers brought expressions of confidence from hundreds of our patrons.

Thirty or forty years of pleasant business association has won their approbation! Scan the cards; note the sincerity and enthusiasm they indicate.

Over half of the returned cards were complimentary in their tone; most of the remainder had no suggestions to make, and only a very few had negative criticism. Invariably, the longer the business relationship, the more enthusiastic were the patron's remarks . . . and this same law will apply over the years to come.

McCann's is just as attractive to young brides as to those farther along the pathway of life. The newsy, up-to-dateness of our foods fills every modern need; McCann's of today occupies the same leading position it has held for years.

Are you missing something by not using McCann's Quality Foods, McCann Service and McCann Reliability? These and other patrons would say so!

TELLS PROBERS HE HAS BEEN THREATENED

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS.)—A first-hand account of the activities of Herbert Hoover's campaign aides in their efforts to stop critical attacks on the Secretary of Commerce was narrated to the Steiwer Senate committee today by Frank J. Hale, the "angel" of the weekly magazine Politics now published here.

The magazine, edited by a former newspaper correspondent, has been losing $500 weekly, Hale admitted. It has been unceasing in its criticism of Hoover's presidential ambitions.

Committee members questioned Hale closely as to his business connections which enable him to stand a weekly loss of $500, and they also inquired into the alleged "threat" of Hoover's managers to drive him (Hale) from the country if Hoover was elected President.

Hale said this "threat" came to him through H. K. Weeks, whom he described as a former secretary to Gen. Lincoln Andrews in the Prohibition Bureau. Hale said he was in Week's room in a hotel here when George Akerson, one of Hoover's secretaries, called up and asked Weeks to arrange for a meeting with Hale.

"I told Weeks I had no business with Akerson," Hale said. "After some more conversation, Weeks came back from the phone with this threat!

"'If Mr. Hoover is nominated and elected Washington will be too hot and too small for you' unless these attacks are stopped."

Hale admitted he had sunk $8,500 in the anti-Hoover weekly thus far. He also admitted he couldn't stand the strain much longer, but said he hoped it would go on a paying basis before long.

Committee members were curious about Hale's business activities and connections. Hale declined to go into details, but said he had been "promoting two or three things in Mexico, and I am able to finance it."

EXPENSES REVEALED

A total of $156,611.40, representing expenditures in behalf of five candidates for the Republican and Democratic presidential nominations, was uncovered by the committee yesterday in hearing its fifteenth candidate in person and four other witnesses.

The expenditures and the candidates for whom they were made were given as follows:

Altee Pomerene, Democrat, $100.

Frank O. Lowden, Republican, $58,552.90.

Herbert Hoover, Republican, $49,722.17.

Frank B. Willis, Republican (deceased), $46,159.18.

Alfred E. Smith, Democrat, $2,077.15.

TYSON BILL VETOED

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP.)—President Coolidge last night vetoed the emergency officers' retirement bill.

Senator Tyson (Dem.), Tennessee, who sponsored the bill in the Senate, announced he would ask for a vote to override the veto. The measure, which was sponsored by the American Legion, was passed after a strenuous fight in both the Senate and House.

MANY REVEL AT CITY'S FIRST MOVIE BALL

Pittsburgh's first "motion picture ball," sans motion pictures and movie cameras, was held last night at Syria Mosque. But what was lacking in the appurtenances of filmdom was more than compensated in the turnout of prospective screen stars. Girls were there from 'most everywhere around town, and from the country as far as Irwin, Woodlawn and Clarksburg, W. Va. All expressed themselves as ambitious to shine in a film which it was announced would be made with an all-tristate cast.

While details of the film-to-be were lacking the majority of the girls seemed to think it would abound in milkmaids, mermaids and diving Venuses, and appeared in appropriate costumes for those. On the stage nearly a hundred juvenile pupils from dancing schools gave vaudeville skits. Two orchestras kept several hundred dancers moving in the ballroom.

Miss Mercedes Palmer of Hazelwood was chosen Miss Pittsburgh, Jr., and Miss Armeda Wardell of the North Side her alternate. Miss Betty Jane Brooks of Crafton won the title of Miss Pennsylvania, Jr., and Mary Catherine Bracken of the North Side was selected as alternate. The title of junior fashion queen was awarded to Dorothy Wenzell, Mt. Oliver, the alternate being Anna Marie Pratt of McKeesport. Council President James F. Malone presented the winners cups and flowers.

AUTHORIZE FUND FOR TRAFFIC SIGNAL WORK

Council yesterday authorized the employment of expert consultants to aid in the creation of the electric traffic signal system in the downtown district. Not more than $1,500 is to be spent for this purpose.

MATHER INSURANCE RUSHED

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 23.—About $800,000 will b paid out under the Workmen's Compensation Law as a result of the Mather mine explosion, which cost 197 lives. This estimate is based upon an average of $4,000 a death, a fairly close figure, according to state officials.

The Mather mine was protected under the State Workmen's Compensation Fund, but the commonwealth will not bear the entire loss, it was revealed. It was said that the Mather risk was re-insured so that the state would pay the first $100,000 and all above $500,000.

Two representatives of the Department of Labor and Industry, A. B. Hitchcock, in charge of workmen's compensation, and W. W. Washabaugh, chief mine inspector, of Greensburg, have been at work at Mather since Sunday. Reports are being made out as fast as each claim can be established, and by Saturday, it is believed, payments will begin.

Under the new workmen's compensation amendment, which became effective December 31, a widow without children gets $10 a week maximum for 300 weeks. A widow with one child gets a maximum of $12.50 a week, and with three children, she gets $15 a week.

An orphan gets $7.50 a week maximum, and six orphans get a maximum of $15 a week. In case of orphan children, however, the compensation is continued after the 300-week period if the child still remains under age. The maximum weekly rate for one child in this case is $3.75 and for six or more is $18.75.

The majority of Mather employes also were insured under a group arrangement with an old line company, officials revealed. This company already has representatives on the ground, ready to play claims.

Relief work as well as repair work in the mine has been systematized. Several rescue crews here from distant points, already have started home, and by night not more than half the rescue teams will be needed, according to officials.

Josephine Dunn, Movie School Graduate and New York Blonde, Has Lady Luck Smiling at Last

By REGINA CREWE

(Copyright 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, May 23.

SCORE up another win for the New York girls. Josephine Dunn, the blonde from Broadway has been borrowed from Metro by Warner Brothers for the fattest part in Al Jolson's film, "The Singin' Fool." Betty Bronson is the other girl, and although Betty gets her man in the end of the picture, Josephine's role is the one that gives the greatest opportunity for acting. Josephine is a Paramount School grad, and has waited many months for her luck to come. Now everyone seems to have "discovered" her at once, and from this on her path to film fame seems clearly marked. She has just finished working under James Cruze's direction in "Excess Baggage." When she completes the Warner picture, she will return to the Metro lot where big things are in store for her. Metro has her under contract for five years.

If you see a beautiful blonde on Broadway, better take a couple of looks, because Phyllis Haver is in Gotham, and it might be Phyllis. Moreover, it won't be long now before anyone who has actually seen Phyllis "in person" will be more in demand as the life of the party than the chap who plays the saxaphone. For Phyllis is destined to keep on doing big things in the movies. Things that will give her a permanent title to the cinema crown which she won as "Chicago's" own "Roxie Hart."

Just as soon as Phyllis flies back to Hollywood, she is all set in a Pathe "super," based on a yarn written by Dale Collins, which is called "The Sentimentalists." But as there is no sentiment or "sentimentalist" in movie titles, the film will be released under the title of "Singapore Sal." And with that title and this star, it surely sounds like a wow.

Just to make it sure fire, Alan Hale, one of the steel workers of "Skyscraper," is the man in the case. Alan's mop of blonde curls is now visible on the set where "Power" is being filmed with him and Bill Boyd doing their stuff. "Power" is not the title under which the picture will finally be let loose, and in the search for a name, Hale suggested "Mommers and Poppers." But I don't think Mr. Pathe will like that one. It describes the story pretty well, though, as the tale deals with two wise aleeks who think they know all about the ladies, and are taken by various members of the unfair sex much in the manner that a prohibitionist takes patent medicine. When "Mommers and ......" I mean, when "Power" is completed "Singapore Sal" is next in line. And after "Sal," the team of regular fellers, Alan Hale and Bill Boyd, will do "The Spielers." The chances are that Howard Higgin will direct the "Singapore" picture.

Speaking of Alans, another Alan, Alan Crosland, has been signed by Harry Cohn, of Columbia Pictures, to direct Lya De Putti in her Columbia special. Crosland's acquistion as director assures the dark-eyed star of a megaphone artist worthy of her ability as an actress. Crosland directed "Glorious Betsy," which has the distinction of being the picture which lined-up the customers for a block and more in front of Warner Brothers' new theater. He may also direct Mae Murray's first independent production, "Guns of Gault," which will be made with sound accompaniment on the Universal lot. The De Putti picture may be called "The Scarlet Woman," rather than "The Scarlet Virgin"—but it's sure to be a red-letter film whatever the title.

John Boles, whose step from stage to screen has been made with great success, has been selected for a leading role in Jack Holt's Paramount picture, "Waterhole," which is to be photographed in color. Holt's Columbia film will await the completion of the Paramount special. The girl in the film is to be Nancy Carroll. Boles is a leading man in his own right, and accepted the part in "Waterhole" only when he found that the role in this picture gives him an even break with Holt.

The folks who follow the "Follies" will recall Joy Alden. Joy didn't take the full four year course under Prof. Ziegfeld's instruction. But she put in two successful years before quitting for pictures. Joy now has been cast in "Mother Knows Best," the story based on Elsie Janis' life, which will star Madge Bellamy. Joy recently completed a part in "The Bellamy Trial."

Pauline Garon is smiling her way through one of the tough breaks that come in the film business. Pauline was all set for a part in "Me, Gangster," and on the strength of it refused a guarantee of many weeks' work from another company. Then it was decided that the role should be changed so that it was not of sufficient importance for a player of Pauline's calibre. So now Polly is rubbing her rabbit-foot and hoping for better luck next time. The part Polly was promised is to be played by Lucille Williams, who is thus rewarded for good work in Arthur Rossen's picture, "The Farmer's Daughter."

Can you imagine a Yale man directing a Princeton picture? Well, when Yale gave a final "No" to Paramount about filming Buddy Rogers' film, "Bulldog Yale," on the New Haven campus, Mr. Lasky's film company changed the name of the picture to "Varsity" and the locale to Princeton. Frank Tuttle, the director, is a Yale grad. But he holds no hard feelings against the Sons of the Tiger.

STARS THAT SHINE :-: IN ROMANTIC SKIES :-: OF ILLUSION

Ann Harding, on New York stage all season as leading woman in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," will be a summer resident of Pittsburgh, supervising productions of the Nixon Players.

Corinne Griffith—close your mouth, Corinne, dear—will be seen on the Penn screen next week in "The Garden of Eden." This was the garden in which Adam gave the first alibi.

John Steel may have turned his head sideways because he had a toothache swelling on the far side. But you never can tell about tenors and he's one. On Stanley stage next week.

Terrible habits these screen stars have. Here's Doris Kenyon, who abhors cigarets and high life, all frizzed up and smoking as if she liked it. All for "The Hawk's Nest."

Dorothy Mackaill in disguise, be you informed, lest you mistake the white wig as another of Lon Chaney's transformations. "Lady Be Good" is the cause of this.

HARRISON ORCHESTRA PLAYING IN FLOTILLA

Ralph Harrison and his orchestra, the Midnight Sons, are playing an engagement this week in the Flotilla Club. This is the first appearance Harrison and his men have made in the Flotilla in some months. Bebe Falvo, Pittsburgh entertainer and director of the floor show there, is presenting a completely changed ensemble this week. There are two nightly presentations of the floor show at 7:45 and 11:30 o'clock.

DECORATION DAY TRIP ON RIVER PLANNED

The steamer Homer Smith will leave Pittsburgh at 8 o'clock on the morning of Decoration Day bound for an all-day trip to Rock Springs Park, Chester, W. Va. Stops will be made at Ambridge at 10:30 and at Rochester at 11:45 to take on passengers. The boat will arrive at the downriver resort at 12:30 o'clock. Special arrangements have been made to take care of picnic parties. Merrill's orchestra will play for the dancers.

WILLOWS OPENS NEW SEASON ON SATURDAY

Another of Pittsburgh's summer amusement places is about to open for the season. The New Willows at Oakmont will begin its summer festivities Saturday night, with five acts of vaudeville and dancing. Case Hagen's orchestra will furnish the music. In the vaudeville will be Maurienne and Norva, dancers, and Miss Patti, singer.

COMEDY IS KEY IN BILLS

In "Mary's Other Husband," announced for presentation in the Pitt by the George Sharp Players next week, Ralph Morgan will be seen masquerading as his own butler. It all comes about because of his wife's propensity for "putting on the dog." The wife will be played by Anne Forrest.

"The Baby Cyclone," an American farce comedy by George M. Cohan, will be the second offering of the Nixon Players at the Nixon Theater, beginning Monday night, May 28, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

George Austin Moore, monologist and singer, will be one of the offerings in the Keith-Albee vaudeville program by the Davis next week. On the screen will be "The Play Girl," with Madge Bellamy.

THIS new way of taking Milk of Magnesia is simply wonderful, it is so pleasant. Just a fragrant, "tasty" tablet, instead of the old-fashioned liquid dose. Now your children can be given Milk of Magnesia—and they will like it—in this new and better way. Yes, it is the purest Milk of Magnesia and each tablet is certified to be the same as two teaspoonfuls of the old-fashioned liquid kind.

Doctors and dentists say that a Milnesia Wafer is the better way for everyone because, as it slowly dissolves, it penetrates into every corner and crevice, sweetening and purifying the whole mouth.

So it neutralizes the acid conditions that attack the teeth and gums before it is taken slowly into the stomach to relieve indigestion—sourness—food ferment,—quickly and pleasantly.

All will be taken care of. The day — Saturday! The time — 8:45 o'clock! The early birds will get the good seats.

for the hurried noon-time lunch

The hands of the clock point up. You're hungry — and in a hurry. That's the time to turn to Pabst-ett, more than cheese. Pabst-ett is as easily assimilated and as digestible as milk. You'll avoid the heavy, stuffy feeling that makes work doubly hard after a hurried lunch.

Pabst-ett is not cheese, but more than cheese. It contains valuable properties of milk lost in cheese making — milk sugar, milk proteins, body-building milk mineral elements, vitamins and is especially rich in calcium, recognized as most important for maintaining youthful vigor and vitality. Young children, elderly persons, everyone may eat Pabst-ett.

Not Successfully Imitated

There is no substitute for Pabst-ett. It is the only product made by the Pabst Process. Insist on Pabst-ett, more than cheese, for sandwiches, in macaroni, rarebit, potatoes, with pie—any way you formerly ate cheese. You can get Pabst-ett everywhere—clubs, hotels, restaurants, dining cars, cafeterias, or, order from your grocer.

OLLENDORF CO. IN NEW HOME

Celebrating the sixtieth anniversary of the establishment of their Pittsburgh branch, I. Ollendorff Company, makers of watches, yesterday were tendered a reception in their new headquarters in the Clark Building. Three hundred jewelers from the Pittsburgh district visited the building to tender their congratulations and good wishes.

Herbert Ollendorff, president, came from New York to attend the celebration and was sanguine in his estimate of the business outlook in Pittsburgh. Times are improving, said Mr. Ollendorff, and this condition is reflected in all branches of mercantile trade.

The founder of the house in 1868 was a friend of the late Henry Kaufmann, a pioneer in department stores in Pittsburgh. Both began business in a modest way, but achieved remarkable success.

TEN HERBS DID WONDERS FOR HIM

Local Street Railway Employe Surprised at Way It Ended Health Troubles.

"I can honestly say that Ten Herbs has worked wonders for me," was the statement of Mr. O. M. McMillen, of Blawnox, Pa. (near Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of people. "I had no idea that your medicine would benefit me the way it has, as I was in a very bad way," continued Mr. McMillen, who is an employe of the Pittsburgh Street Railway Co.

MR. O. M. McMILLEN

"My system was all out of order. I had a poor appetite, and when I did force myself to eat, gas would make me feel wretched and suffocated and cause extreme pains. I was troubled with constipation, and finally became very nervous, with the result that I got very little sleep. My kidneys caused severe pains across my back. I lost all energy and ambition, and had to just drag myself to work.

"So many of my fellow employes were talking about Ten Herbs, that I decided to try it myself. Now I have a better appetite, and food digests properly, as I am getting nourishment and strength from it—no more gas, or pains under the shoulder blades. My bowels are regular, and my nerves more quiet. I sleep soundly and arise in the morning feeling rested and refreshed. I feel better in every respect, and hope my endorsement of Ten Herbs will lead others to try it and get the same fine results that I did."

Not a day passes but that scores of men and women of this section tell the Ten Herbs Man how this new herbal compound ended their stomach, liver or bowel troubles. The wonderful natural medicinal ingredients of this medicine also benefit the kidneys, and have a soothing, cleansing, correcting effect on the entire system, usually making one feel better in every way.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

TRADER HORN-- THE GREATEST STORY OF ADVENTURE OF MODERN TIMES

'Happy Gang of Thieves' Sets Out to Liberate the White Goddess, Nina

What Has Gone Before.

Trader Horn writes at 73 about his youth among the cannibals of the African Ivory Coast. Trade is his business, hunting wild animals of man-eating type his recreation, the rescue of Nina T——, White Goddess of the Isogas, his resolute purpose. His old school mate, Little Peru, comes to Africa to assist in this dangerous enterprise. They get the native guardians of the Josh House intoxicated. Peru falls in love with Nina. She, armed with a dagger, declares it is now "liberty or death" for her.

Who Shall Marry Nina?

By ALFRED ALOYSIUS HORN
Edited by ETHELREDA LEWIS.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

AFTER resting up for a couple of hours, during which we succeeded in making all the assistants of the Josh House quite happy, we left without ceremony, leaving no presents for the fairy, as I had told her it was no use doing so, as when she was taken away by me the utmost speed was necessary, and, as we could always supply her with the garments she needed, it was better to leave them all behind so as to avoid suspicion.

The old chief of the sacred town accompanied us to the tug and was quite anxious for us to call again soon, as he wanted to hear the musical box: in fact, he said he would like to own it or one like it, as it surely contained wonderful medicine and perhaps the ghosts of many musical spirits; he could tell this by the beautiful sounds that came from it.

Graham told him he might give it to him before he left the country. The old man inquired then how long that would be, as he was eager for the box, and, answering, I told him, "Before the big rains come." He thanked us and wished us much happiness and told me to tell Graham he would ward off all evil spirits from him whilst he was on the river.

We now steamed away to Azingo where there was a cargo of ebony waiting to be moved. We entered the green-arched waterway and G. expressed his surprise by saying Land of Wonders, the most beautiful lady I have met living in fairy land.

Escaped in the Night

I had made it a strict custom during my many trips through this stretch of waterway not to shoot so that the birds and monkeys, etc., were getting used to me and as they were an essential part of this grand scenery I left them undisturbed for the benefit of future visitors. We now entered Azingo and Graham was more than surprised at its singular beauty, especially the clearness of the water which was so transparent that it gave one the impression of sailing through mid-air.

We dropped anchor close in shore and Graham had his first introduction to the Binwool, the true Cannibals of Equatorial Africa. G. had not talked much during our trip from Ninas to Azingo, only commenting now and then at the lovely changes of scenery, but now being composed, he became entirely himself during our stay.

I pointed out the direction to Ninas as we landed and also told him the distance as the crow flies. I had intended before he came to take the armed cannibals to the creek and after stealing the godess to make overland to Gaboon, having the cannibals who are splendid fighters as a rear guard to prevent any hostile natives who might follow me from coming up until I was safely in Gaboon.

But now I had changed my plan and would take her at dead of night to the coast, near Renchoros place amongst the white Encomis of the coast, as these people would fight for me, Renchoro being their next chief. The white Encomis have never been defeated and are the finest race of natives in Africa, being fearless and straightforward in every way.

Penalty of Failure

Graham agreed with me that this was the quickest and safest plan. I told him of a parallel case where one of the guards of the temple had attempted to run away with an Ammazon, who are all virgins, and make his way to Gaboon, but had been captured and put to death in a most cruel manner the punishment for this kind of offence consisting in being tied to two stakes driven firmly in a giant antheap, and being slowly eaten up by the insects.

Of course I said after we have stolen the goddess we shall have been guilty of the same crime and if caught we shall be treated to the same kind of death, the three of us. At this he smiled and said, if ever this came to pass I wonder what the boys we left at St. Edward's would say, when they heard that you and I had been done to death alongside a goddess we had stolen on the west coast of Africa. What a finale.

That we shall have no trouble in carrying her off I am more than certain, and if we play the game to its best tune we shall do it as easily as falling off a log. By the by said Graham how did I act my first part in this little act? Splendidly, old boy I said, only you were love smitten I could see by the color of your cheeks, and so for that matter perhaps was she.

You cannot blame me for losing perfect control of myself for a moment, he answered, and is there a man in the world who would not before such a beautiful Aparition. I was not prepared for such a surprise, and for that sweet voice I shall never forget it if I live a thousand years.

We left Azingo with our tow and were soon through the waterway.

From here we went to my old friend Efaningo where, after visiting the chief in his town, we slept on the sandbar and so did the old chief.

Who'll Marry Nina?

During the first night we spent at Efaningos we had lots of time to discuss the carrying off of the goddess. G. was never tired of the theme. The first we did was to see what he had in his baggage, he had really forgotten and it was both laughable and amusing to see what a single man will actually buy for a lady especially one he has never seen.

We turned out all things in succession and had many a laugh, he had engaged his agent to buy these garments in Bond street, Liverpool. I commended him for his forethought, as the lady they were intended for would have to swim and run to liberty leaving all her belongings behind.

To cap the climax he had some of them neatly marked. Mrs. A. A. Horn, thinking of course that these valuable articles of the toilet he had marked would look better with the name of my wife engrained on them.

Of course this raised an immediate argument which ran about as follows: What an idea, I said, don't you think you were rather premature in conjuring up a wedding quite so soon. And to marry me right off the real, oh oh, let us talk it over, in fact, let us argue things over as we did in our college days, let us be boys again.

He laughed, but did not venture any farther. I then remarked As regards the Godess I plainly saw she was temporarily smitten when she first saw you and so were you old boy, so much so I had to give you a touch which brought you to your senses. Here he laughed heartily.

Hunting has made you quick witted he said, but it was simply being popped face to face with such beauty I could not help it for the moment. Of course not I said quite natural we are all natures children after all. By what you have said he then replied I am to understand you are not love smitten as you choose to term it.

If I am I replied I don't see my way clear to getting married yet awhile. As I have told you, my people are all living and my ramblin nature forbids me to fall over head and ears in love at the present time.

If I was to take arms up the river I should merely leave behind me a host of enemies who might forgive me for defending myself against their hostile attacks with intent to pillage, but they could never forgive me for stealing their Godess whom they firmly believe and trust with the present and future state of their souls.

Even as things are it would be dangerous ever to visit this portion of the river again, so that if I succeed in carrying off the lady and giving her the freedom nature meant her to enjoy I shall undoubtedly have closed the river for ever against myself.

Renchoro's Part

With this he quite agreed, but if it was a simple matter of funds I could always be certain of his assistance to the end, and this had been his one idea. Without more ado I continued. You remember, Peru, that if we had any problems to settle in our younger days we always settled them by the toss of a coin. Lets leave it to dame fortune to decide who takes her. That is, of course, if she is agreeable to do so, if not let the lady decide whom she likes best.

He sprang to his feet with a loud laugh, saying don't joke, this is, you probably know, the most important epoch of our lives, and yet you would gamble on an issue of this description. You have not changed one iota since you left me at college.

Are you game? (This was our old school challenge.) He put out his hand without speaking. Lancashire Brokers style, I took it, saying, It's a deal and for my part I think it a fair and square one. After a little thought he said he was forced to agree with me after all.

I now called my faithful boy Renchoro and walking out of hearing with him I explained matters to him.

He smiled and began to get all things shipshape. I left it all to him.

I now bade a fond adieu to Efaningo and left him well supplied with liquor and he expressed his gratitude. Peru and I had a drink on the success of our venture and telling Renchoro to give the boys a livener we pulled down the river.

I told them the time I expected to reach Nina's place and we were soon gliding down stream.

We halted at the inlet of Azingo before sundown, where we dined and rested as we would surely have little or no chance of sleep between Nina's and the sea once we had the Goddess on board.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE GODDESS OF LUCK

By ANNE HARDY

HE saw it in the window of a Chinese curio-shop on the East Side, went in and bought it, and carried it home to his practical wife.

"See, Christine," he jubilantly announced, as he unwrapped it from the enshrouding blue tissue and set it on the cheap mission table of their small furnished apartment. "The Goddess of Luck—now I'm sure to get that contract!"

Christine turned pale as she asked: "Did you spend the rent money for it, Max?"

The blond young giant, her husband, with shadows of dreams in his tawny eyes, nodded absently as he replied: "All but a few dollars left to celebrate with."

"Celebrate? Celebrate our ruin, Max Dorme? Her laughter was hysterically ironic.

"Nonsense, Christ. Celebrate the advent of a goddess in our modest abode. Wait here; I'll go below to our delicatessen friend, Charlie, and purchase viands for the feast. Caviar, anchovies, roquefort cheese, tender young lettuce, golden apricots—"

"Don't go to Charlie's to buy," interrupted the practical Christine. "You remember we owe Charlie—"

"True!" her irrepressible spouse agreed, good humor in the rumbling tones of his bass voice. "The fellow's actually getting surly over the paltry sum of our debt. I'll go further down the avenue, Light of my Soul."

He was gone. Christine Dorme sat by the narrow window and looked into the street below. A tenement district, indescribably dirty and ugly.

She saw Max's blond head emerge from the crowd below, saw him stride along joyfully. He was going to spend their last cent for a feast to the Goddess of Luck!

She had long since ceased to remonstrate with Max. When idle, his good humor was unshakable, his confidence supreme. When busy with palette and brushes, or with drawing pencils and colors, he was savagely resentful of intrusion. She effaced herself then. Max Dorme was an artist, driven at times by force of necessity to do commerical illustrations. But he despised such work.

It had been a moment of triumph when Christine had induced him, several days ago, to file application for a contract to draw advertising pictures for a large manufacturing concern. Wouldn't it be lucky if—?

Christine glanced at the Goddess of Luck, her dark eyes glowing with hope.

An ivory figurine about 10 inches high stood on the table before her, delicately carved, wonderfully tinted by the yellowing hand of age. It was the figure of a woman, long, clinging draperies cleverly revealing her slender form; her arms were crossed over her breast, her face was as inscrutable as are the faces of that ageless race from whence she came.

Below stairs the postman's whistle cut the drowsy afternoon air, and Christine started up. Suppose they received an answer to Max's application on this very afternoon—a favorable answer! She'd be tempted then to really believe in the powers of the diminutive goddess—then the feast should be a feast indeed!

The postman handed the breathless, starry-eyed girl a long, white envelope, smiling at the picture she made on the old dark stairs, clad in her crisp pink housedress, brown curls in charming disarray about her piquant face. "I see this brings you luck," he commented. And that was an added good omen!

Back in the tiny living-room of the apartment, she hastily tore open the envelope.

The letter dropped from her fingers, she felt really faint and sick with disappointment. She had not realized just how much she was staking on this last hope.

"Regret to advise we have already made plans for the opening season," the letter had read.

She laughed aloud, bitterly. That false phrase, she had learned long ago, was but an insult to the intelligence.

Her eyes fell on the ivory figurine, and flashed in sudden wrath. The sight of its calm, carved face was too much. It looked positively supercilious! She caught it up in her clenched fist and would have hurled it to the floor—dashed it into a thousand pieces—when instantly she heard her name called in sharp, alarming tones.

"What is it?" she cried, setting the goddess down again and hurrying to the door.

"Missus Dorn—ah, me poor childt!" The voice broke with a passionate sob and Mrs. McGinty, first floor back, threw her gingham apron before her round face, and moaned dismally.

"What's happed, Mrs. McGinty?" Christine demanded. "What's the matter? Has—has anything happened to Max?"

"Knocked senseless by a big autymobile, Dearie, an' carted off in an ambulance!"

"Where did they take him?" demanded Christine, dashing into the bedroom and returning with her hat and coat. "Which hospital—tell me quick!"

Warm sunlight flooded the little hospital room. A luminous finger crept across the face of the sleeping blond giant, touching his temples with gold. Christine lowered the shade, then took something out of her hand-bag and put it on the bed-table. It was the ivory figurine; she was beginning to have a curious aversion for it that she knew was childishly silly. But Max would be pleased to see it when he opened his eyes, as pleased as a small boy with a new toy. Perhaps they were both a pair of silly children.

She sat across the room to wait patiently for Max to open his eyes. It was now a week since the accident, and Christine knew she should be thankful Max hadn't been killed beneath the mammoth car. He had only sustained a broken leg, and a slight cut over one eye.

To amuse herself, Christine took up the pad he had been scribbling on yesterday. There was the figure of the fat man he'd seen spring from the car just before he fainted, a ludicious expression of consternation and woe in his round face. Max would have laughed in the face of death, and drawn a caricature of the devil! But the unpaid bills—the hospital bills! Christine's smile faded, and as her practical mind came back to the present her dark eyes grew big with anxiety. Tears she had withheld in Max's presence gathered in a flood, threatened to spill down the rounded cheeks that today were noticably paler than usual.

There was a muffled tap on the door, and as she arose to open it Max's eyes flew wide. The quick smile came, and he glanced from his wife to the figurine on the bed—table—the Goddess of Luck.

"So you brought her, Rose of Dawn?" he asked. "You brought the goddess to our belated celebration? Well, I've invited another guest—he's at the door now. Mr. Carlton-Phillips. He saw my drawings, and last night I agreed to do his portrait."

"That rich coal magnate?" gasped the practical Christine.

"The same," Max nodded. "Let him in, my Angel! I'm impatient to have him see the Goddess of Luck. He's the man," he added cheerfully, "who ran me down."

Janet wondered..

IT hadn't been the child's fault, really. But somehow the least little thing nowadays was enough to make John practically jump out of his skin. Nervous, excited, irritable—even at meals!

It was bad for the children. Slowly it seemed to be destroying their happiness. Janet wondered whether all marriages got this way sooner or later. Or was there something that could be done about it? Some way of staying fresh and eager—for life and for one another!

SHE suspected that the commonest of all physical ailments was at work. Yet she distrusted ordinary laxatives, from health foods that take weeks to act, to cathartics that leave the system weak and shaken. . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It is just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Begin now to correct constipation this modern, scientific way.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

EDNA THOMAS, known to the musical world as the "Lady from Louisiana," and Felix Salmond, noted English cellist, are to be the featured artists of the Columbia Phonograph hour to be broadcast at 10 o'clock tonight from 16 associated stations of the Columbia broadcasting system, including WJAS. The two featured artists will be supported by the Columbia Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Robert Hood Bowers. The program will consist of classics, semi-classics and Spirituals and Creole Negro songs.

Edna Thomas, one of the stellar artists, was born in New Orleans, and was reared in an atmosphere of Negro spirituals, and attended by a Negro mammy who crooned these hymn songs as lullabys to her charge. The early musical training of Miss Thomas was along classical lines, and against the advice of teachers and friends she decided to bring these rarely heard songs of the South to other parts of the world. Her voice is a mezzo-soprano, said to be admirably suited to the rendition of these folk songs.

One of the Blue Network features to be heard over KDKA will be the Philco hour at 9 o'clock. This will consist of the Japanese musical play, "The Geisha." Jessica Dragonette and Colin O'More will have the feature roles. Another KDKA network presentation will be the Sylvania Foresters program at 8:30 o'clock. Their numbers will include "Jolly Fellows," by Rhys; "School Day Sweethearts," "Magnolia Bloom," by Rose; Amy Woodford-Finden's "Kashmiri Song," and "I Hear a Thrush at Eve," by Charles Wakefield Cadman.

The Merry Maytag Ramblers, in presenting the "happiness program" at 10 o'clock, will provide the listeners of KDKA with a variety of selections from the classics to the most popular dance tunes.

The fifth and last in the series of Liszt programs played by W. K. Steiner, pianist, in presenting the Power Period broadcast by KDKA, begins at 10:30 o'clock. Cass Ward Whitney, baritone, will sing two of Schubert's selections on this same program.

The National Grand Opera Company will present Verdi's opera, "Il Trovatore," over the Red Network, including WCAE, at 10:30 o'clock. The singers will include Devora Nadworney, contralto; Paula Hemminghaus, mezzo-soprano; Steele Jamison, tenor, and Nino Ruisa, bass. This opera in four acts, noted for its plot complexities and almost impossible happenings, was first produced in Rome in 1853.

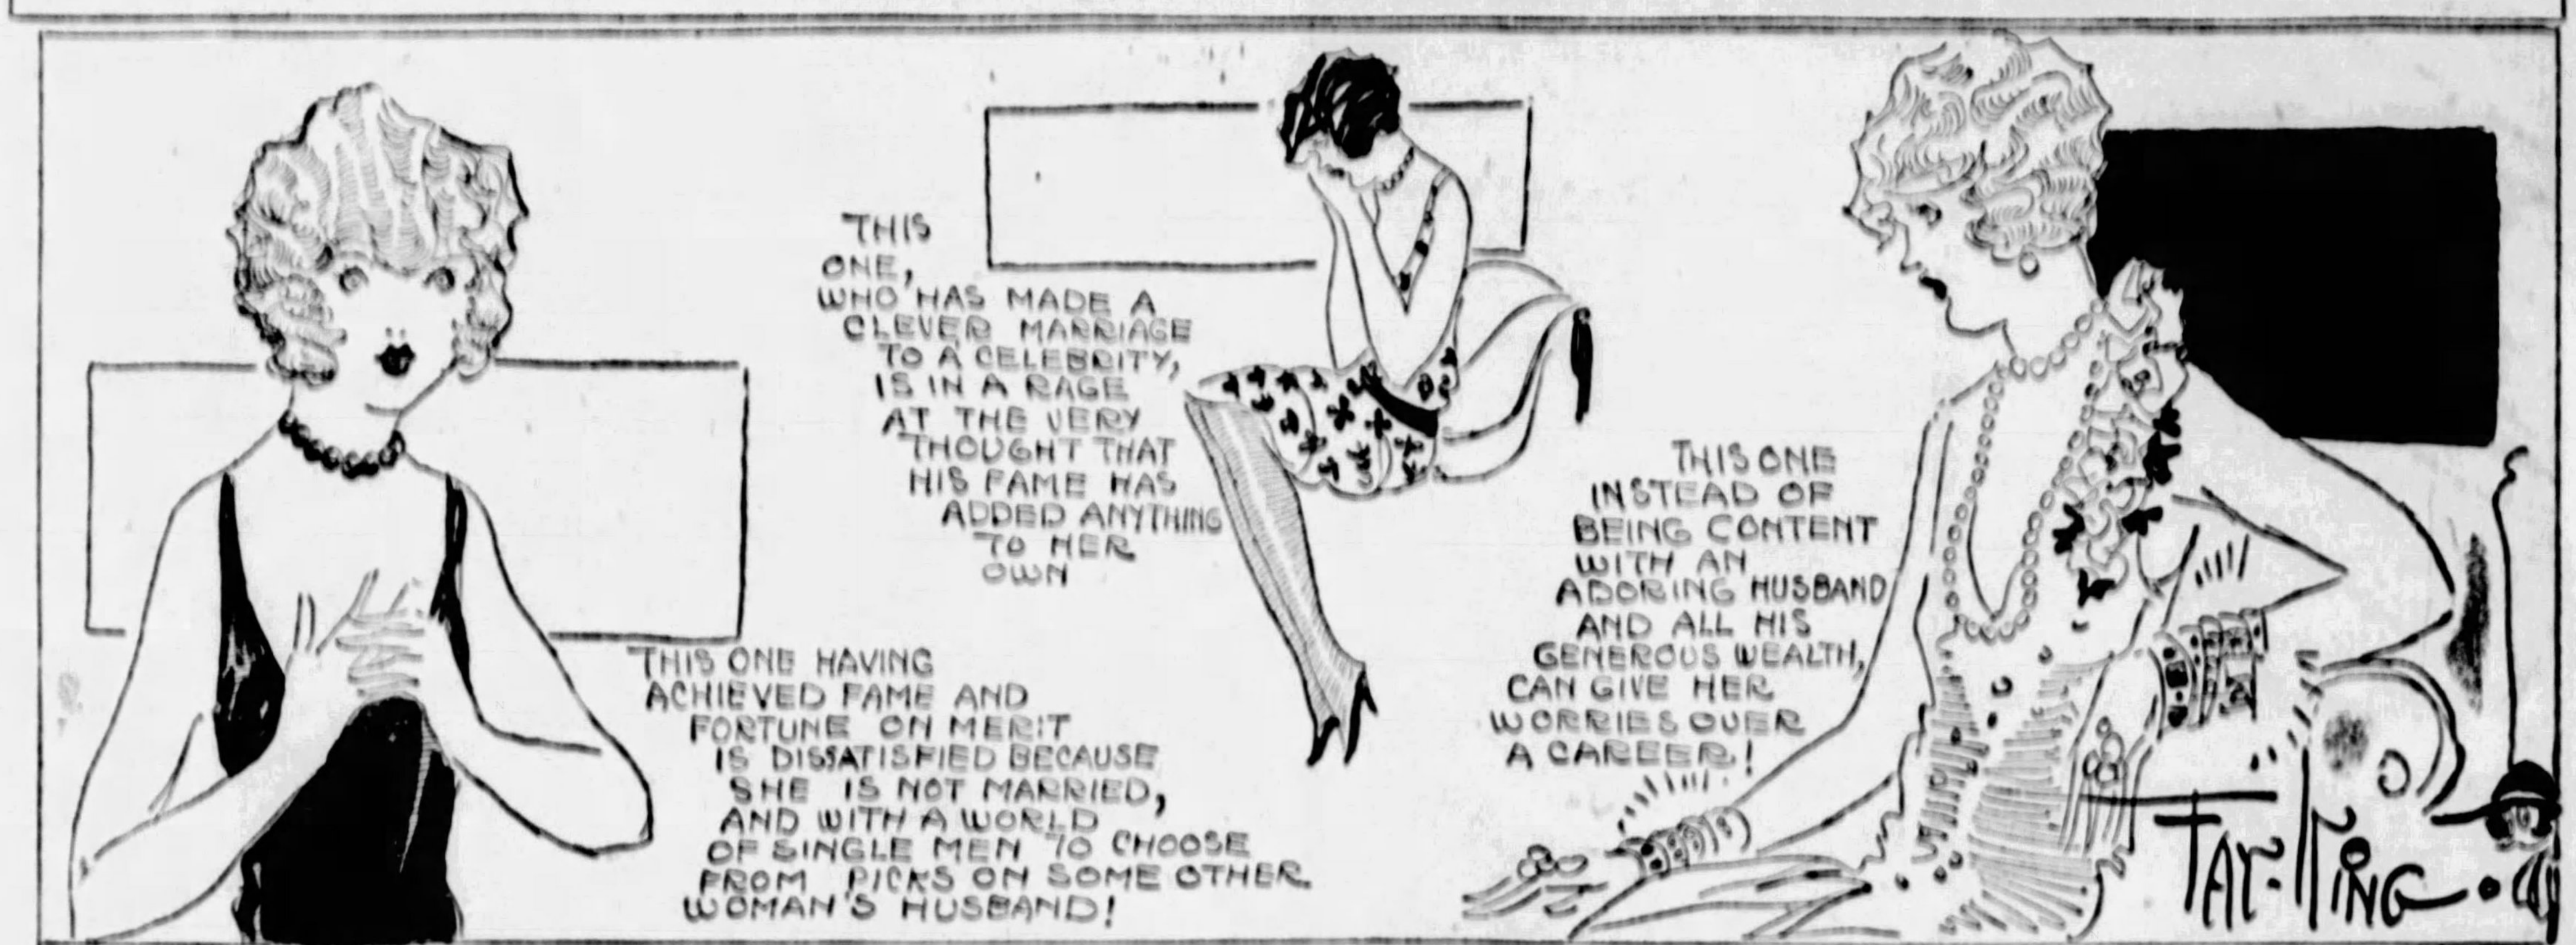
Fay King Waxes Cynical Over Real Happiness



THIS ONE HAVING ACHIEVED FAME AND FORTUNE ON MERIT IS DISSATISFIED BECAUSE SHE IS NOT MARRIED, AND WITH A WORLD OF SINGLE MEN TO CHOOSE FROM PICKS ON SOME OTHER WOMAN'S HUSBAND!
THIS ONE, WHO HAS MADE A CLEVER MARRIAGE TO A CELEBRITY, IS IN A RAGE AT THE VERY THOUGHT THAT HIS FAME HAS ADDED ANYTHING TO HER OWN
THIS ONE INSTEAD OF BEING CONTENT WITH AN ADORING HUSBAND AND ALL HIS GENEROUS WEALTH, CAN GIVE HER WORRIES OVER A CAREER!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

"GEE—She's got everything!"

So often many of us who have a daily grind think that when we look at some woman who seems to be sitting so pretty on top of the world!

She has just made a brilliant marriage to some famous man. This instantly sets her name before the world.

Or she has achieved fame and fortune by her talents and beauty on the screen or stage.

Or her millionaire husband just dotes on wrapping her in chinchilla, hanging diamond bracelets on her wrists, or gives her yachts and imported cars.

Seems that they must be awfully happy!

Couldn't possibly want any thing more, we think!

But are they?

Facts indicate differently.

The one who has married the celebrity is unhappy at the mere thought that this marriage may have added any luster to her own name. She insists upon ignoring the fact that she is better known since her marriage.

The one with the millionaire husband, instead of enjoying her fine life, squanders energy and peace of mind, not to mention her husband's money, in a career for herself. She invites the ridicule of people who will not take her efforts seriously.

The one who, by her own merit, has achieved enviable fame and fortune, begins to think she has missed much by not having a home and husband.

This is an admirable thought, but why on earth, with the world full of interesting single men, must she make herself miserable by setting her heart on another woman's husband and never resting until she gets him!

Too bad, isn't it?

Rieck's Ice Cream
Is Now Made Without GELATIN

PRACTICALLY all commercial Ice Cream contains some gelatin. In the past, its principal use has been to give firmness to the product. Now, we have discovered that we can make better Ice Cream without gelatin. The tremendous development of mechanical refrigeration—in our plant and the stores of our dealers—has done much to bring this about. The rapidity with which we transport Ice Cream in refrigerated trucks, from our low-temperature rooms to the electrically-cooled fountains of our dealers, has likewise helped.

For months, we have experimented under every possible weather condition. Now, we are completely satisfied and hereafter, Rieck's Ice Cream will contain exactly the same ingredients you would use were you to undertake to make Ice Cream in your home—Cream, Milk, Sugar, Flavorings—and nothing more.

We are making better Ice Cream today than we ever made. Don't just take our word for it! Try it yourself! The Vanilla we use is real vanilla-bean extract. Every flavor we use is the real, natural product. There isn't a synthetic or imitation flavor in our plant and, what's more, there never will be. Quart for quart, Rieck's Ice Cream contains more nourishment and is worth more than any commercial Ice Cream you can find anywhere.

It's worth your while to walk a block or two—if you have to—to find a dealer who serves Rieck's Ice Cream.

Quality, Not Quantity Features June Weddings as Pittsburgh Girls Marry Out-of-Town Men

WHAT is so rare as a day in June, especially when its distinction is further enhanced by a wedding of importance? And even if there aren't to be as many June weddings as usual this year, those planned are of such exceptional interest that one doesn't need to worry about quantity.

An unusually large number of girls, it seems to me, are marrying out-of-town men. Most of these men regarded with favor by girls of the younger set are from eastern cities, but Pittsburgh girls do not always choose American husbands.

Ruth Phillips, the attractive daughter of Mrs. Herbert Clyde Phillips, of the Alder Court apartments, will wed, you'll recall, Ernest James Bisiker, son of the Ernest Bisikers of Ashtead, Surrey, England, on Saturday, June 2.

The ceremony will be performed in the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. Houghton Phillips, of Butler. And the Rev. J. J. Ewers, of the East End Christian Church, will perform the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock that afternoon.

Ruth has asked her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. Houghton Phillips, to be her matron of honor, and her only other attendant will be her little niece, Susanna Idell Phillips, who will be flower girl.

Douglas Bisiker, of Ashtead, Surrey, England, will be his brother's best man. Following the wedding there will be, of course, a reception.

Mr. Bisiker's parents will come on for the wedding, I hear, and his two sisters, Louise and Aileen.

Ruth went to the Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington and to the Ogontz School for Girls.

Of course there will be a number of entertainments during the days remaining for the wedding. Mrs. J. B. Yohe, of the King Edward apartments, will give a luncheon Friday, I hear, in the Longue Vue Country Club. On Saturday, Mrs. W. J. Curley, of Elgin avenue, will give a dinner dance in the Pittsburgh Country Club.

An entertainment of much interest will be a dance Mr. and Mrs. H. Houghton Phillips will give next Thursday at "Phillips Hall," the summer residence of T. W. Phillips.

On the Friday evening before the marriage, Mrs. Phillips, mother of the bride, will give the rehearsal dinner in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club.

Betty Taylor, daughter of the J. T. Taylors, of Lytton avenue, was married last evening at 7:30 o'clock, to Jay Fishell Pigman, of New Haven, Conn., formerly of Pittsburgh. The ceremony was performed in the home and attended by the immediate families. Because of the illness of the bride's father, the ceremony was very simple. The bride wore an exquisite gown of ivory charmeuse, fashioned with a bodice waist and a full skirt, draped in the back to suggest the day when bustles were in vogue. A train of tulle hung from the shoulders of the gown. Her veil was of tulle and lace and she carried lilies of the valley, gardenias and orchids.

Mrs. Jay H. Overpeck and Mrs. Donald C. Franklin, sisters of the bride, as matrons of honor, and Helen L. Hassinger, of Reading, as bridesmaid, wore gowns of chiffon, shading in tone from fuschia to pink, and carried Colonial bouquets. Janice Boyer Overpeck, daughter of Mrs. Jay H. Overpeck, was flower girl.

Morris N. Pigman, of Mt. Pleasant, was his brother's best man.

METROPOLITAN PLAN EXPLAINED TO WOMEN

The advantages of the metropolitan plan for Allegheny county were emphasized yesterday by Dr. Thomas Harrison Reed in a talk which he gave at the quarterly luncheon of the County League of Women Voters in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Dr. Reed, who is head of the department of political science, University of Michigan, explained that the metropolitan plan means that the whole of Allegheny county would be known as the City of Pittsburgh: that it would entail no new unit of government nor additional taxes, and that Pittsburgh would thereby become the fourth city in the United States, with a probable population of 1,500,000.

He cited as an advantage to the boroughs and townships that the growth of the future lies in the outlying districts of the present city: other advantages in the way of health, charity, traffic, transportation and drainage problems being mentioned by the speaker. He stressed, too, the fact that the plan has in it nothing of annexation or absorption and that each township and borough would retain its present independent form of government and that only such problems as could be solved by centralization would be centralized.

Miss Mary E. Theobold, Miss Leona M. Kahl and Miss Mary I. Lewis, who are touring the world with but $50 in each individual exchequer, were guests of the League of American Pen Women in the Woman's City Club yesterday, and each detailed some interesting facts concerning her work. There also was a program of music and readings, the latter by Mrs. Nell Moore Sprowls, who gave several numbers, for which Mrs. Gertrude Martin Rohrer provided a piano setting of her own composition. Miss Jean Rodemoyer contributed piano numbers, and Miss Lulu Yost, soprano solos, with Miss Helen Joyce accompanying.

COUNTY GETS INTEREST

STRUCK BY COAL IN MINE, AVELLA MACHINIST DIES

A fracture of the skull, suffered when struck by a lump of coal, caused the death of William Pokin, 26, of Avella, in St. Joseph's Hospital last night. The accident occurred last Monday in the Horning mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation while Pokin, a machinist, was standing at the bottom of the shaft.

MYSTERY IN INJURIES; FARMER IN HOSPITAL

ROCHESTER, Pa., May 23.—Hugh Wilson, 49, New Sheffield farmer, is in Rochester General Hospital with a fractured skull, and county detectives are investigating to learn how he sustained the injuries. It was reported that he was in a fight near his home. Police have no details.

BAIL FORFEIT EARNINGS AWARDED

Accrued interest on forfeited bail bonds is the property of the county, Judge Thomas D. Carnahan ruled in an opinion today in the action of John Francies, former clerk of court, for a declaratory judgment to dispose of a fund of $9,000. Interest on bonds returned to depositors shall be paid to the depositors, the court ordered.

KEPT SEPARATE FUND

During Mr. Francies' term as clerk of courts he kept a separate interest account on cash bail bonds and when his term expired there was more than $9,000 in the fund. He asked the court what to do with the money.

The case was argued before Judges John A. Evans, R. W. Martin and Judge Carnahan. The latter, in writing the opinion, directs that deposits on all bail bonds on which forfeiture has been or may be declared and interest accruing therefrom, be paid to Allegheny county, and in all cases in which deposit has been returned to depositor the interest accrued thereon be paid to such depositor.

'Boston Bridge Is Falling Down,' County Told

Boston bridge, spanning the Youghiogheny River and connecting Versailles township with Boston, is dilapidated, county commissioners were informed yesterday.

A request for rebuilding at a cost of $900,000 was made by a committee from McKeesport, Boston and Versailles township.

The present bridge was constructed 25 years ago. A new span would eliminate a railroad grade crossing on the Boston side.

The Story of Certo

Now anyone, even without previous experience, can make the most delicious jams and jellies ever tasted—quickly, easily, and be certain of success every time! Certo makes this possible.

Before the advent of Certo, fruit jelly making in the home was a yearly adventure involving a good deal of worry and uncertainty because the principles or basic laws governing the art were not generally understood.

Today all the factors producing success or failure in jelly making are well known and may be summarized as follows. The physical characteristics of all fruit jelly are due to a jellifying substance present in the tissues of most fruits. This substance, rendered soluble by boiling, reacts with the acid of the fruit and sugar present to form the quivering, semi-solid delicacy known as fruit jelly. This change takes place only when, by adding sufficient sugar, or by long boiling, the percentage of sugar is raised to about 60%.

Without this jellifying substance in fruit, no jelly formation could take place and cooking fruit with sugar would yield only a thin syrup.

The old-fashioned uncertain way

In making jellies by the old-fashioned long-boiling process even the most experienced housekeepers find that, using the same kind of fruit in the same way, they get a jelly texture one time and a syrupy failure the next. The reason for this uncertainty is found in the fact that the jelly forming substance of fruit is constantly changing, always decreasing in quantity as the fruit ripens, so that the ripest fruit with the richest flavor is the least suitable for jelly making by the old long-boiling process.

Many delicious fruits, such as pineapple, do not contain any of this jellying substance, or contain it in such small quantities that it is impossible to make jelly from them unless some of this jellying element is added to make up this deficiency.

Very few fruits have enough of this jellying substance to jellify all the juice they contain. That is why, by the old-fashioned method, the juice has to be "boiled down" until this jellying element is concentrated enough to jell the remaining juice.

The modern sure way

After years of research this elusive jelly making substance which Nature has distributed so unequally, has been extracted from fruits in which it is abundant—concentrated and highly refined so that today housewives everywhere can secure it from grocers in convenient bottled form under the trade-mark name "Certo", which designates the product made by the Certo Corporation. If Certo is made into a sparkling jelly with sugar and water alone, the jelly is practically colorless and flavorless, which proves that the addition of Certo to the most delicately flavored fruits does not affect their color or flavor.

Better color and flavor

The "Certo Short Process" has been evolved to produce a new standard of quality in jams and jellies. It does this by shortening the boiling time to 1 or 2 minutes, thus preserving the fresh fruit color and flavor, instead of boiling them away. By the old long-boiling process half of the fruit or fruit juice was boiled away, the bright color darkened and most of the fresh fruit flavor carried off as steam.

This explains why Certo recipes call for some extra sugar—simply to jell the juice that formerly was boiled away as fragrant steam. This extra sugar is not an added expense but an economy; because for every extra pound of sugar used, a proportionate increase of jam or jelly is produced, of a better quality and containing less sugar than if made by the old methods.

By the Certo method the fragrance of the fresh fruit is sealed up in the jelly jars for future enjoyment.

Jellied fruits should no longer be considered as luxuries, but as economical food staples to be used freely every day—they satisfy the natural desire for sweets and furnish them in a healthful and appetizing form, in an endless variety of flavor and color.

Your grocer has Certo. A booklet containing nearly 100 recipes for delicious jams, jellies and marmalades is under the label of each bottle. Get a bottle today.

A famous cooking expert recommends making all your jams and jellies with Certo. Note the reasons she gives below!

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal of Miss Farmer's School of Cookery, and Cooking Editor of Woman's Home Companion, says of Certo:

"I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because:

It's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling.

Tastes better—No flavor boiled away.

Better Color—Not darkened by long boiling.

No worry—Never fails to set.

It's economical—Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

How To Be Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

Summer Care of the Feet.

YOU are just as beautiful, just as comfortable, healthy and graceful as your feet—no more so.

This may sound like an extreme statement, and of course it is very general and subject to many exceptions. But, after all, the exceptions only prove the rule.

If your feet are pinched by ill-fitting shoes, tortured by corns, weak arches and other defects, discomfort is mirrored in your face, destroying its serenity and beauty. Lines of your face and the expression of your mouth and eyes will betray foot-discomfort no matter how patiently you may try to "grin and bear it."

When you are wearing comfortable, well-made shoes and suitable stockings, and your feet, ankles and toes are strong, supple and free from defects, you experience a sense of vibrant, youthful well-being, which is the very essence of comfort and charm. It is needless to add, because it is self-evident, that no woman can hope to be counted graceful unless she manages her feet well in standing and sitting, walking and dancing. So you see, from every point of view it pays to devote a reasonable amount of time and attention to the beauty and grace of your feet.

If you have corns or bunions or painful callouses, my advice is go to a good chiropodist and have the defect banished by scientific means. Then follow his advice so as to avoid a recurrence of the trouble.

I know a woman who from a mistaken sense of vanity, wears very high heels, very short vamps and very thin silk stockings on all occasions. Of course, she has contracted flat arches from this strain on the muscles of her arches and feet, so that she cannot walk gracefully in any shoes.

High heels are grossly out of place, hence in poor taste, for sports and walking. Have your feet measured and carefully fitted to Oxfords for wear while you work about the house, walk or work in your garden. Needless to say flat, broad heels are smart and comfortable for house-work, walking and sports.

These walking and sports shoes are very trim and smart. Lisle stockings should be worn instead of silk for sports, work in the garden and walks along country roads, where briers can start a run and ruin a pair of silk stockings five minutes after they are donned for the first time.

Of course, pretty Cuban or French-heeled pumps and slippers with sheer silk stockings are suitable for afternoon and evening wear. If your feet are supple and strong, you can change back and forth from high to low heels without any discomfort.

The best general exercise for the feet is a daily walk. Always walk with your toes facing straight ahead. Toeing out is awkward and strains the muscles of the legs and feet.

Never wear run-down heels. They strain and weaken the muscles on one side of the foot. Have the heels straightened the moment they begin to wear down.

Going bare-footed over soft sand and turf is a wonderful tonic for the feet. Bury them deep in the sand when you are resting after your swim.

Do the soles of your feet perspire? Then bathe your feet daily in a strong solution of baking soda. Dry them carefully, especially between the toes. The hose should also be laundered daily.

Keep your toe-nails cut flat across the top and smoothly filed. This grooming of the nails incidentally will prevent runs in your stockings and holes in their toes. Wearing sandals in summer should keep your feet ventilated and prevent profuse perspiration.

Beautiful feet are more a question of good sense in selecting shoes and stockings and immaculate cleanliness than of complicated grooming. A moment or two of care each day should keep your feet at their loveliest and daintiest.

SEA FLIERS TO SEE AUTO RACE

RUTH ELDER ONE OF FAMOUS INVITED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 23.—An aerial caravan of trans-oceanic fliers, headed by Ruth Elder and famous airmen, will attend the sixteenth international 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, it was announced here today.

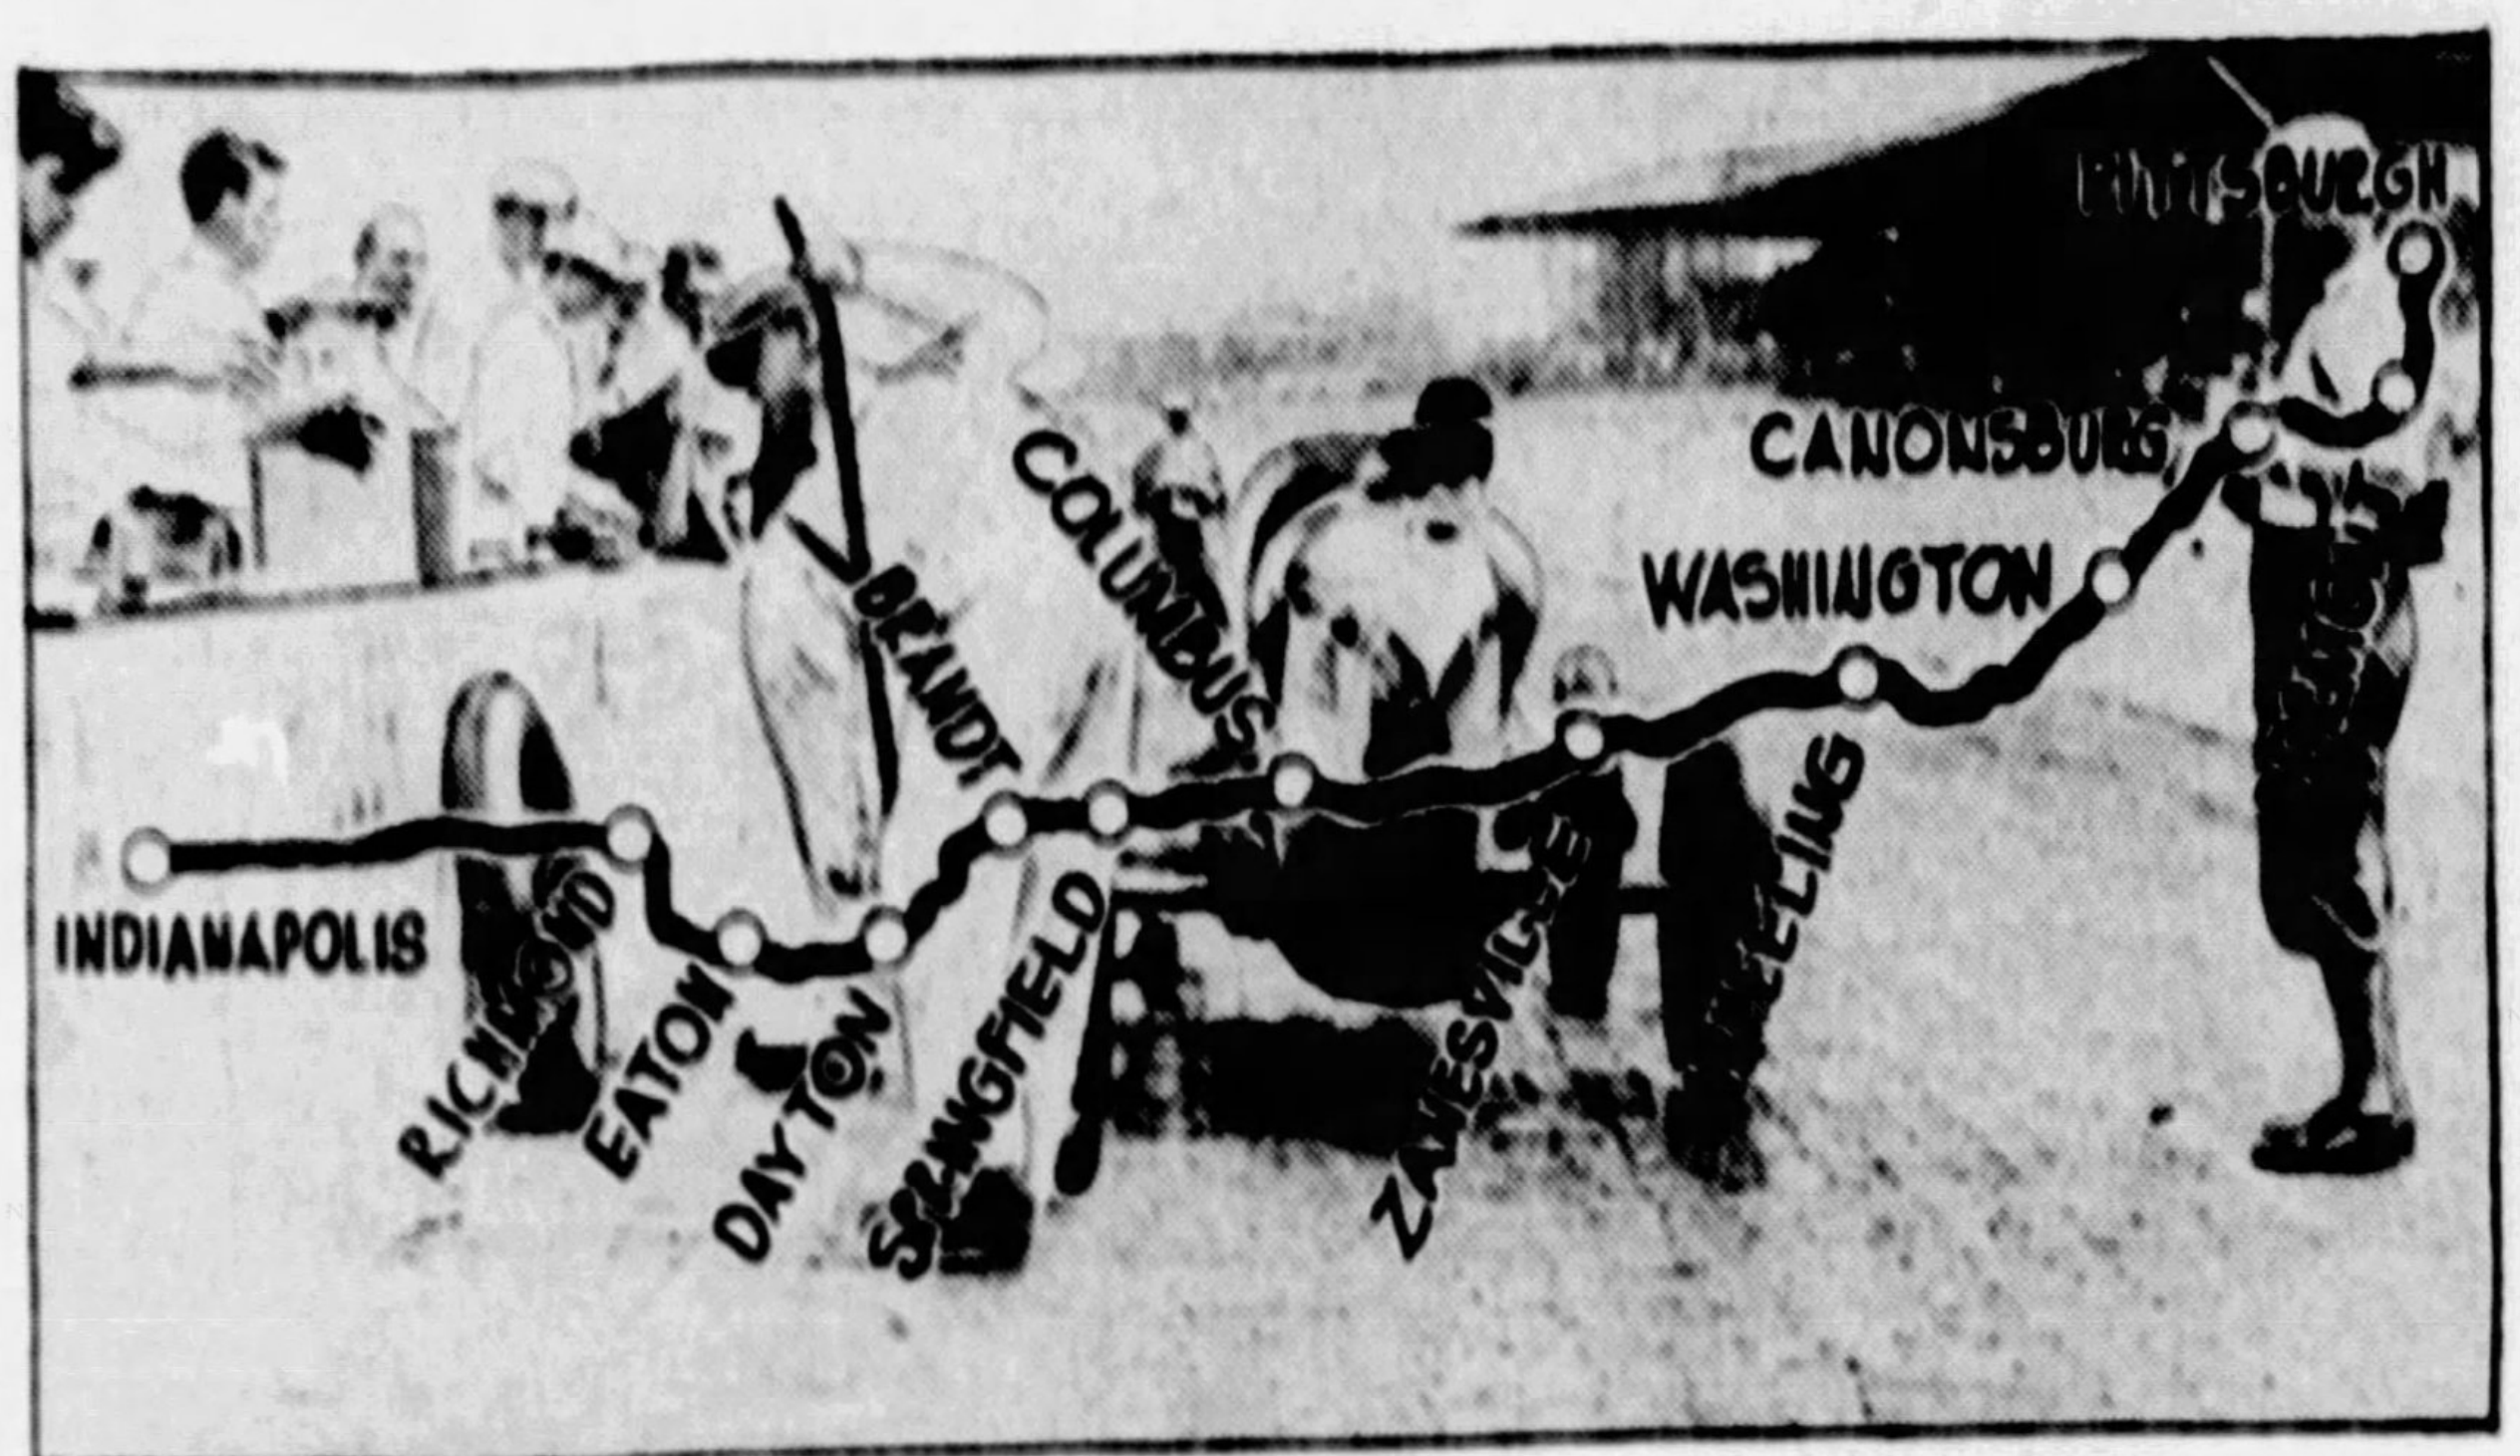
Lieut. Lester Maitland and Lieut. A. F. Hegenberger, the first fliers to cross the Pacific; Edward Schlee and William Brock, round-the-world fliers who flew over the Atlantic; Eddie Stinson, dean of American fliers and holder of the world's endurance record; Miss Elder, who with George Haldeman experienced a miraculous escape in their attempt to fly the Atlantic, landing at the side of a tramp steamer, and Clarence Chamberlin, who flew Charles A. Levine to Germany, are among those who have accepted the invitation of Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, ace in the World War, a former automobile racing driver, and now president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Corporation.

Many others, prominent in the aviation world, are expected to attend the 500-mile race.

Daring pioneers of aviation will fly to Indianapolis two days before the race and on the day preceding the event will be guests of honor at a meeting of the Rotary Club in the Claypool Hotel, where Capt. Rickenbacker will speak.

Aviation is taking a new part in the pre-race activity at the speedway this year, too. Several of the automobile racing drivers have taken up the new mode of transportation. Cliff Durant, one of the racing stars, has two airships quartered at the track. One he uses as an aerial errand wagon, sending the plane on missions for his own garage and others. Several accessory companies are using their own planes to transport engineers and supplies to the track. Flying visitors have become very numerous and the large infield framed with the 2½-mile brick and concrete track, makes an ideal landing field.

ABOUT THE INDIANAPOLIS RACE



PIT SCENE AND ROAD MAP

A scene that is familiar to those who have attended previous races at the Indianapolis speedway. Superimposed on the picture is the highway route from this city to Indianapolis, Ind., as mapped by the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh. The way leads over the Liberty Bridge, through the Liberty tubes to Dormont, Mt. Lebanon, over the McMurray road to Morganza, to Canonsburg, Houston, Meadowlands, Washington, Wheeling, W. Va., Zanesville, O., Columbus, Springfield, Brandt, Dayton, Richmond, Ind., and Indianapolis.

E. V. RICKENBACKER

Capt. Rickenbacker is president f the speedway organization and at his invitation many of the nation's most noted fliers, including those of trans-Atlantic fame, will be in attendance at the Decoration Day races.

VACATION ADDS TO AUTO PERIL

Closing of schools and the advent of good weather is stimulating the play instinct of millions of children and places a responsibility upon parents to keep them out of highway and traffic lanes, but also adds to the duty of motorists to watch out for these youngsters, says the Safety Department of the American Automobile Association.

The A. A. A. says that because the children have no place to play, millions of youngsters take their bats, balls, tops, marbles and skipping ropes into the streets, creating a tremendous traffic hazard.

"It is the duty of parents," says the statement, "to provide a place for these youngsters to play. It also behooves the car owner, at the time of a year when school zone regulations are not enforced and children are less cautious, to take every precaution to avoid running over those who wander into the streets." The A. A. A. warning continues:

"One of the first lessons to be taught the child, upon the closing of school, is that he must stay out of the streets. The wise parent will go even further and find a suitable place for the children to develop a natural instinct in a background of safety.

"Organized pleas on the part of neighborhoods to owners of vacant lots will often result in these otherwise useless spots being turned into ideal playgrounds. Careful study of cities and towns will also disclose numerous playgrounds that might offer an attractive play spot, in many instances unknown to parents.

"After a playground has been found, the parents of the very small child, at least, should see to it that the youngster is conducted safely to the place and accompanied home by a responsible person, for the journey both ways is usually made at a time when tarffic is at its height."

1927 "GAS" BILL IN BILLIONS

America's gasoline bill in 1927 reached the staggering sum of two and a half billion dollars and every motorist spent an average of $120.

The gasoline consumption increased 8 per cent over the previous year. Including estimates for the two states in which the gas tax was not imposed, it is indicated that 10,-[illegible],000,000 gallons of gasoline were used by motor vehicles during the year. The average consumption per motor vehicle was 458 gallons.

The taxation of gasoline produced a total net revenue of $258,966,851 in 1927. Of this, $182,095,508 was available for the construction and maintenance of state highways under the supervision of the state highway departments and $55,440,161 was apportioned to counties for local road purposes. All but 4 per cent of the net receipts were alloted for road purposes, including the payment of interest and retirement charges on highway bonds. The yield of the gasoline tax constituted an important contribution to the total highway revenue.

The tax was collected in every state but Massachusetts and New York, the rate ranging from two to five cents a gallon.

SANITARY PLACES VACATION NEEDS

Sanitary conditions are just as important in the selection of a summer vacation spot as golf courses, tennis courts, ballrooms and scenery, says the United States Public Health Service, in issuing a timely warning to motorists.

The Public Health Service announces the following simple rules for the vacationist:

"Get away from home and business if you can possibly afford it. A change of surroundings is helpful to restore health and strength. It isn't necessary to go long distances, but it is important to get out into the open. Forget business; it will be the better off for your vacation.

"Wherever you go, make careful inquiry concerning the sanitary conditions of the place. These are more important than golf links, tennis courts, ballrooms and beautiful scenery.

"Is the water supply safe? What is its source?

"Is there a sewerage system? Where do the sewers empty?

"Are the kitchen, pantry and dining rooms clean, and are they protected against flies? You can not afford to have your food tracked over by flies.

"Is the milk pasteurized? Does it come from a clean dairy?

"Are there swamps, ponds or other mosquito-breeding places nearby?

"These are some of the questions to which you should have favorable answers.

"After having found a suitable place, make sure that you spend your vacation time sensibly. Keep good hours. Obey the wise maxim 'early to bed and early to rise!' Don't waste precious hours indoors at the card table, but improve your health and strength by getting plenty of exercise in the open air.

"Keep happy. Worry is the foe of health."

BALLOON CUP ON EXHIBIT

The Litchfield trophy, the prize for the balloon race to take off from Bettis Field Decoration Day, has been placed on display as one of the exhibits in an aviation show being staged by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company branch, Bigelow boulevard. The trophy takes the place of the former Litchfield trophy, which is now the possession of Van Orman, he having won it for the third time last year. The cup is the contribution of the Goodyear president toward the advancement of aeronautical science.

Among other exhibits in the show, which will be open Thursday morning to next Tuesday night, will be a miniature of the former Shenandoah, 25 feet long, a basket used in free ballooning and various types of airplane equipment.

REPAIR POSTPONING ADDS TO EXPENSE

Postponing needed repairs only adds to the expense bill.

TO SEEK RACING PREFERENCE

A racing experiment will be staged at the Atlantic City Speedway Memorial Day, May 30.

The public preference for stock car or special car racing will be tested. Both jobs will see action in the eight races listed for competition. At the same time motorcycle racing will be arrayed alongside of these automobile affairs and then a combination event in which cycles and cars race together, while a plane joins the chase far up in the blue of the heavens.

After each event it is planned by Dave Lodge, a promotorial doctor, to coin a phrase, to have the fans signify their degree of satisfaction by applause, after which a comparison will serve to regulate the programs of the future.

SOUND HORN WHEN ROUNDING CURVES

The safest plan when rounding a sharp curve in the road is to give a short toot of the horn, wait a moment, and then toot it again, meanwhile listening for a warning from oncoming cars.

TRIBUTE TO LOCKHART

Speaking on "Speed and Safety," F. E. Moskovics, president of Stutz, in his address before the Chicago section of the Society of Automotive Engineers, a few days ago, paid a sincere tribute to the late Frank Lockhart, who was killed trying to gain the world speed championship. He likened Lockhart to the laboratory pioneer, without whom science and the world would never have progressed. "It is through such daring exploits such as Lockhart accomplished that the modern automobile has been molded into the safe and sane creation it is," Mr. Muskovics stated.

CRAFTON AUTO SHOW

A pre-summer showing of the latest motor cars will be presented by automobile dealers of Crafton, Ingram and Carnegie Thursday, Friday and Saturday on the Crafton race track grounds, Steuben street. The display will be presented under canvass and will be open each afternoon and night. Musical programs will be an added attraction each evening.

PLEA FOR COURTESY

"Observe the rules of the road," is the plea of C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, who points to the increasing number of automobiles on the highways as an added reason for unusual precautions during this touring season. "We are," states Mr. Roth, "at the beginning of the greatest touring season in history. More automobiles will be on the highways of the United States than ever before, and more tourists from other states will pass over the roads of the Pittsburgh district. Many of the visiting thousands will be unfamiliar with the cardinal rule of the road—courtesy—but they have the right to expect from local authorities the same courtesy and consideration that we look for when touring in their states."

THE FAME OF FLINT

No matter where the resident of Flint may travel, he is never far from reminders of home, is the proud boast of that city. Flint-made products have extended their commercial conquest around the globe, until today, even in the remote corners of the earth one cannot go far without thrilling to the sight of the familiar Buick nameplate, a circular from the Michigan city reads. Among the latest tasks of Buick are the transport of Gen. Qu Pei Fu, military leader in China, who bought his car from an American lieutenant of Marines, and the carrying of George Jelinska of Warsaw, about the world as good will ambassador from the Boy Scouts of Poland.

JUDGE IN CONTEST

Attending a national traffic conference in St. Louis, Burton W. Marsh, city traffic engineer, Monday and Tuesday served as a member of the Committee of Awards in the $10,000 traffic contest conducted by Nation's Traffic, a national publication. A display of signals, signs, crossing devices, and other traffic equipment is being staged today as part of the national conference. Mr. Marsh is believed to be the first full-time traffic engineer in the nation. Benjamin G. Eynon, state registrar of motor vehicles, also was a member of the contest award committee.

DUTY OF DRIVER

F. B. Sears, president of the Elcar Motor Company, believes it is the duty of every motor car operator to look out for the safety of pedestrians until such a time as complete provisions have been made for their protection. "It is true," said Mr. Sears, "that many people start to cross traffic thoroughfares with a hurried look in one direction only, and many absent-mindedly step off without looking either to the right or left, placing the full responsibility on the motorist. Consequently it is up to every driver always to assume that at the next crossing some pedestrian is liable to step directly in front of his car. The driver should be prepared for this emergency just as he is prepared for other driving hazards—just as he assumes that the driver of the car ahead is quite likely to make a sudden stop or turn without extending a warning hand. Some cities are now making real progress in the protection of those who walk. But in the meantime it remains the duty of every driver to drive with greatest care, just as it is the duty of every pedestrian to use both eyes and look both ways when he or she crosses the street."

DODGE ADDS TWO

A touring car and a sport sedan have been added to the Dodge line of Victory Sixes, information from Frank D. Saupp, Inc., distributor here, states. The touring car was designed to satisfy a demand for an open car in that model. It is upholstered in gray polo grain leather. The sport sedan is upholstered in tan mohair, and equipment includes six wire wheels.

LIGHTS CAUSE AUTO CRASHES

BUT 5 PER CENT FULLY MEET TESTS

WASHINGTON, May 23.—There are close to 22,000,000 motor vehicles traversing the highways of the nation with improperly adjusted headlights, 95 per cent of the entire number registered in the United States, while only a little over 1,000,000 or 5 per cent fully meet the requirements of what might be termed "safety lights."

This statement was issued by National headquarters of the American Automobile Association in connection with its nation-wide campaign for testing of headlights, which is being carried on by the 1,047 affiliated A. A. A. motor clubs, and follows a careful study of figures revealed in tests made by individual clubs.

Some of the tests upon which A. A. A. bases its estimate of deficient headlights are as follows:

Tests in the District of Columbia showed that lights on only 237 cars out of 4,591 examined were in compliance with the law and correctly adjusted.

The Bureau of Standards found only 22 out of 400 cars tested had proper lights and immediately launched a searching investigation for a much needed basis for correct headlamps.

In Norfolk, Va., only six out of 3,000 cars tested had lights complying with safety regulations.

At Scranton, Pa., the Lackawanna Motor Club found only 14 out of 400 cars tested to have "safety lights."

The A. A. A. points out that the peak of automobile accidents occur about 5:30 o'clock in the evening, when traffic is heaviest. During the period, from late November until April, drivers are obliged to burn their lamps at that hour and, unquestionably, badly adjusted lights cause many collisions and accidents. Another critical time for accidents is about 7:30 o'clock in the evening, when the peak of the theater traffic is awheel.

ANNE SETS AN EXAMPLE

FOR OTHER WOMEN DRIVERS

Anne Forest, who plays leading parts for the George Sharp Players at the Pitt Theater, recently drove about Pittsburgh streets to prove to motorists of this city that women drivers are safe drivers. She is shown in the Chrysler roadster, in which she made the run.

DUST AND DIRT LIKE GRINDING COMPOUND

The air cleaner on the car removes dust and dirt before they reach the carburetor. Dust and dirt entering the carburetor soon form on the cylinder walls and after becoming mixed with the lubricating oil act as a dangerous grinding compound.

CARBON ONE CAUSE OF UNPLEASANT NOISE

Carbon deposits should be removed from the cylinder heads, valves and pistons of every automobile engine at regular mileage intervals. Carbon "knocks" are one common cause of unpleasant and damaging engine noises.

*4 GREAT PROOFS OF BUICK SUPERIORITY

No. 3 The Only Car... with a sealed chassis-the only car fully guarded against dirt, dust and moisture-the only car offering protected performance is BUICK

It is the fashion of the day to place first importance on motor car beauty; and for this the alluring beauty of Buick's smart, low-swung bodies by Fisher is largely responsible.

But keep in mind that you get many things besides beauty when you buy a Buick. You get unequaled riding ease—vibrationless performance—and above all the unique reliability of the world-famous Buick Sealed Chassis and Triple-Sealed Engine.

Every vital part of the Buick chassis is enclosed in dirt-proof, dust-proof, water-tight housings. And Buick's proved Valve-in-Head Engine is fully guarded by crankcase ventilator, air cleaner, oil-filter and gasoline strainer.

Buick is the only car offering this twin engineering feature as well as protected performance under all road and weather conditions.

Admire Buick beauty—but insist upon Buick dependability. It's a wonderful thing... even in these days when all cars are assumed to be dependable.

All Buick models have Lovejoy Hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear, as standard equipment

No. 1—Buick's world-famous Valve-in-Head Engine delivers more power for its size than any other automotive power plant.

No. 2—Five years of service is only a starting point for Buick. Extra-rugged construction makes it the most durable of cars.

Emily's Father Leads The Strike at the Rossiter Plant

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Emily Day and her flaming sister, Kitten, are daughters of a worker at the Rossiter factory. Emily, in high school, makes an ideal of Kent Rossiter and is greatly worried at her inability to mingle with the socially elect. Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is attentive to Emily. He risks his life to gather some leaves for her and presents her with an Airedale. Emily forms a friendship with rich Mrs. Haiden, an interior decorator, who talks color and beauty to her and impresses upon her that the only aristocracy is that of work. Emily feels that her destiny is in her own hands.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"YOU'D not have him lay down on the job, my dear?"

"It wasn't his fight."

"Ah, wrong there. It's the nature of the thoroughbred, you see, to protect what is weaker than itself. That is the job laid upon intelligence finer and heart higher than the ordinary by the Creator of those. It is the law of compensation which always is just."

"You mean—why—oh, really! Is that what the aristocrat is then? The one who protects others not so strong as himself?"

Mrs. Haiden turned out the gas under a vat, wiped her stained hands on a stained rag, thoughtfully lighted a cigaret and sat down to talk. She often did this when Emily came in with questions. Her clear, analytical viewpoint and her rare capacity for encouraging thought were developing in the girl the thing toward which all education tends—the ability to use her mind.

"What," she began, "is the aristocrat? You see a person who possesses wealth and place and power—one who controls the destiny of others—and you say 'He's an aristocrat.' Why? Because a part of the earth belongs to him and his name is in the social register?

"My dear, in all the history of the world there was but one true aristocrat and he hadn't even a home. Much was offered him—all the splendors of the world, I believe—but he turned from this.

"His sense of values were sure, you see; he knew the vanity of temporal power. Others have had that and their names are forgotten, but his stands through the centuries, a living thing. Peasant and patrician! He died as a criminal because the captains and the kings couldn't understand.

"The Germans have a saying, 'Adel sitz im Gemuethe, nicht im Gebluete.' 'Nobleness is of the mind, not of the blood.' Not a thing of inheritance, not vastness of possession nor pride of place.

"Genuine aristocracy is of the heart and of the mind; kindness, gentleness, a sense of fair play, the willingness to serve. It is noblesse oblige of the soul. Do you see, dear?"

"It's different, isn't it? You hear people talk of 'blue blood.' What is aristocracy of achievement?"

"That is those other things combined with the will to do. To achieve unselfishly and worthily expresses all the rest. For one cannot mount the heights without bringing to others the beauty he finds there. Beethoven's symphonies, Edison's feats, the structures that stand like monuments to Stanford White's genius—all evidences of distinction, my dear. Hard work behind the aristocracy of achievement. And that is the only sort of aristocracy which has any real place in the world today. Especially in America."

This gave Emily a great deal to think about. Leading Raggedy home up the hill, stepping loftily as if the bandage about his paw were a decoration, she kept thinking, "In the mind—not in the blood—the real thing. Your blood needn't be blue if you keep yourself kind and sweet and willing to help others. Willing to help those not so strong as yourself. As Raggedy did the little dog. Like—well, Kent did that for me; the true aristocrat—Kent is that. Kind, willing to serve . . .

"But there must be this other thing to make it count; the will to do. To soar. Hard, sometimes, that would be. As if I were to climb up North Mountain out at the end of the road here. Very high and forbidding it looks. I think my feet would slip on the rocks and my hands often be torn . . .

"Maybe I'd never reach the top, quite. But at least I'd rise above the level where I am now. Even a little way up there'd be clearer air and I could see farther.

"Hard work . . . yes, I can work hard. That's what Agnes meant when she said 'get ahead.' Only she couldn't use the right words—make it all seem wonderful as Frances did.

"Ho—hahrd work! Aristocracy of achievement! What do I care for the Tin Badge of Caste? Some day . . ."

And the gray eyes darkened with emotion. At this moment the sun caught some bright surface at the very tip of North Mountain's summit and flared in a blinding ray of light.

She saw it as an omen; achievement beckoning like a long finger of white fire.

A sense of destiny, like solemn, martial music, swept her heart.

CHAPTER VI.

TROUBLE developed in the Day home.

There had been discontent among the workers in the Rossiter factory; some of the men considered their hours too long and their wages too short. At first it was only a shrug and a mutter; sullen eyes coming quickly together and glancing away.

Then little knots of dusty toil-grimed men would gather for a moment and talk with sudden forcible gestures. Nearly always it happened that Steve Day was the center of these groups.

Perhaps it was due to Day that the grievance was not at once taken to Rossiter. None could say but that he strove for an amicable relationship with his employes and there is no doubt that he would have conceded much had they come to him in friendliness.

But the stirring discord surrounded Day with the atmosphere he understood and liked; for once in his life he sprang into a place of leadership. And he worked to maintain his new standing as he never had worked at his job.

It was Day who first spoke the word, "strike." And it was Day who when the situation finally was brought before his employer had inspired such unreasonable demands that Rossiter was forced to refuse them.

Day led the walk-out and headed the column of Rossiter employes on their march from Great View to Lyall when they carried placards demanding what they called their rights. That some walked with heads down and shamed looks he didn't see. For he was in front blazing with fanatic zeal. A weakling turned tyrant.

The factory promptly closed. Wentworth Rossiter with his office force went every day to the works and waited. Not impatiently or angrily, but surely. Orders piled up and not a wheel turned and there were rumors that strike-breakers were coming.

But he would not bring them. His attitude was that of a father awaiting the return of prodigal sons.

"Says he won't have his money going out of the community," Steve growled to Agnes. "Huh! He'll bring no scabs in here, lemme tell you. Not if they know what's good for 'em."

Agnes went white. "But you'd do no violence? Not violence, Steve? Oh!"

STEEL UP

Continuation of the Boulevard of the Allies beyond Forbes street along the hillside below Fifth avenue and on into Schenley Park neared completion when steel for the ramp was erected over Forbes street. The boulevard crosses Forbes as shown above.

FASTER TRAFFIC

This view, looking down the boulevard from the new roadway, shows how the improvement will benefit vehicular traffic from Squirrel Hill and other points in the Schenley district. The "neck" which throttled traffic in Forbes street at Craft avenue is eliminated in this new plan.

PARALLELS FORBES

The new roadway overlooks Forbes street, as shown above. Automobilists will enjoy the new thoroughfare which connects Schenley Park with the downtown district without the interference of street car traffic. Through traffic to the extreme East End is particularly benefited.

DO YOU KNOW HIM?

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

Dost know by sight this man? Perhaps you do, perhaps you don't, and if you do perhaps you're wrong. He's a possible candidate for the presidency of the United States as convention dates draw nearer. There isn't here the slightest hint of his identity. The Sun-Telegraph is printing a series of "possible candidates," Democratic and Republican and otherwise, always withholding the name until the following day. This man's name tomorrow!

TUESDAY'S "POSSIBLE CANDIDATE" WAS FORMER GOV. FRANK O. LOWDEN, ILLINOIS, REPUBLICAN.

TOWN HALL, AIRPORT HEAD BOND ISSUE

Two major projects, a "Town Hall" costing $6,000,000 and a municipal airport, $3,000,000, will head the items of the county's forthcoming bond issue. County Commissioners went into executive session today to decide what other projects will be placed before the people. The "Town Hall" and airport projects have met with the approval of civic and businessmen's associations, bankers and city and county officials.

Sites for either project will not be decided upon until after the special election. The election probably will be held June 26. The bond issue will run between $44,000,000 and $48,000,000.

A. E. Braun and John F. Casey, members of the airport committee, Chamber of Commerce, informed Commissioners that it would be impossible to secure an airport site under $2,000,000. The asked Commissioners to include $2,500,000 in the bond issue for this project. The city will contribute $500,000.

George S. Davison, chairman of the chamber "Town Hall" committee, opposed Commissioner Charles C. McGovern's proposal to erect the auditorium adjacent to Gen. A. J. Logan Armory, Thackeray and O'Hara streets. "This is not the proper place for such a building," he said.

PROPOSES NEW POINT RAMP

The construction of a permanent ramp from Duquesne way to the Manchester Bridge is being considered by Council. The Department of Public Works yesterday was instructed to furnish an estimate of the cost.

Director Edward G. Lang reported that $18,000 is urgently needed to repair the present ramp. Referring to complaints of nails and spikes in the roadway, he said they could be removed, but new ones could not be placed to hold the planks because the sleepers underneath no longer were in condition to hold them.

"If we have to pay 18,000 a year for maintenance, it would be better to build a permanent ramp," said Harry A. Little, the others agreeing.

COUNTY OPENS BIDS FOR HOMESTEAD PARK ROAD

Bids for construction of Homestead Park road were opened today by County Commissioners. R. H. Sunningham Sons Company submitted low bid of $138,422.20. Low bid for erecting ornamental light brackets on Liberty bridge, was submitted by Safety Guard Manufacturing Company. Contracts will be awarded later.

BRADDOCK WIFE ASKS ALIMONY

A request for alimony pending hearing of her divorce plea, was filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday by Mrs. Dorothy K. Hallaran, of North and Anderson streets, North Braddock, in her suit against McDare J. Hallaran, 70 Woodside road, Wilkinsburg. She charges cruelty in her divorce action and the husband has filed an answer denying the charge. He will contest the case. Other suits filed include:

Tony Bazz, 879 South Canal street, against Mary Bazz, now living in Colorado; cruelty.

Mrs. Minerva Valley, 6538 Ladson street, against Charles E. Valley, Plattsburg, N. Y.; cruelty.

Mrs. Marcella Manuel, 2402 Wylie avenue, against John Henry Manuel, 275 Lombard street; cruelty.

William S. C. Gerth, 1524 Gironde street, against Mrs. Mary Gerth, Wexford; cruelty.

SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

COLUMNISTS get excited over small matters. They have to get that way to be columnists—which is a very, very hard job. (Advt.) Just now in New York there is some little comment among the boys in the columnar racket about the origin of a style that has grown popular—the style being to write three or four dots (thusly, . . .) between sentences. There is some controversy as to who started the style.

Mr. McIntyre spoke of it the other day in his column. Various claims are being made. Someone tells us that his comment on the dot system occurred on a day on which this column was dressed that way for a long paragraph. Since it seems to be an open game we don't mind asking for a hand.

THERE is nothing new about it. Back in the old hand-set days when we used to write a column of sports we employed the much-discussed dots. We even remember how we got that way. Out of the vest pocket of the column of Franklin P. Adams in the New York World we saw the idea dangling. He used dots (or stars) to start out his sentences of Gotham Jottings. When Mr. Adams was not looking we appropriated some of his dots or stars and put them in a different position—that is between sentences.

WHERE DO YOU WANT THIS BASKET OF DOTS?
COMPOSING ROOM
OVER HERE!

The next time we ran across them was in Mr. Winchell's column in the New York Graphic. Jimmy Costin, on The Pittsburgh Observer, uses them in his gossip corner. A humorous publication carries the dot system, which is more like Mr. Adams' style than any other style we have seen.

Probably a country printer some 50 years ago started the whole thing.

Village Gossip: Murray Livingston, the ordinance officer of the village, was a recent office caller. . . . Joe Korch, of Rankin, a former boxer, now sells automobiles. . . . George Moreland, a baseball statistician, is working on some new figures. . . . Col. Wade, who used to sell newspaper space, now sells bonds. He is, and not incidentally, either, recovering from a broken collar bone. . . . Intelligence from Erie tells of two reporters who were nearly drowned looking for a fallen plane in Lake Erie. . . . A man develops great loyalty for his automobile and radio. He usually believes his machine is about the best, all things considered, and that his radio is unmatched. In connection with radio loyalty extravagant claims are made by owners regarding distance achieved and tone. For instance, a man at whose home we visited recently, said: "I must cut down the power. This machine is so powerful that after some of the singers get through we have to spray the room with attar of roses. You see, some of those singers have halitosis and this radio is so powerful it even brings that in."

He must have been kidding.

WHY THIS SET IS SO POWERFUL—!
IS THAT SO?

Ask Pennington Give Balloon Champagne

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington will be asked to help contribute to the success of the national balloon races at Bettis Field on Memorial Day by donating 14 bottles of champagne, officials of the races revealed today.

The stuff is needed to christen the 14 giant gas bags that will vie in the air derby, and private attempts to locate champagne in Pittsburgh indicate that the supply has been corraled by the prohibition agents according to race officials.

'Undertaker' Errs, Woman Wasn't Jaywalker

Mrs. Kate Minkin wasn't "jaywalking" when the "undertaker" handed her a summons in the Pedestrian Week campaign. She was walking down Fifth avenue when the long-whiskered gentleman, representing the undertaker, stepped up at the same time as The Sun-Telegraph photographer "caught" the scene. She didn't even know what the summons was about, she says. Her friends all read The Sun-Telegraph and she received numerous telephone calls.

TWO STOLEN IDOLS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of Tom Kingsley, once a dashing sea-faring adventurer, is picked up in a fragile craft by Capt. "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, off Singapore. Mute evidence on the body testifies to the fact that the man died in a struggle. Tom's brother, Robert, also an old "sea dog," is notified of the death and receives the various articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols. Robert Kingsley has good reasons to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy of the Kingsley family, has returned after thirty years to seek vengeance. Bob Kingsley becomes so over-wrought that he is unable to sleep that night thinking how he will apprehend the murderer of his Uncle Tom. He is disturbed by a creaking noise which comes from the direction of his living room when suddenly the stealthy sound is followed by a crash. Bob leaps from bed prepared for "action."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

BOB KINGSLEY nodded, and his eyes grew hard.

"Then," he said slowly, "it's a certainty that those two ivory gods have something to do with that night at Kalawa—with Uncle Tom's murder."

"Yes," said the old man fiercely. "Hsi Yan! That's the feeling I had last night, with Hsi Yan dead, but that those bits of ivory had played their part, whatever it was. I didn't look for anything like that. There's a touch of hell here that I don't understand."

Bob Kingsley's hand felt over his bruised head.

"Then, we'll turn it to our own account!" he said with a grim smile, as he winced at his self-inflicted pain. "Since, in view of what has just happened here, those two white gods tie up Hsi Pan and his crowd with the attack of Kalawa, there'll be no need of hunting for the devils all over the archipelago. They're here—at least some of them are. You're right about them being on the Monotah."

The old man did not appear to have been listening—he was staring at the broken lock on the drawer.

"I looked at those bits of ivory last night, and you looked at them," he said shortly. "There didn't seem to be anything out of the ordinary about them except it was mighty strange that, under the circumstances, they were in Tom's pockets. But Hsi Yan's men aren't going to come a thousand or more miles to Patau and break in here just for two little carved idols that on the face of them aren't worth talking about, though I'm willing to admit the carving was about the best I've ever seen. It stand to reason they wouldn't. What's the meaning of those two white gods? What are they?"

Bob Kingsley's jaws were suddenly clamped.

"The answer's on the Monotah. You said so yourself."

"Yes: and the Monotah sails at daybreak," said the old man significantly. "It's not far off that now."

Without making any answer, Bob Kingsley abruptly crossed the room and stepped out on the verandah. Here for a moment he studied the sky. The wind was still swirling in vicious gusts around the bungalow, but the clouds were broken and here and there a star showed again. The disturbance had obviously been no more than a short-lived tropical squall—it was passing over now.

He returned to the living room and faced his father again beside the desk.

"I'm sailing, too, at daybreak—on the Alita," he said quietly.

The old man's shaggy eyebrows drew together.

"The Alita?" he echoed sharply.

"After the Monotah pulls out," said Bob, in the same quiet tones.

Robert Kingsley fiddled nervously with the wheels of his chair, jerking the chair a little from side to side.

"Go on, lad!" he snapped out. "Dammit, I'm listening! What's up your sleeve?"

"Just this," said Bob—and leaned earnestly toward the other. "To go aboard the Monotah now and raise a row would not only get us nowhere, but would ruin every chance we've got. They'd lay low and be on their guard, and I don't know a single one of them. I didn't see their faces. I couldn't pick them out. I don't even know how many of them there were. But if the Monotah sails without any sign from us ashore here they'll think they've nothing to worry about—that we never connected anybody on the Monotah with what's been done here. So they're safe, since there'd be no means of communicating with the ship afer she sails, there being no wireless ashore—and down go their guards. She makes port every day or so, and, on account of her stop-overs, I can beat her easily with the Alita, so I'll pick her up a week from now, say, at Tahola. There's no fear of the blighters leaving the ship and landing anywhere, for they'd only maroon themselves for the next six months, with no chance of getting back to Singapore or anywhere else until the Monotah's next trip. That's all—except that, once aboard at Tahola, I'll find the men who've got those two white gods or know the reason why."

The old man, his shaggy brows still drawn together, shook his head slowy.

"I don't see it," he said. "They went right to that drawer there, so they must have been outside watching us, as I said: and they must have seen you put the things in the drawer. Therefore they saw you. What's to prevent them recognizing you, no matter where you go aboard, whether here, or at Tahola, or anywhere else?"

Bob Kingsley laughed coolly.

"I thought of that," he answered. "If I went aboard here, perhaps they would—and, in any case, they'd be suspicious of anybody that took passage from here. But, at that, I'm not sure they ever got a very good luck at me, though there isn't the slightest doubt but that we were being watched. Most of the time our backs were to the French windows, there was only the one lamp burning, a good part of the room was in shadow, and they couldn't have been very close—on the other side of the veranda, I'd say. I've got to risk something, of course, but I don't think there's much of any risk in what I'm going to do. In the first place, I'm not going aboard here and won't be looking for trouble from anywhere else; and, on top of that, it won't be as Bob Kingsley that I go aboard the Tahola."

Robert Kingsley stared dubiously.

"That would be all right—if it could be done," he said. "But I don't see how you could get away with it. You'd have more than Hsi Yan's men to hoodwink if you tried that game, and you're too well known."

Again Bob Kingsley laughed coolly.

"It won't take much in the way of disguise to do the trick so far as the natives are concerned. Who else is going to recognize me? We know there'll be no one from here on the ship. Farquhar was to have sailed—but he's sick, and his trip is off. And you said the Monotah had changed hands and had a new crowd aboard."

For an instant the old man sat silent and motionless, and then suddenly he raised both fists and brought them crashing down upon the arm-rests of his wheel-chair.

"You're right, lad!" he cried eagerly. "Dammit, you're right! I'd forgotten that!" And then, fiercely: "They won't all of them be on the Monotah—not all of them that did Tom in at Kalawa. But once you clap your eyes on those two idols again, you'll have a trail to follow that will lead you to the rest of Hsi Yan's crew unless I miss my guess!"

Bob Kingsley's face was suddenly sober; the cool, nonchalant laugh was gone.

"For the sake of a man I loved who's dead," he said in a low voice, "I'll follow it—if it leads to hell."

CHAPTER XII.

BOB KINGSLEY wiped the clinging drops of sweat from his forehead, and stirred uneasily in his cramped position. Between the bulkhead and a pile of tarpaulin and canvas, and odds and ends of all sorts, where he had squeezed a space for himself, it was unbearably hot and infernally uncomfortable. He had been there an hour already. He regretted that hour now in his discomfort. He had been overcautious. An hour later would have done just as well—and still have left him with more than an ample margin of safety.

He smiled suddenly, grimly. As things had turned out, that was so: but he had not dared take any chances. It was even possible that he would be rewarded by nothing but discomfort, no matter when he had come, or how long now he stayed here even if it were for the rest of the night—but he could afford to take no risks on that score either.

The Monotah was pitching and rolling viciously. There was a heavy sea running, and the aged tub was wallowing badly, and making dirty weather of it. Perhaps that might cause his vigil tonight to be utterly fruitless; perhaps not—he could only wait and see. And as he lay there now in the blackness of what was little better than an unventilated cubby-hole that did duty as a storeroom for some of the ship's heterogeneous stores, his mind began to mull over the events of the past few days.

First of all, there was Verna Lyle. She was admittedly a very pretty girl, an amazingly pretty girl in fact; but his interest in her was based on neither the adorable way in which she carried that small head of hers, nor the grace of her slim figure, nor even the entrancing sheen of her hair that in the sunlight glinted like burnished copper. His interest in Miss Verna Lyle lay in a wholly opposite direction. There was something about her face that seemed vaguely familiar; and, worse still, and therefore the more disquieting, he was half inclined to believe from her actions and her attitude toward him, though she had said nothing to that effect and he had indeed seen but very little of her, that his incognito here aboard the Monotah was an open book to her. And yet he could not place her for the life of him, or remember when or where, if ever, he had seen her before.

There was a dock at Tahola instead of an anchorage, which was one of the main reasons why he had chosen that place as his point of embarkation, since he obviously called far less attention to himself by boarding from a dock than by coming off to the ship in a boat, and he had come aboard four nights ago just as the Monotah was getting under way. There had, in one sense, been no reason for concealing his identity from the ship's officers or the few cabin passengers on the list, as unquestionably their sympathy would have been wholly with him in his undertaking; but the matter went deeper than that. The stewards on the boat were natives, Chinese in fact, and, almost to a certainty, the men he was seeking to identify were also Chinese. Between these two a liaison, to the extent that the ship's gossip would naturally be exchanged in the lower-deck quarters given over to the native passengers, was bound to exist; and the mere mention of the name of Kingsley as that of a passenger who had come aboard would manifestly at once have proved fatal to his plans.

A Beach Picnic With a Pirate Steak to Be "Slung" by Phil Veritzen

AT Lillian's suggestion that Mr. Veritzen ask me what kind of "party" he should "sling" for her, my employer turned toward me as if involutarily, and I promptly seized the cue which Lillian had asked me to take when it should be offered.

"Did you ever go to a beach picnic, Mr. Veritzen, and eat a pirate steak?"

Lillian jumped to her feet with a fine show of enthusiasm and struck her hands together.

"You've hit it, Madge. I knew you would. And why you haven't thought of it before when I've been dying of ennui all this time, Allah knows."

It was difficult to keep my face straight at this reproof, for Lillian does not care particularly for beach picnics if she has to do any of the work involved.

"It sounds attractive," Mr. Veritzen commented cautiously.

"It's the last feather on Gabriel's pinion. I'll radio Seattle and points east," Lillian declared. "But Madge doesn't say it right. She's such a darn fop over her English. You don't go 'to' a beach picnic. You go 'on' one. Then you're sure you have the right thing. Phil, I envy you if you've never been 'on' one and eaten a 'pirate steak'."

"It evidently is something which should be preceded by a marine band," Mr. Veritzen smiled. "But please enlighten my ignorance. Tell me what it is, and what I'm to do about it."

Lillian sat down in the nearest chair and looked at him speculatively.

"No," she said at last, "it would be too bad to spoil it for you until the day. I'll tell you a scheme. You make out your list of guests and tell them we're going down to the beach for all day whichever time you select. Then you interview Katie, that priceless adjunct of Madge's menage—don't you love that? I got it from a really truly magazine article the other day—ask her how much money she needs for a bang-up beach picnic for so many, with a pirate steak and all the frills, give her all the money she asks for and then some—shut up! Madge, I'm doing this—and then all you have to do is to provide transportation for your guests to the beach—which ought not to be difficult, as we all have our own cars—I gather that you're not going outside the neighborhood for your invitation list."

"But Mr. Veritzen expostulated, "this doesn't give me any trouble at all, instead it puts it all upon the shoulders of—"

"Of Katie," Lillian interrupted, "whose idea of the seventh heaven is a beach picnic which she is engineering. Only, of course, you know your invitation list must include every one in this house. When the Grahams picnic, nobody stays at home, and Katie has no dishwashing—I think she canonizes whoever invented paper plates and cups. If that's all you're thinking of, Phil, you might as well bow and thank me gracefully for my brilliant solution of your problem."

"But, Mrs. Graham," he began, his eyes troubled, and I struck in promptly.

"Please believe what Lillian tells you," I said. "Katie will be enraptured at the idea."

"So be it, then," he said, with a relieved sigh. 'Now for the guests. That is quickly decided. All your household, myself, and—" he hesitated perceptibly—"my son, Miss Lincoln and Mr. Jackson."

His glance added, "If you do not object," and I hastened a conventionally phrased approval of his list. But I wondered if his hesitation meant that he was reluctant to include the last three in our proposed outing.

Disturbers of the Past—and Present!

There's Nothing New Under the Sun!

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

© 1928 by Int'l Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

"DISTURBERS of the Peace!" The phrase isn't a new one, oh, no! It's been in existence for centuries. Ever since Mother Eve started Father Adam's thoughts straying toward the forbidden fruit the disturbers have been working their enchanting way down the centuries.

Delilah, Cleopatra, Helen of Troy, the Du Barry—all of them disturbers! Lovely disturbers!

Prim little Miss Puritan, coy Colonial Lady, dashing Miss Gibson Girl—every one of them disturbers!

Styles have changed, languages have changed, modes and manners have changed—but people—well, they have but adapted themselves to the changing times. Dispositions never change! Therefore, it is that each century, each era, has its disturbers. Lovely while they last, but each lovelier than the last, so you must agree with me that truly "there's nothing new under the sun." Vamping was as old in Cleopatra's day as it is in ours, and I'll bet you that if the lovely Egyptian queen was suddenly to be placed in the midst of a crowd of our modern girls they'd stare each other out of countenance for awhile, and then—they'd find some way of making themselves understood, and they'd find that they were all using the same methods of disturbing. There's no old and new when it comes to that. It's ever and ever the same. So, Past, Present or Future, you'll find them—disturbers. Lovely ones, devastating ones, and you'll love them and hate them and—that's what makes history!

Meditations of a Married Woman

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE GREATEST SPORTING PROPOSITION

ONE reason why there is all this talk about companionate marriage is because in the matrimonial game we are no longer good sports!

We want to eat our cake and have it too. We want all the honors and joys and privileges of marriage—but we don't want to pay the PRICE! We want to turn marriage from the greatest sporting proposition on earth, into a little game of "Button, button, who's got the button?"—or "Husband, husband, who's got the husband?"

HELEN ROWLAND

We are willing to face the music from Lohengrin, but not to face the consequences. We are not willing to WORK at marriage! We want it made EASY, like Baby's alphabet.

* * *

But marriage IS a sporting proposition, and none but a good sport should enter it!

Marriage, itself, is not a gamble. It is a sublime opportunity, with all the rules and the regards clearly defined. But every husband and every wife is a gamble. So is every business partner and every bridge partner, for that matter every human relationship in this life.

* * *

The idea of "companionate marriage" and of all these other "modern improvements" is to change the rules of the game, so as to give the "poor sports" a chance to renege without paying up, when they discover that they are bored or are losing, or when one of them sees somebody else more attractive.

* * *

Nice! But there is no other partnership and no other game in the world, in which we should think of giving or asking such a break.

* * *

Can you imagine two men entering a business partnership with the understanding that neither assume any responsibility for the success or failure of the firm; and that either partner can take his doll-rags and go home to Mother, the first time the other partner wears a necktie he doesn't like or uses the wrong brand of perfume?

* * *

In athletics, in war, in business and in prizefights we demand good sportsmanship. Yet in no other relationship on earth is good sportsmanship so vital, as in marriage, where two people are playing together for the highest stakes in life—happiness!

* * *

It's a poor sport who expects to get everything out of marriage, without putting anything into it. It's a poor sport who leans back in the shafts and lets the other do all the pulling.

* * *

It's a poor sport who orders the goods and then dodges the installment collector. It's a poor sport who signs up for the job and then refuses to work at it. It's a poor sport who wants to get out of the game the moment the cards don't fall his way. It's a poor sport who doesn't "play the game!"

* * *

Marriage is the merging of two lives and the welding of two personalities into something complete and beautiful; the making of a LIFE together. It is a large order—and the price is a standard price. It is the greatest sporting proposition on earth! If you can't "play cricket," stay out of the game!

How to Tell When to Wean the Baby

DR. COPELAND

EVERY week or so some young mother writes to ask advice about weaning her baby. She wants to know how to decide when it is time to take the infant off the breast and to give it the bottle.

The best evidence of this necessity is found, not in the time of year, but in the baby himself. If he is prospering and the mother is well, the breast feeding may continue. If all goes well it should be continued.

A normal, healthy infant gains from six ounces to a half pound in weight every week for the first year. Later, the gain is not so great. It may not exceed from three ounces to six ounces every week. So long as the child makes consistant gain, in about this ratio, there is no occasion for worry. All is well.

A healthy child sleeps most of the time. He is apt to fall asleep during his feeding, or immediately afterward. During the first half year of life he will be likely to sleep 20 hours every day. That is good for him.

If the feeding is ample and of good quality, the bowels act regularly. There will be no gas formation and no distress. Vomiting and severe crying are absent.

I wouldn't give a cent for a baby that never cried. There is something wrong with a vocally silent infant, just as there is with one that cries most of the time. The average expectation of crying in a healthy child is the sum total of an hour a day.

I have told you how to tell whether or not the infant is prospering. The reverse of the conditions I have mentioned will warn you that the child is not doing well. Then, of course, bottle feeding must be considered.

Fretfulness, crying, moaning and vocal protests for hours at a time are signs of trouble. Whining and crying during nursing are pretty sure signs of the lack of a nourishing supply of milk.

Vomiting, infrequent or over-frequent stools, and general appearance of ill-health are other evidences of the need of better feeding. These should not be overlooked.

Perhaps the best reason for taking the child off the breast and placing him on the bottle, is loss of weight, or persistent failure to gain weight.

Just as gain in weight and strength are signs of well being, so the reverse is a sure reason for suspecting that the quality or quantity of the food may not be right. When the baby fails to progress physically it is time for bottle feeding.

Answers to Health Queries

H. G. H. Q.—What will help excessive perspiration—would an electric vibrator for massaging the feet be helpful?

A. Where perspiration is excessive the trouble can usually be traced to nerve disturbance. I doubt the vibrator would be of any great value. Try to get at the underlying cause of the condition.

M. C. D. Q.—What causes a constant burning in the stomach and pain and gases after eating?

A.—Due to indigestion and acidity. Correct your diet and be sure to avoid constipation.

M. Y. O. Q.—What will remove a scar from the cheek—the scar is due to a cut and not very deep.

A.—The X-ray is sometimes successful in such cases—see a skin specialist for his opinion.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Thursday, May 24

A CONGERIES of most benignant planetary forces should give impetus to high achievement and many gratifying fulfilments of persistent effort and bold initiative. This splendid fruition of diligence and courage may be responsible for an unforeseen change radical and far reaching in its mature. It is a day for forging ahead bravely and for dealing with elderly persons and institutions. Some slight precaution with papers is urged.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of fulfilled ambitions and rewards for faithful application and bold enterprise. A sudden and unforeseen change of importance is possible, to cap gratifying culminations. Sign all writings cautiously. A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with outstanding qualities for success in unusual lines and may have the stamina, initiative and persistency to push on to high goals.

There is nothing in the whole universe that has not two sides—the reverses of the same medal.

When shoes are very wet, press any kind of paper well into the shoe until it is hard and the shape of foot; then tie a string through laces and hang shoes not too near the fire until dry. Before removing paper, clean shoes thoroughly. If patent leather, use cream or vaseline. You will find your shoe has no[illegible]ed or lost its shape.

Curly

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been a reader of your column for some time, but have never written you before. I am a girl 17 years old, and although I don't go out much I have many friends of both sexes. I agree with you on the subject of smoking, drinking and petting. I also think bobbed hair wrong unless absolutely necessary. About six months ago I was introduced to a fellow at church. This fellow is a little backward, but he speaks when he has the privilege. If I am some place and he is there, too, he watches every move I make, but he never talks to me. I think he would like to be friends with me but hasn't the courage to talk freely. Now, Miss Gale, I know I am too young to think of love, so please tell me how may I gain this fellow's friendship. I could be content for three or fours years with that. Wishing you all kinds of good luck.

CURLY.

Be friendly with him, Curly, and he will be encouraged to be less diffident with you.

Jerry

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been a reader of your column for some time and now I'm coming to you for a bit of advice. I will be 18 in September. The other night my girl friend introduced me to the nicest young man. We were at a party and after the party he took me home in his roadster. I guess it was love at first sight on my part, and on his, too. I've only known him for a week, but already he has asked me to marry him and I consented. Do you think this is wise?

JERRY.

Of course it isn't wise, my dear. You are far too young to be thinking about marriage, and you cannot possibly know in such a short time whether or not this young man comes up to your ideals.

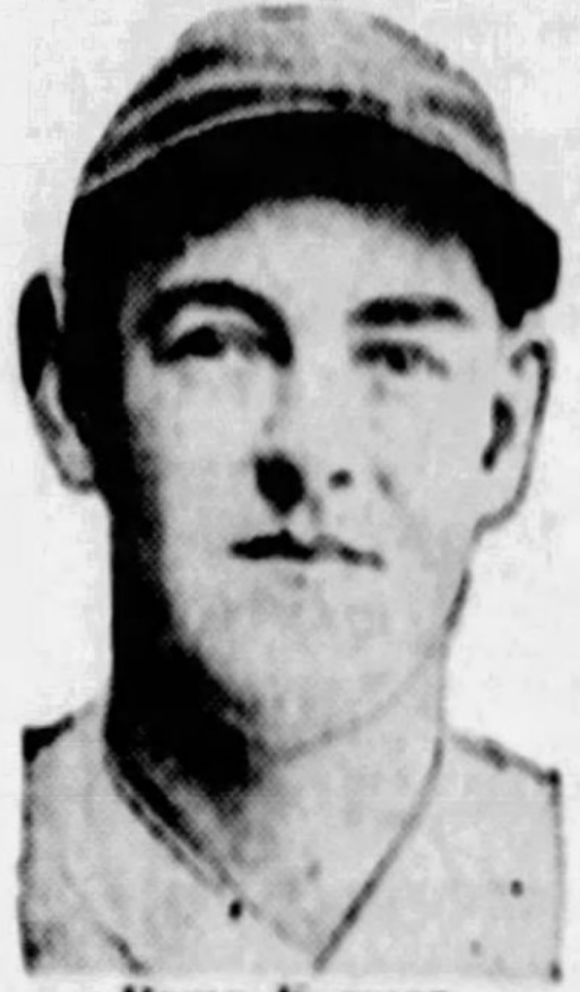
Failure of Kremer to Round Into Form Heavy Blow to Pirates—Lloyd Waner Hits Homer and Muffs Fly Ball—Coveleskie's Showing Attests to Miller Huggins' Judgment.

WHAT ails Remy Kremer? Manager Bush will be warranted in giving him another rest if the French ace does not soon begin to show the form that made him the best pitcher in the major leagues and Pittsburgh's main hope for another pennant this year.



Remy Kremer.

It was looked upon as the toughest kind of a break when Kremer was injured on the first Eastern trip last season and was lost to the Pirates for many weeks, but this year, judged by his record, he would not have been a heavy loss so far.

LAST year he won eight of his first 10 times. This year he has lost five of his first seven contests and yesterday was only the third time in seven games started in 1928 that he pitched the full distance. And at that there was plenty of ground for taking him out again yesterday.

It cannot be denied that Kremer was doing some tall pitching in holding the Reds to one run in the first two innings when he was in a couple of dangerous holes, but he was not able to keep up the pace.

TRUE, there were four errors piled up behind Kremer, further evidence that the Pirate defense at present is not as tight as it ought to be, but Kremer's own wild throw in the fifth frame was the only Pittsburgh misplay that counted in the scoring. The difference between Kremer's hurling of 1927 and 1928 is made clear by the fact that last year he did not lose a game to the Reds, beating them three times, whereas this season he has faced them twice and lost on both occasions.

LLOYD WANER figured in two unusual happenings in yesterday's game at Cincinnati. He made a home run and he muffed a fly ball. The younger half of the brother run-making combination rarely lets a fly ball get away from him when he gets his hands on it, and it is just as rarely that he makes a home run.

Lloyd Waner

DURING the entire season of 1927, Lloyd made only two home runs. Yesterday's drive was his first four-baser of the present season, though he had made 10 other extra-base hits in four doubles and six triples. At that he made a homer in 1928 before Brother Paul, whose punch is rated considerably heavier. Paul has made eight doubles and five triples but has yet to hit for the circuit.

NO matter what the rest of the world may think about it—even if it continues to look upon Bud Taylor as the real bantam champion—the National Boxing Commission and the New York Commission will join in recognizing the winner of tonight's 15-round bout between Corporal Izzy Schwartz and Bushey Graham at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, as the holder of the world's bantamweight title.

President Donohue of the National Boxing Association says that Taylor has failed to defend in almost two years the crown awarded to him following Phil Rosenberg's refusal to meet him in a scheduled contest, and also that Taylor has shown he is no longer able to scale at the divisional poundage.

THE baseball world was getting ready to say goodbye to old Stanley Coveleskie when Miller Huggins decided to take a gamble on him. How well it has panned out for Huggins is indicated by the fact that the veteran spitballer yesterday pitched his third straight victory of the season and has yet to be defeated. He downed Chicago, St. Louis and Boston in a row. No great pitching was required yesterday, it is true, with the Yanks making 14 runs and 22 hits, but old Stan gave a good account of himself at that, with only eight hits charged against him.

CHARLEY PADDOCK did not become the fastest human by learning how to do his sensational springing stuff out of a book. He thinks he was born to it, and George Currie and other authorities on the subject are beginning to agree with him.

Charley Paddock

"Of course, you can develop certain muscles and learn form to get the most possible out of those muscles," he conceded. "But there is one thing a sprinter must have which everybody hasn't got. That's a heart.

"I have had physical examinations from doctors who didn't know I was an athlete and they never suspected it from what they found. My heart is just the same now as it was 10 years ago.

"ANYBODY can learn to run, but nothing is further from the truth than the idea that anybody can become a sprinter.

"One of the things which has helped me to stretch my running career over so many years has been the fact that I do all my running on my legs and hardly any on my imagination. I notice that Lloyd Hahn has talked about the part imagination plays in a race. Well, it does in the sprints, too. Golly, but what swell things you can think of before the gun.

"THE first time I did 9.6 seconds for the hundred, I remember I allowed my imagination to exercise itself for one of the very few times in my career. It was in March, 1921, and I kept thinking, 'Charlie, you're not so good today.' Fifteen minutes before the gun I was in half a panic. Then I sat down and said to myself, 'This is silly.' So I got a good grip on myself and five minutes later was feeling cheerful and willing to admit

BANTAM CROWN PRIZE IN BOUT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP.)—With recognition as bantamweight champion awaiting the winner, Bushy Graham, spidery-legged Utica, N. Y., battler, and Izzy Schwartz, state flyweight titleholder, clash over the 15-round route at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight.

Holding a decisive edge physically, Graham was an odds-on favorite to batter his tiny rival into defeat and recognition as king of the 118-pounders from the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission.

GRAHAM HAS EDGE

Much smaller in every way, Schwartz is further handicapped in his conquest for a double-title by the fact that under the commission rules he must make his flyweight class limit of 112 pounds. Graham probably will scale close to the bantam limit.

The bantamweight throne has been more or less vacant since Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, of New York, forfeited his kingship by coming in overweight for a title match with Graham more than a year ago. The National Boxing Association did recognize Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute terror, as the legitimate successor until a few days ago, when it decided to drop Taylor and recognize the winner of the Schwartz-Graham battle as worthy of the diadem. Taylor, the N. B. A. felt, had forfeited the crown by his failure to defend it.

Graham, beaten by Rosenberg when the champion had automatically been dethroned on the scales, now gets his second chance at the

TWO one-day tournaments on local links yesterday drew excellent fields, and some fine early-season golf was chalked up on the score sheets. The day was ideal, and for that reason, if for none other, the members of the Keystone Athletic Club flocked to the beautiful St. Clair Country Club links, while golfers of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania played in three divisions at the Country Club of Allegheny County, Beechwood boulevard, in their season inaugural.

J. B. Kelly came through winner of the K. A. C. event, with a net 71, while Mrs. J. F. Casey, Jr., copped high honors in the first flight of the women's tourney with a net 72. Mrs. Casey also had the low gross of the day among the women, getting a 92, while B. Bannister registered the best-stroke card at St. Clair with his 80.

Mrs. W. R. Gellatly and Mrs. G. T. Price, Jr., tied for the honors in the second division at the Country Club, having net 73s, while Miss Louise Vilsack scored a net 77 to win in the third flight.

CINCINNATI, May 23.—Going along on the oft repeated theory that the 'breaks' even up in baseball, the Pirates today were not in any wise downcast as they prepared to meet the Reds in the last fight of the five-game set.

The ambitious Rhinelanders, as they decorate the top of the National League, realize they have been favored to some extent by the breaks, although there is a note of aggressiveness to the actions of the new league leaders that is hard to discount.

In the four games played to date the Reds have been victorious three times and on each occasion they grabbed the laurel by the slim margin of one tally. As one of the Pirate party remarked, the Pirates have won all three of the games. Nevertheless, the Freebooters are out to win this afternoon. They will go into battle behind Carmen Hill, who will be called upon to face Dolf Luque, the well known athlete from Cuba. It looks like a duel of clever righthanders.

ADAMS STILL OUT

Sparky Adams will be missing from the Pirate lineup again. The little second sacker seems to be on the mend, but he is too weak for action, it was believed this morning. Eddie Mulligan is slated to continue at second base. Eddie is playing a beautiful fielding game, but unfortunately his drives are going straight into the hands of anxious Reds. Eddie's line drive in the first game of Monday's double header would have won that contest had it eluded Purdy.

To dwell awhile on the most recent defeat of the Pirates, it is well to note that the Pirates were favored with one big "break" when Sprout Waner's hit over second in the fourth bounded over Allen's head for a homer, scoring two runs.

Sprout's first homer of the season gave the Pirates a nice lead of three runs, but Carl Mays, opposing Remy Kremer, took the matter of changing the run tide into his own hands. Twice did the submarine star open innings with stinging base hits and each time the start led to one or more runs.

Each team scored a run in the first. The Buccos scored again in the third and their two tallies of the fourth gave them a commanding lead, but Mays opened the fifth with

TRIS, BING BETTER

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—Tris Speaker and Bing Miller, Athletics' outfielders, injured in Monday's game with Washington, are expected to be in harness tomorrow when the Mackmen clash in a doubleheader with the Yankees.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

CINCINNATI, May 23.—The Pirates stayed close to their hotel last night. The whole team is anxious to see the worm turn and the Pittsburghers are not overlooking anything to help themselves out of the rut.

SPROUT WANER is still one down to Hughey Critz in the matter of home runs. Hughey owns two four sackers. The players of both clubs enjoyed quite a laugh on Lloyd's first home run of the season. Ethan Allen tried hard to make a pickup of the ball with the idea of stopping Earl Smith at the plate. The rocket hopped over Allen's shoulder.

BUT there is nothing scratchy about the three baggers Lloyd has been making. The little fellow is leading the league in triples, and the sluggers of the game find it harder to make three baggers than home runs. Ruth, Gehrig, Williams and Wilson, home run kings of last season, had many more homers than triples.

PAUL WANER led the National League in triples last year. Paul also was ahead in doubles through most of the season, but Riggs Stephenson overtook and passed him in the last few weeks of the season. The older brother may take the three base honors from Brother Lloyd, but Paul's triples are not as plentiful as they were last summer.

VAL PICINICH, aggressive Red catcher, goes along unsung, but this receiver is a bearcat. It was up to Picinich to swat one in the eighth and he walloped a double to right that scored Ethan Allen.

KREMER showed championship qualities in the second when loose play in the infield filled up the bases with none out. Mays hit a double play grounder to Grantham who threw to the plate for a force. Smith tried to double the batter, but the ball struck Mays in the shoulder.

EDDIE MULLIGAN ran to the plate asking that interference be called on Mays, but the umpires would not allow it. Then Mulligan started a fast double play on Critz's grounder.

Humbert J. Fugazy, chief rival of Tex Rickard in the box-fight game, has arranged a supporting card of 24 rounds.

TESTO-BAKER CLASH

Nick Testo, of Troy, N. Y., will battle Sergeant Sammy Baker, of Mitchel Field, N. Y., in the 10-round semi-final. The winner is to be recognized by the Boxing Commission as logical contender for Joe Dundee's welterweight crown.

In another 10-rounder Pal Silvers, of Brownsville, meets Andy Divodi, of South Brooklyn. Frankie Garcia, brother of Bushy Graham, will travel four rounds with Jackie Cohen, of New York, in the opener.

West Boasts Crack Teams

By JESS CARVER.

THERE are three things that may prevent Stanford from dashing merrily off with the I. C. A. A. A. A. championships at Cambridge this coming week-end. They are as follows:

1—A train wreck.

2—An epidemic of broken legs among Trojan athletics.

3—Liberal sprinklings of arsenic in the boys' food.

Not since Cornell used to put high scoring track and field teams on the field a decade or more back, has there been such a collection of talent as Stanford will exhibit at the intercollegiates this week. The tough part of it is that among the Eastern schools there is not a well balanced enough team to furnish the Western invaders with much serious opposition, and to make the Eastern outlook for a winner more bleak, Southern California looms as the team most likely to press the Trojans.

Some idea of the strength that is Stanford's on the track and in the field may be gained by glancing over this list of athletes—every one of which is a specialist: King, high jumper; Krenz, shotputter; Zombro and Dever, broad jumpers; Nichols, hurdler; Spencer, quarter-miler; Edmonds, pole vaulter; Hoffman, discus tosser, and Sparling, javelin ace.

WESTERN TEAMS STRONG

With such a collection of stars on one team and with fellows like Charley Borah, Lee Barnes, Goggeshall and others from Southern California to take other points away from the East, it is easy to see that the East's chances of ringing in a winner this year are as great as the proverbial snowball's chances—the snowball that strayed too far from home.

Of course, there are some athletes in the East who are certain to have something to say about the point scoring, but they are scattered among half a dozen or more various schools. Dartmouth has Tommy Maynard, a high jumper of ability and note, and the famous Monty Wells, hurdle expert. Georgetown has Dave Adleman, shotputter; Wildermuth, a sprinter, and Creth Hines, of javelin fame. Penn State will present Bill Cox, miler; Bates and Mathias, broad jumpers, and Bartholomew, a sprinter.

Brown has Collier, a splendid hurdler, and Yale, with the great Sabin Carr, will cut a figure of no mean importance in the pole vault. Penn's best bet will be Scull in the sprints and Holy Cross has Daley and Quinn entered against Borah.

PITT TEAM STRONG

Pitt, the only tri-state district school holding a membership in the I. C. 4-A. body, will be listed among the stronger Eastern schools, with Capt. Gibby Welch in the discus and shot; Don Gwinn, favored for a high rating in the hammer throw; Ken Webecan, carrying the sprint hopes, and Vic Pickard, the best bet in the pole vault.

Pitt, a much stronger entry than last year, will most assuredly account for at least a dozen points.

DUKES WIN THIRD

Yesterday afternoon the Duquesne University varsity tennis team won its third consecutive Conference victory by defeating the Bethany racquet squad on the Bluff courts, five matches to two.

The locals won four out of the five singles events and then split even in the doubles. The summary:

SINGLES

Creighton, Duquesne, defeated Bills, Bethany, 7-5, 6-4; Olko, Duquesne, defeated Erskine, Bethany, 6-1, 6-1; Wells, Bethany, defeated Colledt, Duquesne, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5; Keller, Duquesne, defeated Mutchler, Bethany, 6-0, 7-5; Smeaton, Duquesne, defeated Addy, Bethany, 6-1, 6-0.

DOUBLES

Olko and Smeaton, Duquesne, defeated Bills and Erskine, Bethany, 8-6, 6-8, 7-5; Wells and Mutchler, Bethany, defeated Boland and Thompson, 6-3, 6-2.

Locals Out for Revenge

By TOM BIRKS.

MANAGER BALSARINI of Heidelberg, announced today that the state champions will play their final practice game this evening at the Bridgeville Speedway against the Chartiers Valley League all-stars in preparation for the big game Saturday at the same venue with the St. Louis Municipal team, western champions in the Olympic trials for the miners' relief fund.

Balsarini states that Heidelberg is in great shape and ready to prove that the defeat sustained at St. Louis in the Olympic eliminations was all wrong, and that the Green and Gold eleven is the best American born team in the country.

The appearance of the famous Mound City club in Pittsburgh should pack the speedway. Western Pennsylvania soccerites have heard much regarding the ability of St. Louis American born soccer teams, but this is the first time in history that a St. Louis team has appeared here.

The game is being staged for the benefit of the miners' relief fund, and Heidelberg is looking at it as an opportunity to reverse that St. Louis score.

The game will be played at the Bridgeville Speedway and will be called for 4:30, daylight saving time.

"PLUS + SIX"

"Jack, you're certainly looking fresh and cool in the new suit. Another 'Plus-Six,' I presume?"

"Right the first time, Hube—it's my third 'Plus-Six.' I certainly am showing appreciation for your tip on where to buy clothes in Pittsburgh."

"I'm getting a new plain blue one at the Annex myself, some day soon. These Pittsburgh summers are scorchers and play hob with a fellow's clothes. I'll be certain to get the extra trousers for the plus $6 so that I can keep the suit looking as well as yours does now."

"The very stunt I'm practicing, Hube, and I've sliced my tailor bill considerably since I started to do it. That's the real 'why' of Plus-Six clothing economy, as I see it."

EVERYBODY HAPPY! The first tournament of the season of the Keystone Athletic Club at the St. Clair Country Club turned out to be a humdinger, even if it was only a "warming up" event. The chaps shown above were among the enthusiastic participants. They are, from left to right: E. Coffin, Hayden Gentry, Chappie Couch, J. R. Elk, A. C. Mills, vice president of the St. Clair Country Club; J. E. Stone, president of St. Clair, and J. H. Haller, St. Clair club champion.

PUFF! PUFF! WHAT A PULL UP THE GLEN TO THE FIFTH TEE! E. M. Brown, Ross Gammon and R. E. Barber found the exercise real exercise after they left the fourth green and headed up the shaded hillside to the fifth tee—"But it's worth it to play St. Clair," said one of them, as they proceeded to do their stuff in the Keystoners meet.

GOLDSTEIN GETS WIN OVER AUGIE PISANO

NEWARK, N. J., May 23.—(AP.)—Phil Goldstein, of Pittsburgh, won the referee's decision over Augie Pisano, of Brooklyn, in the main bout at the Newark Velodrome last night. Goldstein weighed 137, Pisano 137¼.

Salo Cuts Deeper Into Payne's Lead

LIBERTY, N. Y., May 23.—(AP.)—Finishing second on the 55.1-mile lap from Deposit to Liberty, N. Y., yesterday John Salo, Passaic, N. J., Finn, further reduced the lead Andy Payne, youthful Oklahoman, holds over the field in C. C. Pyle's trans-continental footrace.

Giusto Umek, of Trieste, Italy, set the pace for the 55 bunioners by covering the lap in 9:57:45. His elapsed time was 617:03:33 for the 2,289.4 miles from Los Angeles.

Nearly an hour behind Umek came Salo, doggedly cutting into Payne's lead. Salo's time for the lap, 10:57:35, gave him an elapsed time of 564:09:11. At the start of the day's lap Payne held a lead of more than 16 hours over the Passaic star.

Middletown, 37 miles east of here, will be the derbyists' goal today. Seffern will be made tomorrow and Passaic, N. J., on Friday. The race ends with a 10-mile jog in Madison Square Garden, N. Y., Saturday night.

Payne finished fourth in the lap in 11:31:45. His total elapsed time of 548:23:36 gives him a lead of 15 hours, 45 minutes, 35 seconds over Salo.

a double and before the enemy could be retired, two Reds were over. Carl started the seventh with a single and eventually scored the tying tally.

The Reds were favored by luck in the eighth when they scored the winning run. Ethan Allen opened with a drive down the third base line. As Traynor ran to get in front of the ball it hit the bag and swerved past Pie into left field for a double. Chuck Dressen sacrificed and Val Picinich drove over the winning run with a double to right. The Pirates could not do much with Mays in the ninth.

BRIDGEVILLE DRIVERS PREPARE TO QUALIFY

With the qualifying trials scheduled for next Tuesday afternoon, drivers entered in the three races arranged for the famous Bridgeville Speedway, Decoration Day, are busily engaged tuning up their cars for the speed tests.

Many of the drivers entered in the Bridgeville races already are at the scene of the automobile derby, trying out their cars on the famous half-mile board track. Lackinger, McKees Rocks, driving a Mercer Special, and A. J. Marshall, North Side, driving a Frontenac, narrowly escaped serious injury this week when both were involved in a mishap at the Bridgeville bowl. Lackinger threw a left front wheel in a workout and turned over several times, but fortunately escaped injury. Marshall's car was none the worse after going into the rail.

With drivers from all sections of the tristate district entered in the three races, two of 25 miles and one of 50 miles, indications are that a record crowd will be out to see the Bridgeville Decoration Day program.

SANDLOT BASEBALL

by TOM BIRKS

HOMEWOOD-BRUSHTON lost two in a row when Bellevue stopped the East Enders by an 8 to 2 score at the playgrounds last evening. Bellevue seems to have a happy knack of winning at Homewood. Out in the Bloomfield district, Jock Collette's J. W. Reinekers handed the Thomas Club its second defeat in successive evenings by a 4 to 3 score.

A real slugging battle was staged at Sullivan Field between the St. Johns and the Jimmy Smith club, the Smiths winning, 14 to 11. Welsh went to Crookshanks' rescue when St. Johns threatened to tie up the score.

THE umpire situation is becoming acute at Dean Field. Two prolonged arguments on successive nights is causing plenty of comment from managers, players and fans alike. Johnny Freizel, who usually steals as many bases in a season as any sandlotter in the district, started last evening's argument by stealing home. After he was called safe Catcher Ritter had plenty to say and while the argument waxed hot, two other Reinekers scored without the plate umpire calling time. Finally Freizel was called out by the umpire and Ritter was satisfied.

ALL one needs to get to McKinley Park is a road map and a trail blazer. Bill Hite is going to have a fine expense in balls in the home games. Every ball that landed on that rock pile in right field was thrown out of the game. The balls were all cut and could only be used for practice balls.

IT was thought a year ago that the double umpire system in sandlot games would cut out the umpire's alibi "I didn't see the play." But it seems as if teams are still hearing the cry after paying the freight for two men in blue out there to call them.

In on game this week, with a runner on second, the base umpire claimed he did not see alleged interference. The plate umpire said he was watching the runner rounding third and that let him out. Two runners, two umpires and both claimed they did not see a play when appealed to.

THE North Side Civics will be the attraction at Sullivan Field tomorrow evening. St. Johns is leading the loop and the North Siders are looking for some points.

Pirates, Dodgers Seek College Nine Stars

CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP.)—Two University of Chicago baseball players have been offered tryouts with major league clubs.

Pittsburgh and Brooklyn think Capt. Kyle Anderson, a second baseman, is worth signing, while the Dodgers have offered Priess, outfielder and leading hitter of the Western Conference, a tryout at the end of the Big Ten season.

Anderson probably will sign with the Pirates while Priess may stay in school, as he has another year of football competition. Chicago finished in the second division in the Big Ten.

KAPLAN, BERLENBACH WIN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—K. O. (Phil) Kaplan, of New York, scored a victory over Pinky Mitchell, of Milwaukee, former junior welterweight champion, when Mitchell was disqualified for holding in the fourth round of their 10-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium last night. The Mid-West boxer had been floored three times for counts of nine before he was disqualified.

Paul Berlenbach, former light heavyweight titleholder, scored a technical knockout over Larry Estridge, New York Negro, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round match. Berlenbach had the Negro bleeding profusely when the referee called a halt.

MULLEN LUCKY TO LOSE BOUT

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

DID Tex Rickard outfox himself when he landed the Sammy Mandell-Jimmy McLarnin bout, stealing it right out from under the nose of the irresistible Jim Mullen, of Chicago?

It seems very much that way, although Tex is vociferously denying to all and sundry, not mention from the housetops, that he didn't lose anything on his lightweight championship extravaganza the other night, but instead cleared about $20,000 from the net receipts of $130,961.

Tex claims that he paid Mandell only the 37½ per cent and McLarnin the 12½ per cent prescribed by the rules of the New York State Athletic Commission, but no one will believe him and the report persists that in order to beat Mullen out of the match he had to guarantee Mandell $65,000 and McLarnin $35,000, or an even $100,000 for the pair. That seems only reasonable, in view of the fact that Mullen had McLarnin signed and Rickard had to work around that angle and also that the titular match loomed like a real plum after McLarnin knocked out Sid Terris in a punch.

WAS TEX OUTFOXED?

If the match cost Tex $100,000, Tex certainly went into the hole financially. The rent for the use of the Polo Grounds is 10 per cent of the net, which in his case would have been a little more than $13,000. Then Tex had a costly preliminary card, three postponements, tickets, help and sundry other expenses to carry.

Were Eddie Kane, manager of Mandell, and Jim Mullen, working together to build up the price for Mandell's services by having Mullen bid high and then drop out and leave Rickard holding the bag? That gag has been worked before by Jack Kearns, as manager of Jack Dempsey, and by others.

NO WORK FOR WINNER

Now that the battle is over and Mandell is sitting firmly on the throne, it appears that McLarnin, although outclassed, is in for a more profitable summer than the man who showed him up as an unfinished product.

By demonstrating his superiority in such convincing fashion, Mandell seemingly knocked himself out of further competition for a while, whereas McLarnin can go back and take on all of the other challengers. A return bout with Terris would be a good bout in New York. There is a possibility that McLarnin had his last chance to win the lightweight title when he bowed to Mandell, for he has no yet stopped growing and has difficulty making the weight of the division and probably will wind up a welterweight. And only three years ago Baby Face fought Pancho Villa in the late flyweight champion's last appearance in the ring. Villa was a sick man that night and died the next day from the effects of a swollen throat and infected teeth.

LOOKS LIKE TOUGH YEAR

Is the small crowd which turned out for the Mandell-McLarnin bout a barometer of what may be expected during the remainder of the year? If so, it is a foregone conclusion that the heavyweight thing between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney will not cause any casualties in the rush to purchase pasteboards. Ringside seats retailed for $16.50 for the Mandell fight, which was expected to be a humdinger, and a crowd of a little more than 20,000 instead of the expected 60,000 was on hand. The Tunney fight will have a $45 top. If the fans are watching their dollars and cents these days, as appears to be the case, Tex may well wrinkle his brow as he begins to dig into his Tunney fight worries.

The Mandell-McLarnin fight crowd could have been taken care of in Madison Square Garden, thus eliminating the Polo Grounds rent and three postponements.

DEMARCO K. O. STAR

Cuddy DeMarco is bounding along at a great rate since his last appearance in a local ring. He has won seven of his last eight bouts by knockouts and is mixing up his boxing with hard punching in an effective manner. Last night he stopped Mickey Grogan, of Omaha, in two rounds at Fairmont, W. Va., and last Thursday night he handed Mickey Fedor a beating in 10 rounds at Massillon, O. Prior to the Fedor fight he swept through to a series of knockout victories over Otto Pietz at Youngstown, Phil Marotta at Salem, O., Tony Burns at Clarksburg, K. O. Yutzy at Cumberland, Tommy German at Terra Alta, W. Va., and Eddie Klesch at Charleston. Cuddy is back in Charleroi, where he is working out daily with the Mid-Atlantic League baseball club and playing golf regularly as part of his conditioning work. He scaled 135½ pounds for last night's battle.

HOCKEY gossip may be rather out of season, but even though Pittsburgh is not going to have a team of her own next winter, followers of the ice game throughout the district probably will be interested in some shifts proposed for some figures that are well-known locally.

Following the rumor that Odie Cleghorn, former Pittsburgh manager, is likely to be made pilot of the Montreal team, comes the announcement of a wholesale shake-up in the New York Americans.

It is said that Shorty Green is to be dropped as manager, and that five or six other players are to also be released.

Shorty Green.

THE original list of those booked to get the gate included Lionel Conacher, former Pittsburgh captain, but when the news spread that the "Big Train" was on the block so many offers were received for him that the Americans decided to keep him.

The team will be almost completely made over. One of the new men to be taken on is Jesse Spring, who played for Pittsburgh three years ago, and who is wanted for utility roles,

FORMER UMPIRE WINS SUIT FOR DAMAGES

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—Mal Eason, former umpire in the Pacific Coast League, has been awarded damages of $650 because Frank Brazill, former thirdbaseman in the circuit, used his fists in expressing his opinion of an Eason decision.

Yankee Ace Beaten, 2-1

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 23.—(AP.)—John McHugh, San Francisco amateur golfer, was eliminated in the British title hunt today, when he lost a stoutly-fought match to Sir Ernest Holderness, former champion, 2 up and 1 to play.

Starting with unusual thrills, the feature match of the day, after three holes, settled into a neck-and-neck fight, not decided until the Californian dropped the 12th and 13th holes and was not able to recover.

The titled Englishman gave the youngster from the Golden West plenty of opportunity, but McHugh's putter refused to function. He missed a couple of holeable, although none too easy putts, and the match ended at the 17th after the last four holes had been halved.

The Holderness-McHugh encounter was the big event of the day and a huge gallery trailed the players in fine golfing weather. Although defeated, McHugh established himself as a golfer of the first flight by battling the favorite for the title almost to the last hole.

YANK WEAKENS

After leveling the match for the last time by winning the eleventh with a fine three, McHugh proceeded to lose the next two holes. His tee shot found a bunker at the twelfth and he let the thirteenth slip away from him when his second shot to the green ran down a little hill to the left and he had to chip back, while Holderness was well on in two.

This lead by the former British champion was difficult to overcome so close to the home green, but the Englishman gave the American a fine opportunity to square accounts again.

McHugh's second was well on the fourteenth while Holderness went into a bunker guarding the green. Sir Ernest, however, came out perfectly and halved the hole in 5's when McHugh took three putts, missing one from four feet.

The fifteenth was halved and then Holderness offered McHugh another chance by driving into the rough at the sixteenth. McHugh was well on in two and had a five-foot putt to win, but it was from a difficult angle and he missed. The match ended when the seventeen was halved.

Although McHugh's putter failed him on the critical last holes, he had some ill fortune with his putts at other stages of the match, three twisting out of cups when they would have meant holes.

The cards:

McHugh	5	3	5	4	4	4	5	4	6	—40
Holderness	5	2	8	4	4	4	4	5	4	—40

Travels 3,000 Miles to Run 880 Yards

CONAKRY, French Guinea, May 23.—(AP.)—A 3,000-mile journey, one-third of it on a camel's back, is the little trip Rene Wiriath, a member of the French Olympic 1924 team and just now one of the best middle distance men under French colors, must take to report for 1928 Olympic duty.

There will also be a matter of a difference of some 30 to 40 degrees of temperature, according to the thermometer, between Sierra Leone and Amsterdam.

Wiriath for the past three years has been employed by the French administration here. Entitled to a vacation in France this summer, he went into training some months ago and his chiefs informed the Olympic committee of his remarkable performances. The ministry of colonies advanced his vacation three months.

TITLE REGATTA DRAWS RECORD ENTRY LIST

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP.)—A record-breaking list of 20 crews is entered for the three events of the intercollegiate championship regatta at Poughkeepsie, June 19, it was disclosed when the draw for positions was announced by Reynolds Benson, secretary of the board of stewards.

The previous record entry of 19 crews was established in the 1925 regatta and equalled last year. This year's list includes seven varsity, six junior varsity and seven freshman crews representing seven institutions — Washington, California, Navy, Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse and Pennsylvania.

Washington and the Navy have entered crews in all three events for the first time.

The list may be increased by the addition of Wisconsin, in the varsity or freshman races, or both, but the Badgers have not yet decided what they will do, Benson said.

The draw for positions, numbered from the west shore out on the Hudson River course, resulted as follows:

Varsity (four miles)—Navy, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Washington, California and Columbia.

Junior varsity (three miles)—Pennsylvania, Navy, Washington, Columbia, Syracuse and Cornell.

JAP OUT OF RACE

Jap, Downtown Y runner who won the Mt. Washington marathon in 1926 and 1927, will not defend his laurels this year, electing to run in Youngstown, O., rather than in the local event. The Youngstown race is one of 16 miles, and is to be staged on May 30.

WIFE JAILS HUSBAND IN RACE CONTROL PLEA

MOTHER OF 13 AWAITS LAW'S ACTION

International News Service.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 23.—Unrelenting after having her husband jailed and unforgiving of the misery he has caused her, Mrs. Edith Cromwell, whose family problems have attracted the nation's interest, was waiting today for the law—if there is one in her behalf—to take its course.

Mrs. Cromwell, 41, had her husband, Edward, an $18-a-week teamster, arrested because he sees no reason to curtail the size of his family.

The case, which opens tomorrow, promises to be one of the strangest in legal annals. The prosecutor, James C. Shannon, has been working night and day to find some kind of a statute under which he can try the husband. Cromwell is at present being held under a breach of peace charge.

The wife, who has borne 13 children, would place her life in jeopardy if she were to have another, according to doctors. The husband cannot understand, or doesn't care to, and insists upon increasing his family, the wife asserts.

"I don't care if he never gets out of jail," Mrs. Cromwell declared. "He threatened to kill me when the police were here."

In the shabby surroundings which form the home of Mrs. Cromwell and her family she has willingly become the subject of many visitors. She gladly tells of her past life and seems to take pride in the fact that she has become the center of a country-wide interest.

When asked why she didn't get a divorce she said that she used to tell her husband she would, but it didn't have any effect. Besides, she declared, he threatened her if she attempted it.

ROCKET-DRIVEN AUTO HITS 100

BERLIN, May 23.—(AP.)—The "Opel rocket car," propelled by the explosion of rockets placed in the rear of the machine, was demonstrated for the first time on the Avus Speedway today, attaining a speed estimated at 100 miles an hour. Fritz von Opel was at the wheel.

The car started with a terrific roar emitting a sheet of flame and a cloud of yellow smoke as the successive rockets exploded. The machine gained momentum as one rocket after another, all of uniform power, was shot off, the car taking a lunge forward every time a fresh rock exploded.

Von Opel said the machine was not intended to revolutionize motoring, but was a practical step toward solution of the problem of flying at a terrific speed through the highest altitudes of the earth's atmospheric strata with the object of making a flight between Europe and America within a few hours or encircling the earth within a day.

A motor-driven airplane, he said, ceases to be effective at the highest altitudes because of inability to carry a requisite amount of oxygen. This obstacle, he said, can be overcome by the rocket system formula which he said was discovered in an old Latin manuscript of 1420.

Von Opel did not attempt to attain a maximum speed in today's trial, but will make an effort next month on a straight-away railway stretch with a car on rails to shatter existing speed records.

WEST VIRGINIA DOCTORS URGE DEFECTIVES' HOME

DIVORCES DOUBLE HERE IN 10 YEARS

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

Divorce has doubled in Allegheny county in 10 years. Official records tell the story.

In 1917—the year the boys went to war, there were 794 divorces. In 1927 there were 1442. Many more applied and were turned down. Furthermore, marriages are becoming fewer and fewer every year in the county. In 1917 there were 12,128 weddings, last year 10,652. The peak was reached in 1920 with 13,718. The same year there were 1,269 persons freed from their mates.

In 1927 there were 306 divorced males married in Allegheny County. And 422 women decided they might have better luck the second time and took another chance at wedlock. In 1927, 306 men and 422 women once divorced, remarried.

By far the greater majority of divorces here are secured on grounds of cruelty. Next comes desertion. Oh, such a handy way out of matrimony and into alimony.

Washington statistics just given out show: "Divorces have increased for more than a quarter of a century at a far greater rate than the growth of the population."

FALL FATAL TO SCHOOL HEAD

A six week's illness caused by a fall in her home resulted in the death yesterday at Columbia Hospital of Miss Jeanette M. Eaton, principal of the Belmar Public School. Miss Eaton broke her arm and dislocated her shoulder in her home at 7036 Frankstown avenue early in April. She was organizer of the Italian Womens' Club in Homewood and was president of the Theosophical Club of Pittsburgh.

Miss Eaton, born in Barnesville, O., first taught in Liberty School here. She was president of the Pittsburgh Womens' Club, a member of the Principals' Club, the New Era Club, Homewood Womens' Club, Highland Chapter of the Eastern Star, Brashear Association, Civic Club of Allegheny County, Womens' Civic Club and the American Federation of Human Rights. She was chairman of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship fund of the Congress of Womens' Club. She was a member of the Homewood Presbyterian Church. She leaves two brothers.

PIG'S SQUEAL USED AT LAST

CHICAGO, May 23.—(AP.)—The pig's squeal, long lamented as the only portion of a porker for which no utilitarian purpose has been found, came into its own last night. It became a police alarm, summoning officers to Thirty-ninth and Throop streets, where they found three men trying to put a pig in an automobile.

"Lend us a hand," said Jack Crawby, one of the three, to the officers. "This is my uncle's pig and her name is Emily, and she got into the stockyards by mistake."

"How could you tell," inquired Sergt. Michael Conway, "that out of 16,000 pigs in that pen, this one was Emily?"

"If she isn't Emily, she's very much like her," was the reply. "I'll bet uncle won't know the difference."

The officers gave the three men a hand with the porker, but instead of loading her into the car, they dropped her back into the pen. Then they arrested Crawby, John Fogarty and Michael O'Donnell.

The three then explained that "the girls" had offered to cook some bacon for them if they could bring some home.

"How could we know?" asked Crawby, "that one pig's squealing would start the whole 16,000 yelling for the police?"

"Mutton would have been better," commented O'Donnell. "I told them so. Mutton is quiet-like."

TELLS OF HELP GIVEN GIRLS

What is Pittsburgh doing for its girls?

This is being determined today at the William Penn Hotel, where the Pittsburgh Girls' Conference is being held under the auspices of that organization and the Social Workers' Club.

It is a one-day institute with several of the charitable and social organizations aiding.

Miss Eleanor J. Flynn spoke this morning on "What Pittsburgh is Doing for Its Girls," and told an interesting story about a survey where 500 questionaires were sent out to various groups interested in girls' work. It showed that more and more persons are becoming interested in the problem of preventing mistakes and aiding the unfortunate girl in finding herself, as well as aiding the fortunate.

Miss Helen M. Harris, chairman of the special recreation committee, spoke on "Youth in the Mud." She told a mining town story that was a revelation. In 10 weeks 2,500 mining town mothers, children and young boys have been schooled in recreation. It was discovered that the children didn't know how to play. The older boys and the mothers were almost entirely unable to relax. This is a problem that will receive a great deal of attention and study.

A luncheon was held at noon in the William Penn ballroom and the afternoon session will begin at 3 o'clock. Miss Elizabeth Campbell, president of the Girls' Conference, and Wilbur C. Batchelor, president of the Social Workers' Club, are presiding over the sessions.

TWO LOSE $380 TO BUNCO MEN

Search is being made by city detectives and police today for three men who swindled Frank Chicosca, of 626 Smithfield street, and Leo Ivanowski, of 3411 Butler street, out of $380. Chicosca lost $240 and Ivanowski $140. The fugitives, police report, were selling "smugged" cloth cheap. One wore a sailor's uniform. An unsuccessful attempt was made to swindle Harry Valinsky, of 1700 Center avenue. All three Pittsburghers are photographers.

CHECK REVEALS 78 ESCAPED MINE ALIVE

MATHER, Pa., May 23.—Altogether 78 men got out of the ill-fated Mather mine alive, it was revealed last night by Frank Armstrong, general manager of the Pickand-Mather Colleries Company, of Cleveland, who rushed here from Ohio Saturday night when notified of the explosion. Of this number, only one man died. He is Field Whitney, who succumbed in the Waynesburg Hospital Monday. Five are still in the hospital, but they are recovering rapidly, physicians declare.

The increased number of survivors was revealed to Mr. Armstrong by William Eaton, an assistant mine foreman, who reported that all of the men under him came out of the main shaft safely and quietly lifted their checks in the lamp house, but their miraculous escape was not noted until the final checkup last night. Their escape does not alter the original estimate of the number of dead, which has been definitely set at 197 by company officials, after a careful check of the lamp house checks and the payroll.

DEATH BLAMED ON ALCOHOL

Harry McCarthy, 43, of Providence, R. I., died in the City Hospital at Mayview today, three days after he was injured in a fight in the hospital.

Hospital attaches said McCarthy had attacked another patient, Robert Parker, and that when an attendant, Charles Baker, sought to pacify him, McCarthy hit the attendant with a chair. When the fight was ended McCarthy's jaw was fractured.

Dr. J. S. Hammer, superintendent of the hospital, said death probably was due to acute alcoholism. An autopsy will be held.

Germany Can Pay; Loans to Her Safe, Authority Says.

By B. C. FORBES

WILL Germany ever be able to repay all the millions—about a billion—American investors, through American bankers, have lent to her?

Will Germany continue to meet her reparation burdens? And will it be possible to transfer the payments to other countries without causing chaos?

These are timely questions, especially as investors here probably will be invited to supply much more capital to Germans.

EXTREMELY reassuring replies come from one authority on the spot, Robert Crozier Long, correspondent of the London Economist, who has spent eight studious years in Germany. He presents these replies in "the Mythology of Reparations," just published by Duckworths, London.

That title was chosen because the writer declares that nearly all current notions about reparations are myths. It is a myth, he states, that the payment of the mark annuities is imposing a serious strain upon Germany. It is a myth that it may be impossible to convert them into ally exchanges without depreciating Germany's currency.

American investors need not fear, he continues, that interest or principal of their loans to Germany may be imperiled by a shortage of dollars in Germany. The so-called "transfer problem" need not worry Germany's public creditors, the Allies, her private creditors or American investors.

THE only danger to the successful operation of the Dawes plan, in the author's judgment, would be premature interference or revision by the Allies.

LONG predicts that Germany probably will have no difficulty whatever in creating an export surplus to pay reparations as soon as she ceases to import goods paid for with borrowed—mostly American—capital. From the German foreign trade figures of 1926 he shows that she actually did during a whole year create an export surplus adequate to meet the reparation liability.

He holds that the transfer committee of six international experts is an inactive and wholly superfluous organ. He cites the agent for reparations' reports to show that transfers were effected with ease during the first three years.

SUBJECTING Germany's production, savings, and loans to minute analysis, Long shows that production has increased enormously since the war; in 1927 it greatly exceeded the pre-war production in the old national era. Iron, steel and lignite outputs have doubled during eight years. New industries which hardly existed in 1913 have attained vast dimensions.

GERMANY'S current savings have grown so rapidly from year to year, he shows, that they already exceed the reparations liability six or seven times, and that the more earning powers of the savings accumulated in the past three years almost cover the maximum reparations annuity of $625,000,000.

HE quotes the Frankfurter Zeitung's estimate that, after payment of reparations, Germany saved $1,750,000,000 in 1925, $1,875,000,000 in 1926, and $2,225,000,000 in 1927. He adduces official figures to show that Germany in three years and despite the reparations burden, was able to invest nearly $7,000,000,000 in expanding her industries and her communications. Foreign loans, which totaled $2,200,000,000, provided only a fraction of the capital needed, he argues. The greater part was provided out of the excess of national production over national consumption.

The whole economical surplus available for reparations in three years he puts at $6,465,250,000, and shows that the $995,000,000 paid for reparations was only 15½ per cent of the available surplus. Hence, 84½ per cent was retained and added to national wealth.

LONG holds that the foreign loans have proved a potent instrument of German economical recovery and that they can create no danger for Germany's balance of foreign payments.

That American capital of late invested in Germany is entirely safe, is his verdict.

ALL these are Crozier Long's statements, not mine. Let us hope he proves a true prophet.

STOCKS SWEEP UP LEAD BY AEROS

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—A sweeping recovery in prices took place in today's stock market. With the technical position of the market obviously strengthened by the recent sharp decline, operators for the advance had little difficulty in staging a rally, which was stimulated by active short covering. Airplane stocks and several high priced specialties rallied 5 to 12½ points, while more moderate gains were recorded by the standard rails and industrials.

Trading was only moderately heavy in volume with the ticker keeping abreast of the market during the first three hours. So many complaints have been received against the 2 p. m. closing hour that governors of the exchange are expected to restore the five hour trading session at their meeting after the close of the market today.

Revival of bullish sentiment was encouraged, in part, by the more favorable overnight news developments. The sharp advances in Wright and Curtiss presumably were influenced by the announcement that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had decided to accept the post of chairman of the technical committee of the newly organized Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc. The crossing of the million mark by freight car loadings for the first time this year also was a bullish factor, although traffic is still running below the corresponding period last year.

A slightly easier undertone also was noted in the money market. Call money held firm at 6 per cent, but time money was again available at 5¾ per cent for the shorter maturities with 5½ for the longer dates as compared with a rate of 5¾ to 5⅞ yesterday.

Houston Oil scored the largest individual gain by moving up 12½ points to 152⅞. Curtiss climbed 10 points and Wright 9¼. Radio was marked up 8 points and Ludlum Steel, General Motors, Montgomery-Ward and Consolidated Gas sold 4 to 6 points higher.

Gimbel Bros. ran up 5 points to a new peak at 49½ on reports that new interests had bought into the company. Marlin Rockwell, American Bosch Magneto, Pierce Arrow common and American Home Products also moved into new high ground.

Rockland, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Atchison, New York Central and Southern Pacific were the leaders in the railroad group. The price of Minneapolis and St. Louis were cut in half, dropping from 2⅝ to 1⅜ on a recommendation of a master in chancery that a degree of foreclosure be granted to satisfy claims of creditors.

The closing was strong. The late aggressive purchasing movement showed very general disregard of current monetary conditions, prices of many specialties soaring to new peaks. Houston Oil got up 16 points in all, American International 8, and Postum, Montgomery Ward and American Linseed, 5 to 6. Old-time favorites, like American Can, Studebaker, Woolworth, General Electric and International Harvester, ruled 3 points or more higher. Total sales approximated 2,600,000 shares.

STEEL OUTPUT TAPERING

NEW YORK, May 23.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Mill operations are tapering, but the gradual character of the decline is testimony to the large volume of steel passing directly into consumption. With prices no longer buoyant, consumers are ordering sparingly and, in some instances, are delaying purchases in the hope of buying more advantageously later. This spirit of caution is reflected not only in new business, but in a reduction in the average size of individual specifications. Shipping orders in the aggregate, however, show surprisingly little change.

Steel output in the greater Pittsburgh district has dipped to 75 per cent, compared with a recent rate of 80 per cent of capacity.

The volume of tonnage still reaching the mills is all the more impressive when the uneven tendencies of consumption are considered.

Specifications for automobile body sheets remain heavy. Some interruption in the flow of steel to motor car plants is expected, however in about 30 days.

The structural steel outlook continues good, although awards of fabricated work for the week were light. Prices of primary materials continue to give ground.

Merchant producers of pig iron are encountering increasing competition from steel company furnaces as steel output tapers.

For the third successive week The Iron Age pig iron composite price has reached a new low level. It is now $17.34 a ton, the lowest figure since 1915. Finished steel remains for a third week at 2.348c a pound.

Harmony Woman, 86, Gets Permit To Fish

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 23.—"Fishing," observed Mrs. Angeline Williams, 86, of Harmony R. D. No. 1, as she took out a license at the county treasurer's office for her favorite sport, "is one of the few things an aged person can do fully as well as a young person." She will spend a week or two fishing for bass.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, May 23.—New upturns in the price of wheat resulted early today from persistent hot dry weather northwest detrimental to the spring crop. A maximum temperature of 98 in Canada was reported. Opening unchanged to ⅝c higher, wheat afterward showed a material advance all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firm, with corn starting at ¼c off to ⅝c up, and subsequently holding near to the initial figures.

According to detailed advices current today from one leading crop expert, wheat in South Dakota especially and in the southern section of North Dakota as well, is in poor condition from drought. A few strips of this territory were reported as having received moisture, but the greater part is deteriorating. Large districts of east and southwest Minnesota were also reported as very dry.

Another authority telegraphing from Fargo, N. D., said spring wheat is very backward because of insufficient rainfall. In South Dakota many fields are badly blown, and the stand in nearly all fields is very thin. North Dakota shows improvement, but practically ideal weather must prevail to insure a crop.

M. & St. L. Sale Recommended.

Sale of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad to satisfy claims of its creditors was recommended to the United States District Court at Minneapolis by a master in chancery, after receivership hearings extending over five years. The recommendation of Howard S. Abbott, master in chancery, said he had heard claims exceeding $55,000,000 and that the road's assets are insufficient "to meet its matured liabilities or its liabilities as they mature." William H. Bremner, president, and receiver of the road, while pointing out final action rests with the court itself, said he "supposed eventually the road will be sold and reorganized, possibly along the same lines used in the Milwaukee." The road has been in receivership since July, 1923, and Mr. Abbott reported during much of the time it had not paid interest on the outstanding mortgages and "it is apparent the continued operation by the receiver will not produce revenues sufficient to pay the unpaid interest and principal due and to become due."

Discuss Closing Hours Today.

The governors of the New York Stock Exchange will hold a special meeting today to consider the effect of the 2 o'clock closing, which was put into effect for the first time Monday. Some of the members of the stock exchange have filed objections to the 2 o'clock plan on the ground that their business was cut down, particularly from the outside points. Exchange governors said informally that the 2 o'clock closing was entirely experimental; that there was no definite plan in mind for its continuance even for the summer months, and that the immediate future policy with respect to the hours of operating the exchange would depend entirely upon the success or failure of the short-closing experiment.

The Phoenix Oil Company, formerly the Omar Oil and Gas Company, has completed drilling contracts in association with two large producing companies for drilling two tracts under their leases located in Pottawatomie county, Oklahoma. Work has been resumed on the company's lease in the Spring Creek district, Wyoming. Two "wildcat" wells located south and southwest of this property, have been brought in. Transferring the old Omar stock to Phoenix Company new stock is limited to June 30, and the bonus arrangement of common stock offered to the old Omar owners for such exchange into the new stock will be terminated that date. "The company's financial position is a source of gratification and satisfaction," said an official of the company.

Fisher on Texas Board.

William A. Fisher of Detroit has been elected a director of the Texas Corporation and the Texas Company to fill the vacancy brought about by the resignation of Thomas A. O'Donnell of Los Angeles. The new director of Texas Corporation, William A. Fisher, is president of Fisher Body Company, and he joins the directorate of Texas Corporation to represent the Fisher brothers who have recently become large investors in the company. Their purchases of stock are understood to have been made in the open market and while they are big holders there are several other interests in Texas Corporation regarded as being larger shareholders than the Fishers. Entry of the Fishers does not portend any change in management of Texas Corporation. Rather, it is purely an investment of substantial size which is complimentary to the Texaco management.

Shopping Among the Oils.

Oil stocks also have many friends who are willing to accumulate on a scale when the general market is reactionary. Standard of New Jersey appears to be growing in favor. Texas Corporation also has been meeting excellent buying recently. Confidence that conditions in the oil industry will become more favorable, especially with a continuation of decreased production, has been a factor which has brought buying into this group from time to time. A recovery in the general market might reasonably find the oils among the leaders.

Lincoln Building Financing.

First offerings of a series of bond and stock issues by which construction of the proposed 52-story Lincoln Building, designed to be the largest office building in the world, is to be financed, is made today in the form of $16,000,000 first mortgage 5½ per cent gold bonds of the Lincoln Forty-second Street Corporation. Additional financing for the structure, which will face Forty-second street opposite the Grand Central Station, will consist of $5,500,000 20-year 6½ per cent debentures; $1,600,000 6 per cent purchase money notes; $3,500,000 7 per cent preferred stock and 600,000 shares of no-par common stock.

Market's Underpinning Good.

Considering a 75-point break in Wright and Curtiss, say the bulls, the market has not acted as badly as some would expect. A 75-point break in two stocks with some other high flyers off 15 to 20 points or more would have been accompanied by general demoralization if conditions were not thoroughly sound. So far, according to a Dow-Jones analysis, the only influence a rise in the discount rate and money rates has had on bond prices is an average reduction from a high of 99.48 to 98.74, or less than three-quarters, on 40 corporation bonds. Washington dispatches say June government financing has been postponed because of the belief that high money rates will be temporary, and this may be the reason for continued small bond yields in the face of 6 per cent money.

International Coal Conference.

Between 60 and 70 scientists and fuel technologists in 11 different countries have tentatively accepted invitations to speak at the Second International Conference on Bituminous Coal which will be held at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh during week of November 19, 1928. The list includes about 40 Europeans whom Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the Carnegie, personally invited while making his recent two months visit in Europe in the interests of the coal conference.

Westinghouse Electric.

That Westinghouse Electric stockholders can look forward to increased dividends in the coming years is the belief in many circles. This is based in part on the fact that the expansion program of the company, which required about $10,000,000 over the past few years, has been virtually completed and no further large outlays for this purpose are expected in the near future. Productive capacity of the company, it is said, would allow for 25 per cent increase in business without material additional construction. This eventually should mean larger earnings and leads to the expectation of more favorable treatment for stockholders.

KSU Sells "Katy" Holdings.

Lenor F. Loree, chairman of the Kansas City Southern Railway, announced that the company had sold to Ladenburg Thalman & Co. and the National City Company of New York 267,616 shares of common stock of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, all of the remaining holding of that stock. Holders of the common stock of Kansas City Southern road of record June 4 have the right to purchase from the bankers on or before June 25, 50-100 of a share of M.-K.-T. common stock for each share of Kansas City Southern held by them, at $33 a share. Warrants will be issued about June 5. The disposition of this stock completes the liquidation process ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission when it refused to permit Mr. Loree to merge the Missouri-Kansas-Texas road with Kansas City Southern and the St. Louis Southwestern. A new plan for the merger has been submitted to the commission, with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas road (Katy) as the basis of the unified system. Under the plan it will be necessary for Katy stockholders to acquire a majority holding of Kansas City Southern and St. Louis Southwestern (Cotton Belt) roads.

Seasonal Hardware Activity.

Spring hardware lines, particularly garden and lawn tools and supplies, have been greatly stimulated during the past week, Hardware Age will say tomorrow in its weekly market summary. Western reports indicate slightly busier wholesale sections than those in the East, where the unseasonal weather has been the main retarding factor. Still better weather will quickly stimulate a heavy trade in spring lines in all sections of the country. Stocks are generally in a healthy condition, and prices are generally firm in all markets. Staple hardware is having a consistent call and collections are showing some improvement.

Trend of 1928 Profits.

The net income of 225 general business corporations for the first quarter of 1928 was $341,000,000, compared with $318,000,000 in the first quarter of 1927, says the National bank of Commerce in New York. This represents a gain of 7 per cent. The advance, however, is cut to 5 per cent when United States Steel and General Motors are excluded. The significant advances in the first quarter in the individual groups are:

No. of companies	Group	Advance (per cent)
18	Motor	28
8	Copper	28
13	Chain stores	18
9	Chemical	7
15	Motor equipment	6
23	Food mfg. and allied	4

Among the groups whose earnings declined in the first quarter of this year from the first quarter of 1927 were:

No. of companies	Group	Decline (per cent)
22	Petroleum	43
5	Railway equipment	43
18	Iron and steel	20
11	Building materials	16

Earnings of 27 public utilities during the first quarter amounted to $88,000,000 compared with $77,000,000 last year, a gain of 14 per cent. The net operating income of 186 class I railroads during the first quarter was $217,000,000, a decline of 4 per cent from the figure of $226,000,000 for the first quarter of 1927.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 23.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 10 to 15 points, July contracts selling up to 20.97 and October to 21.01 in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and private reports of heavy rains in some parts of the eastern belt. There was covering by recent sellers, or rebuying, and while the advance met considerable realizing, prices held steady on reactions of a few points at the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported continental liquidation absorbed by Bombay buying and fair trade calling in Liverpool, and also improved inquiry for cotton cloth for the Near East, although demand from India was slow in developing.

Offerings increased after the publication of the weekly weather report, which evidently was considered more favorable than expected, and prices eased off about to yesterday's closing quotations, with July selling down to 20.82. The decline was checked by covering and the market steadied later in the morning on reports of rains in the eastern belt. At mid-day July was selling around 20.90, with active months generally showing net advances of about 4 to 8 points.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 23.—There were no further sales in the raw sugar market early today, but the undertone was steady and while a small lot of nearby duty free sugars could still be had at 4.40c shipment sugars were generally held at 4.52c.

Reports of a better demand for refined sugar and more favorable advices from abroad seemed responsible for increased covering and some trade buying in raw sugar futures, with prices at mid-day showing net gains of 1 point throughout the entire list. There was considerable hedge selling on the upturn, but offerings were readily absorbed and the undertone was steady.

In refined prices were unchanged to 5 points higher, although list prices still ranged from 5.95@6.00c for fine granulated. A continued good inquiry was reported at the inside level.

Over 500 Miles of Concrete Highways in a Single County!

Wayne county, Michigan, (Detroit) has over 500 miles of concrete highways, with pavements from eighteen to eighty feet wide.

Nineteen years ago, this county built its first stretch of concrete road. Year after year, the Board of County Road Commissioners has continued building concrete highways, to complete a road system planned in 1906.

Many of the older pavements have been widened. Some have been torn up to make way for wider pavements at a different grade—but no concrete pavement has worn out!

No wonder Wayne County keeps on building concrete roads!

Pledge to the Public On Used Car Sales

1. Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.
2. All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.
3. Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used. (It is assumed that the car has not been damaged in the meantime.)

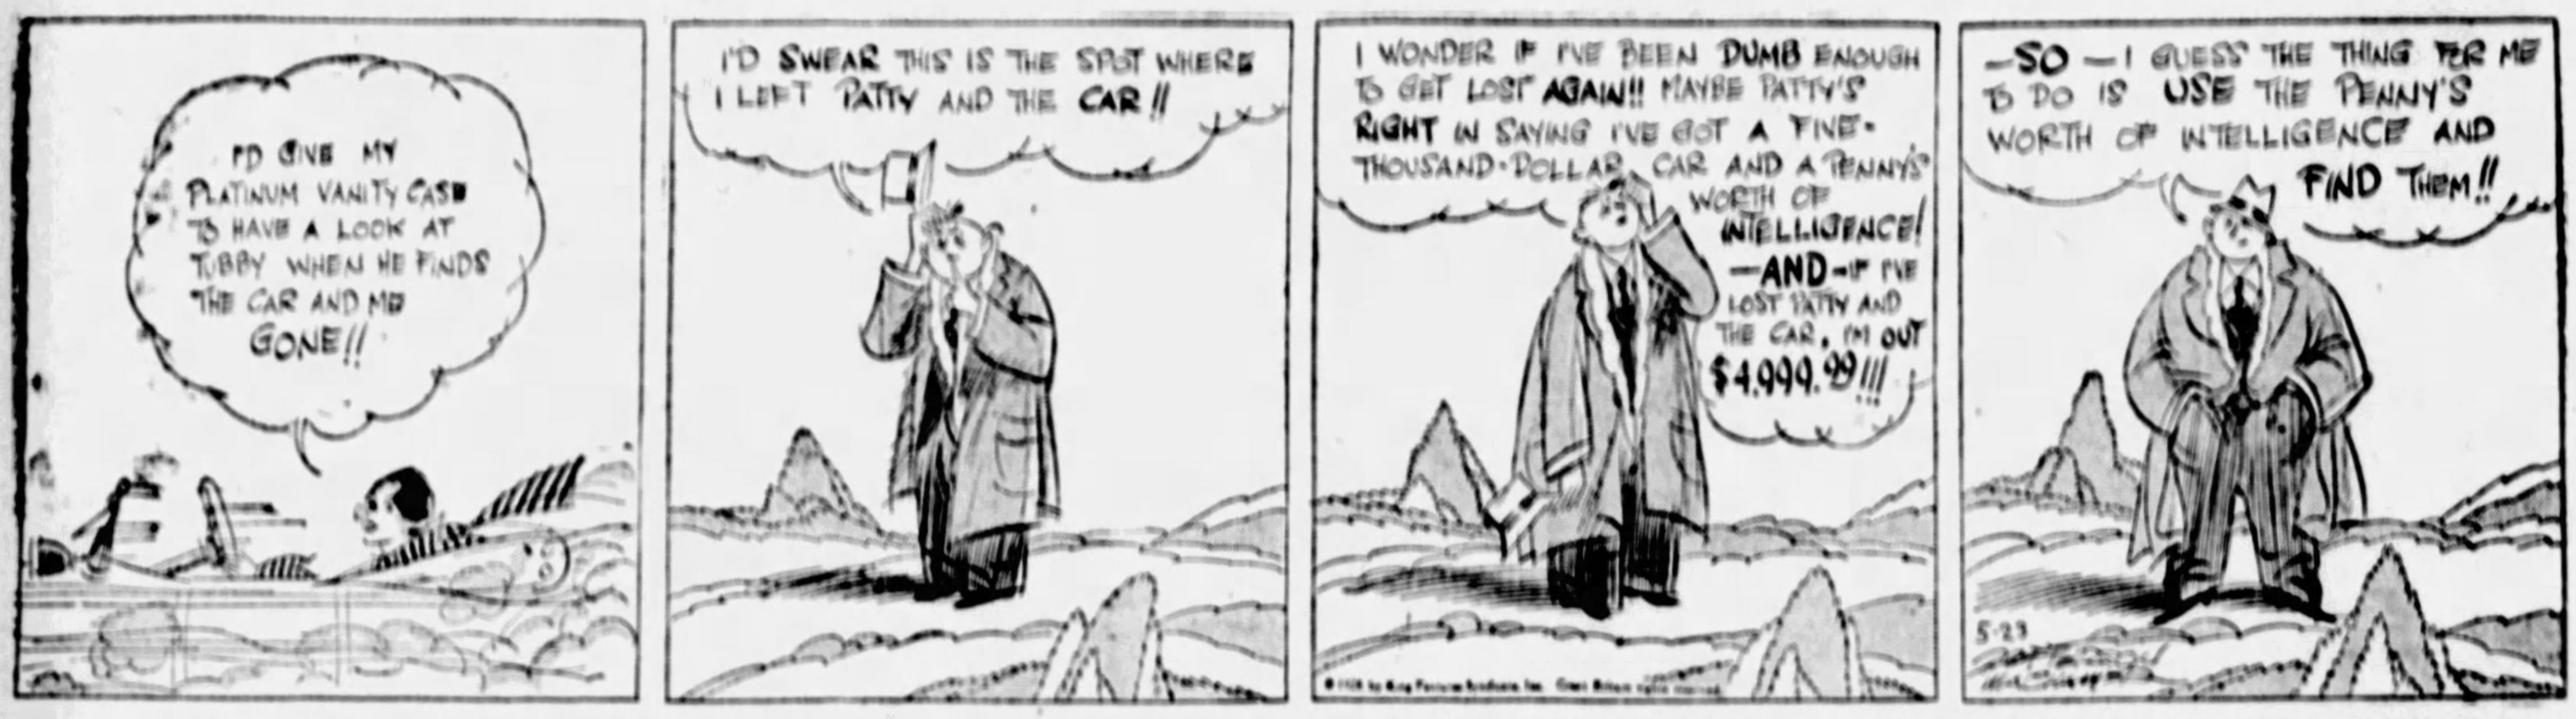
PETTING PATTY

Not a Bad Thought



I'D GIVE MY PLATINUM VANITY CASE TO HAVE A LOOK AT TUBBY WHEN HE FINDS THE CAR AND ME GONE!!
I'D SWEAR THIS IS THE SPOT WHERE I LEFT PATTY AND THE CAR!!
I WONDER IF I'VE BEEN DUMB ENOUGH TO GET LOST AGAIN!! MAYBE PATTY'S RIGHT IN SAYING I'VE GOT A FINE-THOUSAND-DOLLAR CAR AND A PENNY'S WORTH OF INTELLIGENCE! —AND — IF I'VE LOST PATTY AND THE CAR, I'M OUT $4,999.99!!!
—SO — I GUESS THE THING FOR ME TO DO IS USE THE PENNY'S WORTH OF INTELLIGENCE AND FIND THEM!!

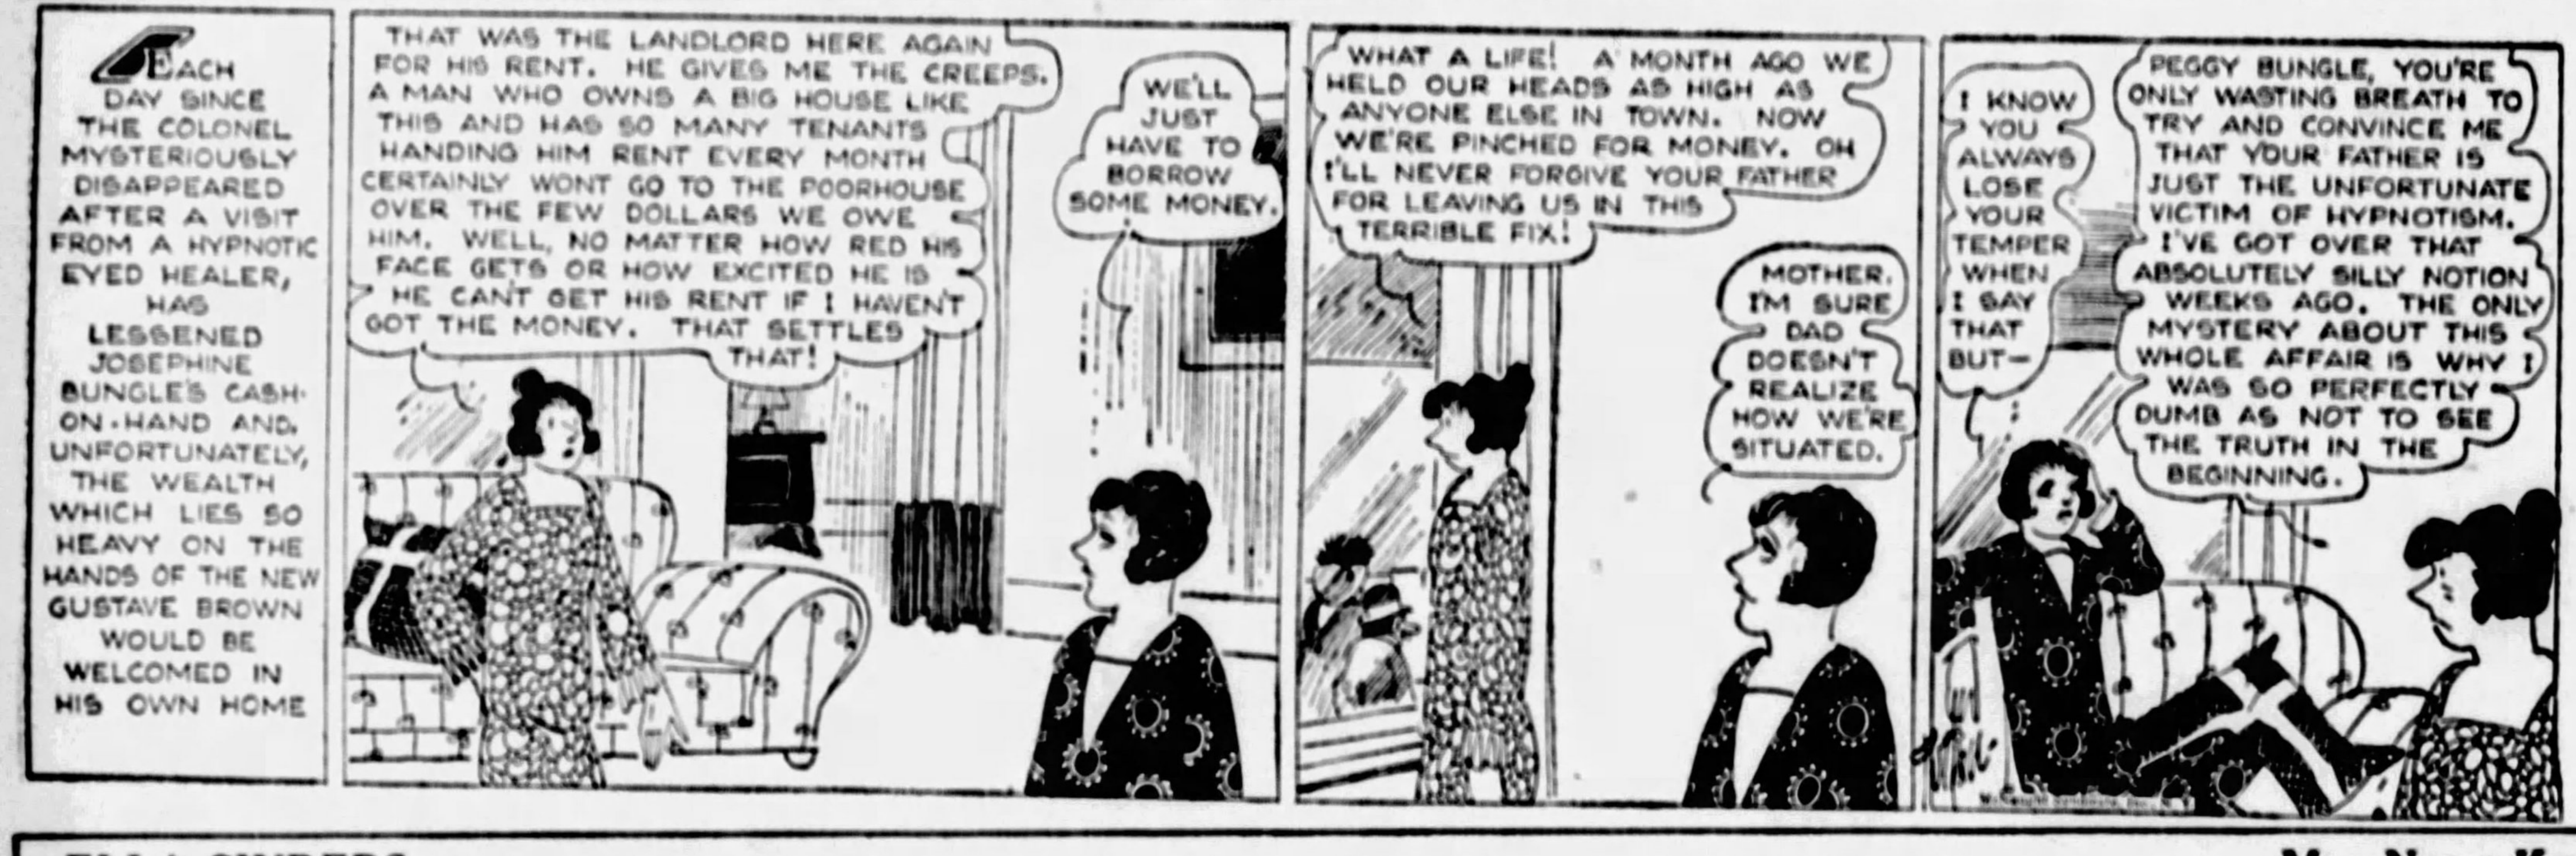
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

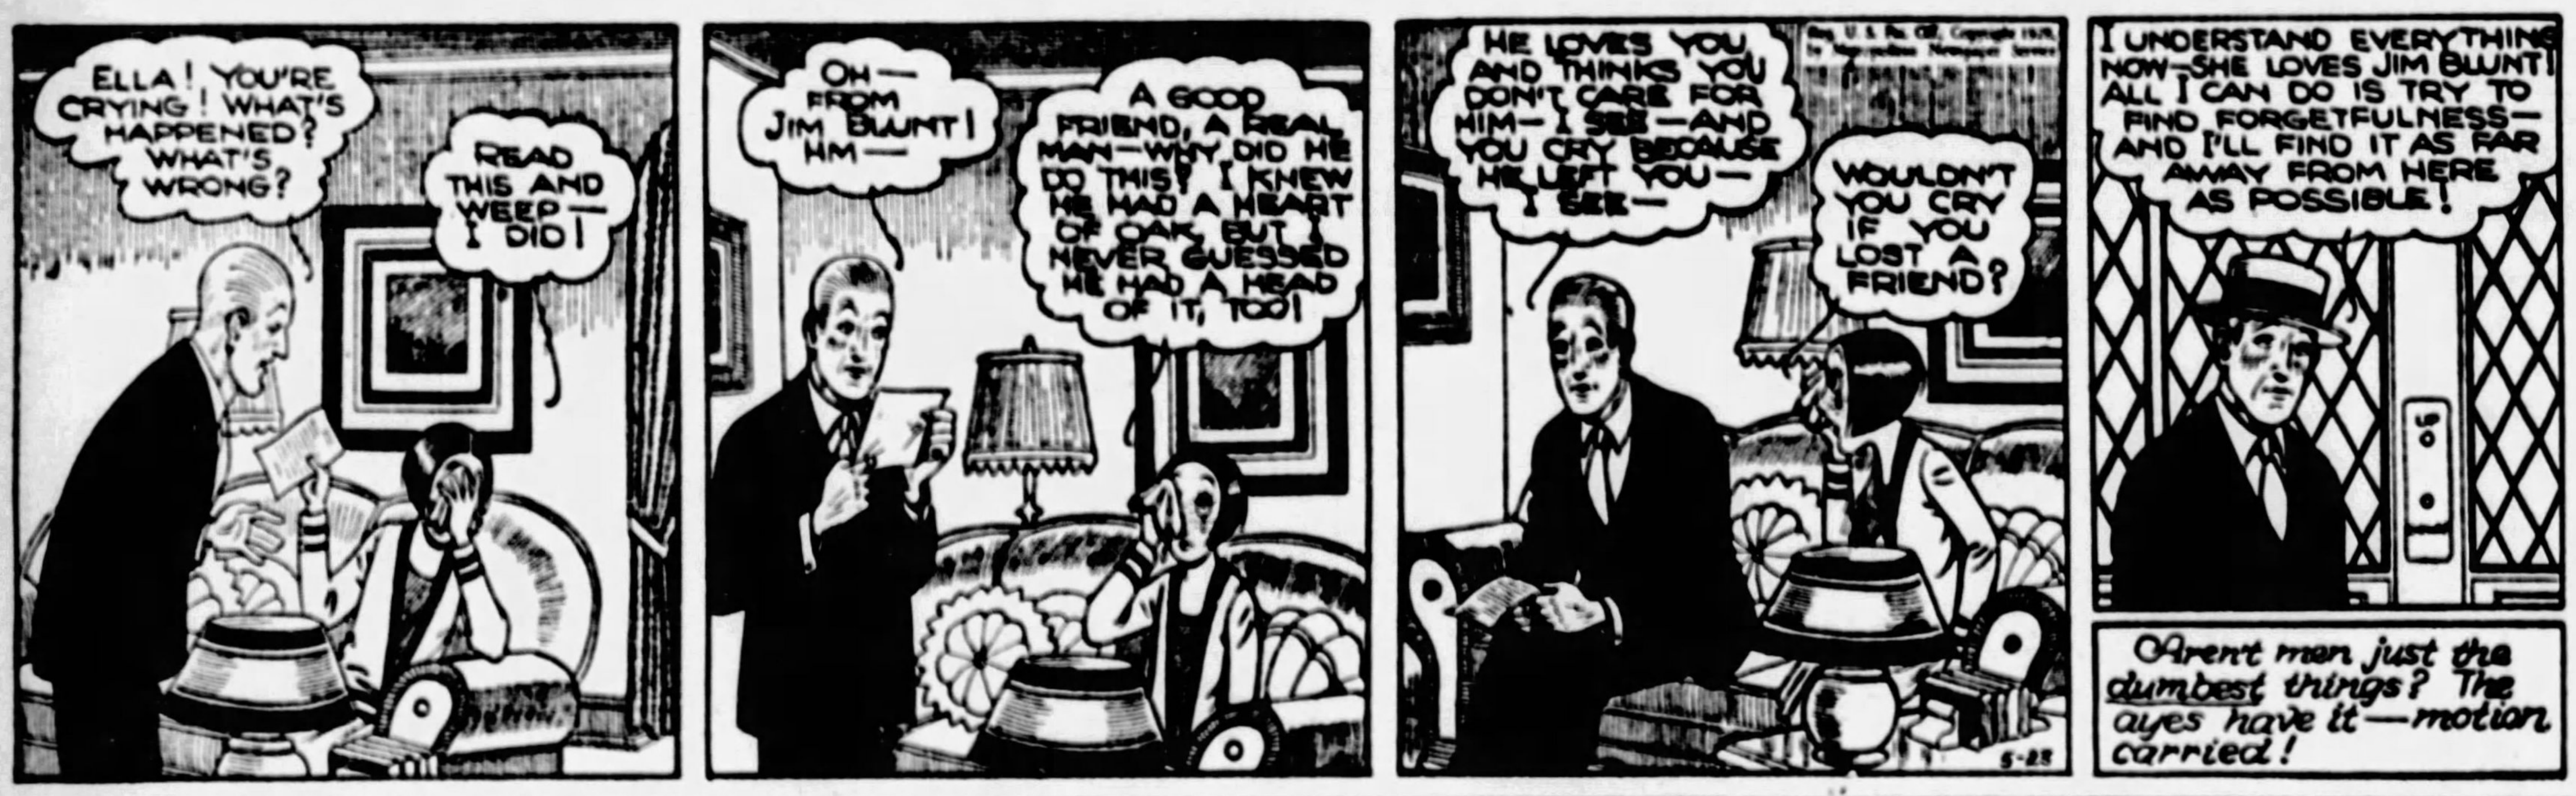
A Dark Day



EACH DAY SINCE THE COLONEL MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED AFTER A VISIT FROM A HYPNOTIC EYED HEALER, HAS LESSENED JOSEPHINE BUNGLE'S CASH-ON-HAND AND, UNFORTUNATELY, THE WEALTH WHICH LIES SO HEAVY ON THE HANDS OF THE NEW GUSTAVE BROWN WOULD BE WELCOMED IN HIS OWN HOME
THAT WAS THE LANDLORD HERE AGAIN FOR HIS RENT. HE GIVES ME THE CREEPS. A MAN WHO OWNS A BIG HOUSE LIKE THIS AND HAS SO MANY TENANTS HANDING HIM RENT EVERY MONTH CERTAINLY WONT GO TO THE POORHOUSE OVER THE FEW DOLLARS WE OWE HIM. WELL, NO MATTER HOW RED HIS FACE GETS OR HOW EXCITED HE IS HE CAN'T GET HIS RENT IF I HAVEN'T GOT THE MONEY. THAT SETTLES THAT!
WE'LL JUST HAVE TO BORROW SOME MONEY.
WHAT A LIFE! A MONTH AGO WE HELD OUR HEADS AS HIGH AS ANYONE ELSE IN TOWN. NOW WE'RE PINCHED FOR MONEY. OH I'LL NEVER FORGIVE YOUR FATHER FOR LEAVING US IN THIS TERRIBLE FIX!
MOTHER, I'M SURE DAD DOESN'T REALIZE HOW WE'RE SITUATED.
I KNOW YOU ALWAYS LOSE YOUR TEMPER WHEN I SAY THAT BUT—
PEGGY BUNGLE, YOU'RE ONLY WASTING BREATH TO TRY AND CONVINCE ME THAT YOUR FATHER IS JUST THE UNFORTUNATE VICTIM OF HYPNOTISM. I'VE GOT OVER THAT ABSOLUTELY SILLY NOTION WEEKS AGO. THE ONLY MYSTERY ABOUT THIS WHOLE AFFAIR IS WHY I WAS SO PERFECTLY DUMB AS NOT TO SEE THE TRUTH IN THE BEGINNING.

ELLA CINDERS

Men Never Know



ELLA! YOU'RE CRYING! WHAT'S HAPPENED? WHAT'S WRONG?
READ THIS AND WEEP — I DID!
OH — FROM JIM BLUNT! HM —
A GOOD FRIEND, A REAL MAN — WHY DID HE DO THIS? I KNEW HE HAD A HEART OF OAK, BUT I NEVER GUESSED HE HAD A HEAD OF IT, TOO!
HE LOVES YOU AND THINKS YOU DON'T CARE FOR HIM — I SEE — AND YOU CRY BECAUSE HE LEFT YOU — I SEE — WOULDN'T YOU CRY IF YOU LOST A FRIEND?
I UNDERSTAND EVERYTHING NOW — SHE LOVES JIM BLUNT! ALL I CAN DO IS TRY TO FIND FORGETFULNESS — AND I'LL FIND IT AS FAR AWAY FROM HERE AS POSSIBLE!

British golfers will meet the American Walker Cup team at Chicago in September.

This ought to silence critics who say that Englishmen lack courage.

British golfers will find it a severe handicap to play over a course which has a machine gun in every bunker and a "pineapple" in every cup.

Anyway, if the British win the cup, they will find no lack of stuff in Chicago to fill it with.

BULL-ETIN

"Roscoe ('Fatty') Arbuckle, who has returned from a European vaudeville tour, had to make an intensive study of French. Between the close of his first matinee in Paris and the evening performance he learned 1100 words in French, so he could put over his gags."

MY PLATFORM

O'er pre-election promises
I somehow can't enthuse
Unless they guarantee to change
The pre-election booze.

Take interest in your vote. I'm told,
But what we need this year
Is interest at the capital
In five per centum beer.

And should there dawn a happy day
When Volstead's rule is done
And someone says, "Come have a drink."
Oh, boy! I'll choose to run!

Today's Winner in Our Sad Story Contest

Sir—

Have you heard about the Scotchman who took his little boy to the beach? The boy wandered off and fell into the ocean. After a hard struggle a life guard rescued the little boy, just in the nick of time. A large crowd assembled around the life guard to congratulate him. The Scotchman elbowed his way to the life guard and asked if he was the man who had saved his little boy's life. The life guard answered in the affirmative. Whereupon the Scotchman demanded, "Where's his cap?"

Open Door

Japan Is Still Trying to Bolt It in China

Japan has served notice on nationalistic China that she will permit no fighting in either Manchuria or Shantung within 20 miles of the Shantung railway, over which she asserts control.

China's immediate answer is that powerful weapon of the weak, a boycott.

Both Shantung and Manchuria are Chinese provinces. Shantung, the home of Confucius, is the heart of China. It is not conceivable that, when China gains strength, the arrogance of Japanese interference in Shantung will be long continued.

Japanese investments and ambitions in Manchuria are larger than in Shantung, but they also rest primarily on force. An overwhelming majority of the population of Manchuria is Chinese.

The spirit of Japan toward China is evidently still the spirit of the outrageous 21 demands. Also the spirit which glibly promises the open door, then proceeds to lock and bolt it in fact.

There can be no just compromise with such a spirit. Whatever influence America possesses in the Far East should be exerted to check and eventually defeat it.

That is a necessity of our own trade in China as well as an expression of our rightful sympathy for the natural aspirations of the Chinese people.

In the long run it will be a kindness to Japan itself. For unless Japan halts its insolent grabs in China voluntarily, they will one day be halted by processes which will bring suffering and humiliation to the Japanese people, many of whom are already disgusted with the chauvinism of their government.

Vaccination "Nonsense"

All It Does, Is to STOP Smallpox.

Do you believe that vaccination for smallpox is nonsense, that the falling off in smallpox mortality is due to general cleanliness and has nothing to do with vaccination?. Do you believe that vaccination simply means "planting filthy disease germs in the blood of innocent children, etc?"

It may interest you to know that among all the nations of the world with one exception the United States has the greatest amount of smallpox, and that smallpox cases are most numerous where vaccination is resisted. Interesting coincidence, isn't it?

Nice American Girls

And All Happy

MOTHER, DAUGHTER, FRIEND

The lady smiling on the left is Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of the powerful Mark Hanna and widow of Medill McCormick, recently Senator from Illinois. The pleasing young girl in the middle is Katherine McCormick, daughter of Ruth McCormick, and the lady on the extreme right is Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, who expects her husband, the Speaker of the House, to be elected President pretty soon.

With Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick it isn't "pretty soon." She has triumphantly won at the primaries in Illinois, and will undoubtedly be chosen Congressman-at-Large from her state.

She OUGHT to be elected, and good citizens of Illinois should be proud to vote for her. An earnest woman, she will represent in Congress sincerity and intelligence, good qualities of American womanhood.

Apart from politics this picture should interest you, for young American women are the nation's hope.

The young girl in the middle may be the first female President of the United States, who knows?

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Practical Psychology

PROFESSOR KNIGHT DUNLAP, of Johns Hopkins University, in a recent address before the American Association, while developing some interesting theoretical considerations which we cannot study here, related experiences of his own which anyone can repeat and test for himself.

Like many persons who use the typewriter, Professor Dunlap has been annoyed by the occasional transposition of letters in rapidly typing familiar words. One of the most common of these transpositions is that which produces the nondescript spelling "hte" for "the." One might exhaust considerable ingenuity in trying to analyze the state of mind or nerves which produces this phenomenon, but Professor Dunlap, without recording his impressions of the precise cause of the effect, told how he succeeded in overcoming the habit.

Assuming a certain postulate of his own, namely, that "a response has, in itself, no effect on the future probability of the same stimulus pattern producing the same response, and may have the effect of decreasing the probability," he said:

"I now proceeded to try the typing of 'hte' voluntarily, as a means of destroying it. I set to work deliberately and wrote about a half page, single spaced, of the 'hte' combination, with the futuric thought that this was a 'word' that I would not write in the future (unless deliberately and voluntarily). Somewhat over a week later I followed this with a second 'practice period,' writing less than a third of a page. This was over three months ago. Since that time I have typed many pages, some rapidly, but have not found on reading them over a single case of 'hte.' This may sound too easy to be true, but as a matter of fact a long-standing and troublesome habit has disappeared."

Professor Dunlap had a similar experience with auto-driving. "Having just changed from driving a Ford," he said, "to operating a gear-shift car, certain minor vices of technique, such as a tendency to step on the accelerator when meaning to apply the brake, manifested themselves. The application of the catharsis method seems to have overcome these faults very quickly."

Professor Dunlap suggested that this "catharsis method" might have enormous value in application to a host of troubles and defects of response and conduct, including stammering and other speech defects. In fact, he says, it is "hard to set the limits of possible application, and from present indications a vast number of hitherto insoluble problems may be solved in this way."

• • •

He thinks that one of its most important applications may be in the explanation of dreams. "The dream is a process of eliminating, or 'forgetting' details of mental (waking) performance which it is useful to take out of the habit-systems, either because of their irrelevancy or because of their interference with orderly mental life. . . . All we need to assume, for the present, is that conditions are favorable during sleep for operation of eliminative factors, whatever these may be."

Health

ONE of our largest life insurance companies recently classified geographically the death rate among 18,500,000 carefully picked policy holders. The classification upsets a number of preconceptions.

It shows that the healthiest sections of the United States are, in order, the Pacific slope, the mountain states and New England. Our Northwest comes fourth, the Great Lakes district fifth and the region in which we live sixth. There are nine districts in the list.

Queerest of all, the death rate for the United States as a whole is lower than that of Canada. On an average seventeen fewer Americans per hundred thousand than Canadians die annually.

We do not have recent figures of Canada's success in battling for better health, but those in our own country are encouraging.

Since 1900 the American death rate has fallen from 17.6 per thousand to 12.2. In little more than half a century the life span has been increased fifteen years. An American child born today, if having average good fortune, may expect to live for 57.74 years.

Once Overs

Costly Pride

WHAT is the use of longing to enter a plane of society where you would be little more than tolerated?

The financial effort to keep up would bring constant worry.

You maintain at present an unstable place in the society where you are received.

It is hard for you to keep up in the circle to which you belong.

If you went where there would be more demands, you never would have financial peace.

Still, perhaps, you would forego peace of mind to satisfy your vanity.

And that vanity would be sorely crushed if you did manage to wedge in and then found out what was thought of your efforts to get in by those you admire so greatly.

Be sensible and adapt yourself to conditions.

It is false pride that is responsible for most of the financial worry you have had.

You might be going along in an easy, happy way, laying aside a little each year if pride were not your master.

Pride is a poor paymaster.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Superman

HE towers high above his fellows' heads,
His place a lofty one since time began,
Exempt he goes from weaknesses and dreads,
Among men, yet apart, the superman.

For him the clearer vision which must gauge
The better plan, the wiser course to take,
His, too, the dauntless hardihood to wage
Unceasing warfare progress still must make.

He lifts a load too heavy for the rest,
And still with eager step he sets men's pace;
Serene, triumphant, for within his breast
He knows himself a leader of the race.

Belated

DURING the Senate's discussion of the tax on golf club dues, Senator Robinson asked this pertinent question:

"Why should there be a tax on the right to indulge in wholesome, healthful entertainment, exercise or occupation?"

The answer obviously is that in normal times there shouldn't be. Ten years after the war emergency the thing to do with all such nuisance taxes is to repeal and forget them.

Tales that are Told

Nothing Doing

ROBERTSON got up and shook hands with the doctor. Then suddenly he remembered his wife's last remark when he had set out.

"Oh, by the way, doctor," he said, "I dare say my wife mentioned the fact that she was getting a little deaf the other day."

"She did," murmured the doctor. "But there's nothing for her to worry about, Mr. Robertson. It's merely an indication of advancing years, you can tell her."

Robertson looked hard at the other.

"Oh, no, doctor," he said decisively—"no, doctor. You're the man to tell her that!"

Wide Awake

IT WAS after dusk and yet the two young people sitting close together in the park made no attempt to depart.

Presently a keeper came in sight, going his rounds before closing the gates.

"Sorry to disturb ye," he said to the idlers, "but it's too late for ye to be sitting here."

The youth was apologetic.

"I didn't realize it was quite so late," he murmured. "We are going to be married next year."

"Sure, now," returned the park-keeper, "do you think I'm fool enough to suppose you was married last year?"

Too Literal

ALL the morning the teacher had been explaining to her pupils how words with double letters should be spelt.

As an example she told them "poor" ought to be spelt, p-double o-r, and not p-o-o-r.

In the afternoon the children had to read aloud from their books, and it was rather unfortunate that the opening sentence ran: "Up, up, Lucy, the sun is in the sky," for the bad boy of the class whose turn it was to read first shouted joyfully:

"Double up, Lucy, the sun is in the sky!"

Quite Safe

AN OLD LADY was going down a coal mine for the first time. As the cage descended she noticed how she and the rest of the party were dependent upon a single rope to which it was attached.

"Do you think it's quite safe?" she asked a miner, as she glanced at the rope.

"Safe as the bank, ma'am," returned the miner, cheerfully. "There's nothing to be afraid of. These ropes are guaranteed to last exactly 12 months, and this one ain't due to be renewed till tomorrow."—London Tit-Bits.

Whoa!

AT A horse fair in a country town all sorts and conditions of horses were being offered for sale. The auctioneer stood ready to begin business, which looked like being pretty bad.

An old farmer came up with an aged steed gone in at the knees and walking on three legs.

"How much?" asked the auctioneer.

"Fifteen pounds!" came the stolid reply.

The auctioneer looked pained and surprised.

"I want to know your price—not the weight of the animal?" he remarked.—London Tit-Bits.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 23.—The chief reason for the night club debacle—and it still debacles—was not due entirely to sneering at suckers who pay $1.50 for a six-cent bottle of gingerale and a two-dollar fee for the privilege of drinking it. The big blow was the private home bar.

Most well-regulated establishments in New York now have their own bars, and "playing saloon' is a favored indoor pastime. Thus more or less hectic parties have been transferred to privacy from those public haunts where derbied gents were likely to pounce in swinging raiding axes.

Real old-fashioned bars are acquiring the commercial value of rare paintings, and two factories in Jersey are devoted entirely to turning out new ones of all sizes. Some are tiny affairs so mechanically contrived that they disappear at the push of a gadjet.

In one Park avenue drawing room, the occupier can brush aside a floor rug, touch a button, and a section of the floor slides back to reveal a circular stairway leading to an elegantly equipped bar. Another bar is in an apartment house tower.

It can only be reached by a private elevator. The lift is unleashed by the correct manipulation of a combination lock, such as those on safes. Entrance to still other whoopsie-daisies may be through what looks like an innocent bookcase section, but which is a cute sliding door.

Many of the bars attempt to ape the jovial rowdiness of the swing-door saloon. There are frosted mirrors, cruets of spice, orange peel and other halitosis destroyers, cuspidors with yawning necks, sawdust on the floor, and nude pictures on the wall.

The most colorful bar is reported to be in the maison of Peggy Joyce, the gem collector. It is so picturesquely equipped, the report says, that even bar-tenders with roached locks, bicycle handlebar mustachios and huge sparkling scarf studs are on duty. The illusion ends abruptly, I am told, for Miss Joyce serves only soft drinks.

There is a mild cigaret manufactured in Boston, especially favored by New England ladies who smoke. A Boston lady tells of stepping into a drug store on Sixth avenue to inquire for a package.

"Certainly," replied the clerk, and she was piloted into the rear through a door into a well-equipped bar. Recovering from her bewilderment, she explained she was seeking cigarets, and not a drink. Then it developed the secret pass word to the bar was the same as the name of the cigarets.

I just turned to the "Help Wanted" columns of a morning newspaper, after reading of a big ball held by the Bartenders' Union. There were a string of ads, of which the following is typical:

"Wanted — Experienced drink mixer. One who has had experience dating back to ten or twelve years ago preferred. Private family."

We who squeezed out a salty tear for the plight of the old-time barkeeper might have saved it for another Helen Morgan night club raid or something. The old-time barkeep can find a job in a speakeasy any time, and double, and sometimes triple his former salary. In addition his freedom in short changing is greater. The hush-hut patrons are usually too pie-eyed to squawk. And few would go to court to press a gypping charge.

* * *

But the silliest of all the drink-mixing doo-dads comes from London. It is a silk hat with tiny flasks to hold the ingredients of a cocktail, as well as a diminutive shaker. Now I ask you!

* * *

A school to teach gentlemen the proper art of walking has opened in the Grand Central district. "A graceful walk is the most distinguishing thing about a gentleman," says a huge sign over the doorway. That completely discourages one whose natural gait is that of a fellow who has just had a long ride on a camel.

Gilded Youth

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Every once in awhile somebody breaks out with the accusation that the world is going to the dogs; that young people are more frivolous than they used to be, that old people are the only ones who realize their responsibilities and that when they die wisdom will die with them.

I have always had the conviction that the young people of today are more soberminded and more openminded and altogether more serious than were the young people of yesterday.

The very fact that they are digging into the foundations of things and asking Why about things that their elders always accepted upon authority indicates that the young people are anxious to establish their thinking upon a correct basis.

Those who have much to do with young people of both sexes realize that while some of them may be "jazz mad" and foolish, the great majority of them are serious.

Many people think that boys go to college nowadays merely for athletics or amusement or social privileges.

It is refreshing to have the colleges and the universities give us a few statistics that negative the idea.

These figures prove that the young people of today are occupying themselves with higher education so as to be better workmen, so as to better assume the responsibilities of life; and also that while they are doing this they are either partially or entirely supporting themselves.

Not very long ago the boy who engaged in self support while he was at college was looked down upon. He may not have been snubbed or persecuted, but he just simply was not known. And girls who were working their way through school were rare.

Today an increasing number of students are going to school without a rich father to send them and are making their way by their own efforts.

Some of them are musicians and play in dance orchestras. Some girls play at musicals and teas.

Some universities maintain employment bureaus. The students wait on tables in dining halls, do housework, act as manager for fraternity houses, do typing and stenography, work in the gymnasium and do all sorts of stunts. Most of these jobs are paid by room and board.

These students are going to school because they want to. They are driven to school by a thirst for knowledge, and the chances of their making good are much larger than if this education was handed to them on a silver plate.

Right Angles

By ALEXANDER CAIRNS

Far From Happy

A SPLENDID scholar, who does me the courtesy of reading my column, writes me with a pen dipped in tears.

He says he is far from happy and enumerates a catalogue of sorrows which too often prove a corporal's guard to conduct one to suicide.

Himself reincarnated in a stalwart son who breathed out his life amid the red blowing poppies of Flanders' fields in the pugilism of war. In this he has the sympathy of a hundred million allied hearts.

The mother of this son, the sweetheart of his own years, could not long survive the passing of her dream boy nor endure the nostalgia of other worldness. In this my kindly reader has the sympathy of all who have come to an abrupt end of a married life which was a lovers' lane bordered with wild roses.

During a sickness stretching through tedious and painful months, a band of respectable Fagins filched his fortune and left him to face alone unborn, precarious years. In this only the Shylocks of trade will withhold their compassion.

Back again in the professional harness he finds his olden clientelle, like Levites, passing by on the other side because of the antipodes of social and religious thought. In this he is akin to the great Galilean who trode the thornpath of prejudice.

The cap sheaf of my friend's sorrow is this, that the religious creed which bolstered and comforted him from youth till midmanhood has gone and left him to the spiritual step-mother of atheism.

Right or wrong, this is doubtless life's supreme tragedy. Faith is the almoner of health and longevity. Religious though it be as crude and rude as unchisseled marble holds within it an angel of peace.

In this bereavement my friend lives an atonement with every other valiant brain that ever sailed the wild seas of speculation and was shipwrecked on a barren island.

And my friend couches the epitaph of his letter in the suggestion that heart-break and loneliness may lead to suicide.

And all his other tragedies rolled into one would not equal the hell of that epitaph. Shakespeare said it for all men for all time. One might indeed make his quietus with a bare bodkin, but he deems it wiser to suffer the ills he has than to fly to others that he knows not of.

But there are panaceas for my friend; his friends in buckram standing on the shelves with outstretched hands; speculative excursions through the delightsome purlieus of thought; adventures in untried fields of art or study of what-not; social give-and-take with partners of even single ideals and ideas; honeymoons with nature in her infinite charms; work that lures like a siren and compensates like a philanthropist.
